MR. HOOVER is catching trout in Oregon.

Gov. Smith is catching kingfish and swimming in the ocean off Long Island.

It is the lull before the political storm. And it will be a real storm when it starts, with new features.

REPUBLICANS realize that they have a hard fight ahead in New York state. Already it is announced that Hughes and Borah will stump New York in October. The big guns will be used for the hard fighting.

KILLING men by electricity is old, but Joseph Kamenisky's killing was unusual.

Only 20 years old, Kamenisky confessed he killed Dr. Gerald Kelly, because the latter had advised the amputation of Kamenisky's leg, injured in a mine accident.

When he found he couldn't work as a miner, Kamenisky became a murderer, for revenge. He hobbled to the electric chair on crutches.

That was the novelty.

GENE TUNNEY, whom certain prize fight "fans" don't like, because he has brains and they haven't, retires from the ring. That, it is said, will "hurt the game," which is too bad. No matter what champion they may develop to collect money from fools, it can never be proved that he could have beaten Tunney.

TUNNEY, you read, "is going to Paris to study philosophy." An excellent place. The Sorbonne is well equipped.

But the important thing is to BE a philosopher, not merely a study of other philosophers.

If Tunney can take his $2,000,000, quickly earned out of prize fighting, and stay out he will have proved himself a real philosopher.

MR. EASTMAN, king of all kinds of photography, announces perfected moving pictures in colors. With that announcement, pictures reach full development, MOTION, COLOR, SOUND.

Now you will see the heroine's, or the vampire's rolling eyes, hear the voices that lure men to their doom. The moving picture stage will show all that the living stage can show.

Talking movies will put a premium on intelligence. A cultivated voice indicates a cultivated mind, and cannot be created over night.

SCIENCE offers an idea to prohibition enforcement. It is not necessary to break down the speakeasy door. Simply shoot a little gas, the right kind, through the keyhole, and all the speakeasyites will come hurrying out of their own accord. The place would be uninhabitable for a month. And the gas is guaranteed not to kill the speakeasy customers.

THAT is one way to discourage bootlegging. The simpler way is to jail the bootleggers' customers. The bootlegger can square things with police and the prohibition officials. But the millions of bootlegger customers couldn't do it. Jail the man who buys alcohol and you will stop the buying.

AND that would be done if the country really meant to stop the traffic. In New York you look out of a window on a rainy day and see small boys with umbrellas standing at the curb ready to escort ladies and gentlemen from their taxicab to any one of half a dozen speakeasies' basement doors.

The small boys, collecting their dimes, know where the speakeasies are. The police MIGHT find out, if they were interested, so could government officials.

MORE discipline yesterday for the little fish that WILL persist in stock speculation. The price of "call money" was put up to 6 per cent and the fear of a 7 or 8 per cent rate sent the poor in spirit scurrying to unload.

RETAIL trade in New York is up. Wholesale business drops, not because of less selling, but because chain stores, every day more powerful, buy direct from factories, going over the heads of wholesalers and jobbers.

Not good for the latter, but if eliminating one middle man eliminates one profit, paid by the consumer, the consumer will not complain.

THE American Federation of Labor's official organ announces that unemployment is diminishing. The number of organized wage earners out of work decreased 2 per cent in 24 cities during June, as compared with May.

Will Gene Emulate Jeff?

(International News Service.)

NEW YORK, July 31.---Gene Tunney is through with boxing. He said so himself today. The long expected announcement materialized at a luncheon given boxing writers at the Biltmore by Tunney. Gene stated his reasons very fully. There is no contender capable of attracting a large purse. It would be two or three years before another is developed and that is too long for him to wait, and so he "steps aside."

"May the best man win," he says in his swan song.

"To the victor belongs the spoils," he echoes, and that may mean the return of the redoubtable Dempsey, but Gene doesn't say that.

"A Sportsman"

To show his admiration for the game that brought him from the station of a humble shipping clerk to the estate of a millionaire, Gentleman Gene will offer a championship belt to go to the winner of an elimination tournament.

As to his future plans Tunney is less definite. He still is young, he avers, and will start anew in another "line of business." Whether this business is to be matrimony, the stage, films, stocks and bonds or the pursuit of literary endeavors, he fails to state.

Admiration for the game and a bow in the direction of Tex Rickard are other features of this quite unique retirement communique.

If he were to fight again (and they do say they all do come back sometime), it would be for good old Tex Rickard, whom he calls the game's foremost promoter. He acknowledges a debt of gratitude to the fistic impressario who made him and bows himself out of the fight picture with the boxer's traditional "Good luck."

"FAREWELL!"

In announcing his retirement, Tunney said, in part:

"Boxing is a game which, properly conducted, teaches and develops such qualities as stamina, confidence, patience, self-denial, bodily fitness, mental alertness and courage.

"I have great affection for boxing and one of my chief desires has been to leave the game better than I found it. I have tried to be not only champion, but a sportsman.

"But the time had come when professional boxing can offer me nothing further that I desire. I am putting it behind me, grateful for benefits conferred, but with the feeling that I am yet young enough to make a new start in other fields.

"There is no contender at the present time who appears capable of attracting real public interest. If there were I might delay my retirement long enough to face him in the ring, but it looks as if it might be two or three years before a dangerous opponent is developed. That is too long to stand and wait.

"MAY BEST MAN WIN!"

"If I had fought again it would have been for Tex Rickard. I regard him as the foremost boxing promoter of all times. Realizing that another champion will follow me, I can think of no more capable hand than Rickard's in which to leave the selection of such a man, especially as he will necessarily be guided by the advice and assistance of another man to whom I owe more than I can express.

"There could be no more fitting time than this for me to pay tribute to the untarnished honor, the wise counsel, the generous friendship and the lion heart of that grand old man of sport, William Muldoon.

"Under these circumstances it is my desire to place in the hands of Tex Rickard a belt or other suitable emblem of supremacy to be awarded by him to that boxer who, through a series of elimination bouts or victories over the most formidable opponents that can be obtained, shall prove himself deserving of it.

"I have no thought of trying to nominate my successor. To the victor belongs the spoils. I merely step aside and say May the best man win.'"

GENE TUNNEY
(The Fighter)

IN HIS farewell to the ring, Gene Tunney says:

"I have fought my last bout as a professional boxer.

"I have no thought of trying to nominate my successor. It is my desire to place in the hands of Tex Rickard a belt to be awarded to that boxer who may prove himself deserving of it. To the victor belongs the spoils. 'May the best man win.' (The belt would be emblematic of title to the championship.)

"There is no contender at the present time who appears capable of attracting real public interest.

"If I had fought again it would have been for Tex Rickard.

"I have a great affection for boxing, and one of my chief desires has been to leave the game better than I found it.

"I HAVE TRIED TO BE NOT ONLY A CHAMPION, BUT A SPORTSMAN.'"

AX STRIKES POLICE DEPT.

Sweeping changes in the Bureau of Police were announced today by Public Safety Director James M. Clark, which reduced one inspector, three captains and four lieutenants to lower positions. One detective was dismissed, four reduced and two retired.

The changes were made with the approval of Mayor Charles H. Kline and it was reported they were made only for the "good of the service."

After announcing the changes today, Director Clark said that more changes might follow.

CLANCY REDUCED

The bigest change was the reduction of Inspector J. P. Clancy to the detective bureau. His place is to be filled by Capt. James N. Noey.

Capt. John Hogan of the Second District, was reduced to a wagonman and his place will be filled by Harry J. Mellon, lieutenant of traffic. Capt. Dan C. Ambrose was reduced to a traffic lieutenancy.

Lieut. Nuncie C. Marino was promoted to a police captaincy and Patrolman William Fullerton, of the Third District, was elevated to Marino's old post.

In the Fifth District Capt. Alfred W. Bassett was reeduced to a detective and Lieut. Dennis F. Hennessy was made captain. Patrolman Robert W. Buel was appointed lieutenant.

The following lieutenants were reduced to patrolmen: William J. Burke, traffic squad; John J. Callan, Central Station; Frank J. McFarland, South Side, and James J. Rogan, Penn Avenue.

These patrolmen were elevated to the position of lieutenant: Frank J. McNichols, Edmond M. Fallon and Thomas F. Gross.

M'GOUGH RETIRES

In the detective bureau P. E. Moran was dismissed from the service and Peter A. Connors, Thomas A. Grogan, Charles Rosenblatt and Walter V. Kaiser were reduced to patrolmen. Edward T. McGough and Patrick J. Delehanty were retired at their own request.

To fill the vacancies in the detective bureau these appointment were made: A. M. Maloney, former alderman First ward; John B. Hanna, Seventh ward; Patrolman Thomas Morgan, E. H. Schindell, Twenty-first ward; Patrolman William J. Lavery; Precinct Detective John M. Flavin and Patrolman Michael P. Carney.

Transfer of three lieutenants were also made, John A. Jones to East End, from Penn avenue; Albert C. Good, from afternoon to night, and David Fitzsimmons, from East End to Hazelwood. Burd L. Renn was appointed a patrolman.

POISON PEN LAID TO TEACHER

Accused of writing poison pen letters, Miss Bezona H. McKenzie, 40, a teacher in the Munhall High School, living at 920 Berkshire avenue, Brookline, is defendant in a suit for $10,000 damages filed in Common Pleas Court today by Otto E. Pritchard, 29, of 1139 Woodbourn avenue, Brookline. Excerpts of letters alleged to have been written to Miss Anita Coffman by Miss McKenzie are quoted in Pritchard's affidavit.

According to Pritchard's allegations, Miss McKenzie also is known as J. S. Smith and is employed under this name at the Munhall schools.

LETTERS QUOTED

In the suit brought by Attorney Mayer Sniderman, counsel for Pritchard, several alleged poison pen letters are quoted. Pritchard had been calling upon Miss Coffman and it is alleged that the school teacher attempted to break up their friendship by addressing letters to Miss Coffman.

Miss Coffman formerly had lived with Miss McKenzie, it is said.

A letter quoted is one alleged to have been written by Miss McKenzie on February 26, 1928, to Miss Louise Prischak, a sister of the plaintiff. The affidavit explains that Pritchard's name formerly had been Prischak before having it changed by order of court.

Pritchard avers that he has been degraded and held up to ridicule by the alleged letters and as a result was discharged from his employment.

C. M. Johnston, president of the Munhall school board, declared the allegations of Pritchard against Miss McKenzie had been aired at a board hearing more than a month ago, and the teacher had been

CHRYSLER CREATES GIANT IN DODGE UNION

Novelist Wins Suit -:- Figures in "Bird of Paradise" Plagiarism -:- Producers Must Pay

16 YEARS

Success now ends Mrs. Grace A. Fendler's efforts of 16 years to gain recognition for her novel. Only a judge's signature is necessary to force payment to her for plagiarism.

PRODUCER

The novel was produced on the stage in 1911, running until 1920, as "The Bird of Paradise," one of the most successful of all stage shows. Oliver Morosco was producer and it made him a success.

NOTE

The play brought fame and fortune to Laurette Taylor, among other actresses. The courts have ordered the producer and author to pay Mrs. Fendler, former newspaper writer, all the profits.

BOUNTY

Mrs. Fendler, now aged 80, has been living on the bounty of friends, but when payments are made she will be wealthy. Morosco must pay, orders the court, $608,361.

STAR

"Bird of Paradise" made a star of Lenore Ulric as well as making "successes" of the author and producer. Mrs. Fendler is to receive, the court figures, $781,891 from the two men.

THEFT

Richard Walton Tully "wrote" the play, but Mrs. Fendler charged it was pirated from her novel, "In Hawaii." She started her action in 1912. Tully's share of the payments is $173,536.

CHRYSLER-DODGE UNION NEW MOTOR GIANT

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—A giant new automobile corporation, second only to the Ford Company and General Motors, comes into being through the merger of Dodge Brothers, Inc., with the Chrysler Corporation, which has just been completed.

The combined companies have estimated total assets of $700,000,000, production capacity of 700,000 cars a year and a potential earning power of $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 a year. The Ford company has assets of $724,056,000 and General Motors has $1,098,477,500.

Completion of the merger came 10 weeks after conferences were started between Walter P. Chrysler, head of the Chrysler Corporation, and Clarence Dillon, head of Dillon, Read & Co., which had purchased Dodge Brothers, Inc., from the widows of the founders.

Formal ratification came yesterday, when the board of directors of Dodge Brothers, meeting in Baltimore, were informed that 90 per cent of all three classes of Dodge stock had been deposited and they voted to accept the merger plans as drawn up by Mr. Chrysler and Mr. Dillon in New York two months ago.

The merger had been hanging fire since early in July because of the failure of Dodge stockholders to deposit their stock and was brought about by a last minute entry into the open market by Dillon, Read and Company, who purchased enough shares of Dodge preferred stock to comply with the requirements set by Mr. Chrysler.

CHRYSLER IN CHARGE

Mr. Chrysler will assume the presidency of Dodge Brothers Corporation, which will operate as a division of the Chrysler Corporation, the vice presidents of the Chrysler Corporation enlarging their duties to include the same positions in Dodge.

Clarence Dillon will become a member of the finance committee of the enlarged Chrysler Corporation, and it is expected that E. G. Wilmer, president of Dodge, will become a director. H. T. Keller, vice president of the Chrysler Corporation, will become vice president and general manager of Dodge Brothers.

Dodge shareholders will exchange their stock for Chrysler Corporation shares on the basis of one share of Chrysler for each Dodge preference share, one share of Chrysler for each five shares of Dodge class A common and one Chrysler share for each 10 shares of Dodge class B common.

IRON WORKER DIES IN FALL

A fall from the roof of the Oliver Iron and Steel Company's plant, South Side, this morning, caused the death of Alexander Maskay, 23, of 2541 Waverly avenue, Swissvale. His neck was broken. He was a structural iron worker.

HOMESTEAD BOY LATEST CHILD VICTIM OF AUTO

Struck by an automobile yesterday, John Dixson, 6, of Virginia avenue, Homestead Park, died last night in Homestead Hospital of a fractured skull. The driver, Clyde Swisher, 504 Baldwin avenue, Hays, was released under $1,000 bail pending the coroner's inquest.

GANG STEALS RENTED CAR; PAIR FORCED TO WALK BACK

Held up by six Negroes, all armed and masked, in Washington boulevard early today, John Geisler, 20, ot 5529 Columbo street, was forced to turn over his money, $10, and the car he had rented from an East End agency and he and Miss Henrietta Askins, 18, 718 North Euclid avenue, were forced to "walk back" while the robbers rode off in the machine.

Geisler and Miss Askins walked to the Frankstown Avenue Police Station where they reported the robbery.

Geisler told police he and Miss Askins were parked near the Brilliant Pumping Station when the party surrounded the car. He said the bandits took even his driving license.

White's Rap at Al Eased

International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 31.—Following the publication this morning of a review of the legislative record of Gov. Al Smith while he was a member of the New York Legislature in which William Allen White, Kansas editor, charged Gov. Smith had voted consistently with Tammany to protect the saloon, gambling and vice, White today issued a statement modifying and withdrawing some of his charges.

White's statement follows:

"Yesterday talking to Walter Lippman, of the World, a friend of Gov. Smith and of mine for many years, I learned that Gov. Smith was deeply aggrieved that I should charge him with protecting gambling and prostitution in his assembly record. I can understand after considering what Mr. Lippman said that the governor in casting those votes against those reform bills might honestly have felt that the bills were unconstitutional or were not enforcible or infringed upon personal liberty or encouraged police blackmail.

"These bills did not so impress others who voted for the bills, but Gov. Smith certainly is entitled to fair treatment. I always have tried to fight fair. I have never consciously questioned any man's motives, and so this morning before the morning papers have come and before I know what, if any, reply Gov. Smith has made to my statement, I desire to withdraw the charges formally insofar as they affect his votes on gambling and prostitution, but not his position as to the saloon.

"On the question of the menace of Tammany and of Gov. Smith's Tammany record for the open saloon the whole issue of the campaign is becoming organized.

"Protected prostitution is quickly passing out of American life and that issue is not vital. But vital or not, I could not in good conscience press this issue realizing that Gov. Smith, whom I greatly admire for his many high qualities, feels that my charges question the purity of his motives which always should be granted in any political controversy. So the 10 or a dozen votes on gambling and prostitution come out of the record.

"I hope now American newspapers and particularly Republican newspapers will give the same consideration to this statement that they gave my statement yesterday."

"The board gave Miss McKenzie a clean bill of health in this matter," declared Johnston, "and we have faith in her and commend her work. Pritchard at that time was invited to come before the board and make his charges, but he failed to appear. Miss McKenzie, who is known by no other name in her relations with us, was fully vindicated by the school board."

TRUCK DERAILS CAR, TWO HURT

Two persons were injured and several others were shaken up when a truck crashed into an East Liberty express car at Penn avenue and Seventh street last night. After derailing the car the truck broke off a water plug, flooding the sidewalk.

The truck, being driven in Penn avenue by William Faulkner, 20, of 4829 Blair street, crashed into the car as it was turning from Penn avenue into Seventh street. Mrs. J. C. Kurtz, of 4 Hagy place, a passenger, and Conductor Walter Smith, of 811 Oakwood street, were cut and bruised. Faulkner was arrested by Cornerman Joseph Flick.

Last Call! Vote on Machine

Announcement that this was the last week of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph machine-gathered vote on the presidential candidates was like a last call to dinner.

It seems that everybody who did not register his or her vote during the previous five weeks of machine balloting is determined to cast a vote on the machines this week.

Yesterday started the sixth week off with a large vote, more than 1,234 ballots being registered on the various machines about the district.

Bridgeville, in spite of a community picnic out of town, registered 429 votes, 287 of them going to Smith and 142 to Hoover. Braddock, impatient at the long wait for a machine, flocked to The Smoke Shop, 735 Braddock avenue, and rolled up a 9-to-4 vote for the Democratic candidate. McKeesport was waiting for the machine yesterday morning, hundreds of citizens crowding the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad station platform for a chance to cast votes for one or the other of the presidential nominees.

The City-County Building continued its interest in the machines, and a heavy vote was registered at The Sun-Telegraph Want Ad corner, Fifth avenue and Market street.

When Western Pennsylvania goes to the polls in November to vote on the proposition of amending the constitution of the commonwealth to permit the use of the machine ballot instead of the present ballot box style of voting, thousands of persons will know what the mechanical vote means in point of speed, accuracy, safety and simplicity.

ELEVEN HELD IN HILL LOTTERY DRIVE

Eleven Negroes were held for court today in the police drive against lotteries in the Hill district.

In Morals Court, Magistrate A. D. Brandon held James Hughes, alleged proprietor of an agency at 2342 Wylie avenue, six male and two female visitors on charges of operating a lottery after they had disclaimed all knowledge of the game.

"If you will tell the truth I will make a different disposition of this case," declared Magistrate Brandon, after police had testified to seizing New York Stock Exchange lottery tickets, an adding machine and $27 cash in the Wylie avenue place in a raid yesterday. All denied being implicated.

At Center Avenue station Magistrate John J. Verona held Albert Fitzpatrick, 2340 Wylie avenue, and Walter Lewis, 2122 Wylie avenue, for court and discharged four Negro visitors, believed by police to have purchased tickets.

Sentence Strikers To Jail

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., July 31.—Singing and shouting, 250 textile strike pickets rode from police headquarters to the courthouse today and were arraigned in one of the strangest court scenes in the city's history.

Most of the defendants, who were arrested last night when police broke up picket lines at the Whitman and Kilburn Mills, received sentences of two months in jail.

Besides the 256 taken into custody yesterday, 130 arrested strikers whose cases had been continued from last week also were in court, making a total of 386 defendants.

Amid scenes of tense excitement, with all available police and a scattering of National Guardsmen guiding the activities, the strikers were taken from the crowded cells, loaded into motor trucks and driven to the Courthouse, only a few blocks away.

Truck after truck moved between the two points, with 30 strikers in each van. Hundreds of strike sympathizers had gathered along the route and they yelled and cheered as the noisy defendants were carried to court.

AUTOIST KILLED AS LIGHTS FAIL

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., July 31.—Lester Shaffer, 22, of 1405 Fourth avenue, was killed instantly at 11 o'clock last night when he stopped on the Eastville hill near here to repair lights which had gone out on his auto. As he was about to step from his machine, the car of John Lashinsky, of Second street, crashed into the Shaffer car. William Shaffer, father, and Ernest Shaffer, brother of Lester, told the coroner Lester was stepping from the car to see if the tail light was burning when Lashinsky crashed into the Shaffer car.

PRIZEFIGHTER CHARGED WITH PART IN HOLDUP

"Mush" O'Hara, 28, prizefighter, of Amity street, Homestead, was arrested today by County Detective Michael McDermott, charged with being implicated in the alleged holdup of Robert Liebert, of Osceola street, at West and Hays streets, Homestead, last night.

Liebert told detectives he was beaten and robbed of a gold watch by several men who alighted from an automobile. He made information against O'Hara charging aggravated assault and battery and larceny before Alderman Sol S. Goldstein, Squirrel Hill.

O'Hara denied taking the watch and told detectives the trouble occurred whein Liebert, driving with a woman companion, alighted from his car and debrated O'Hara after their cars jammed.

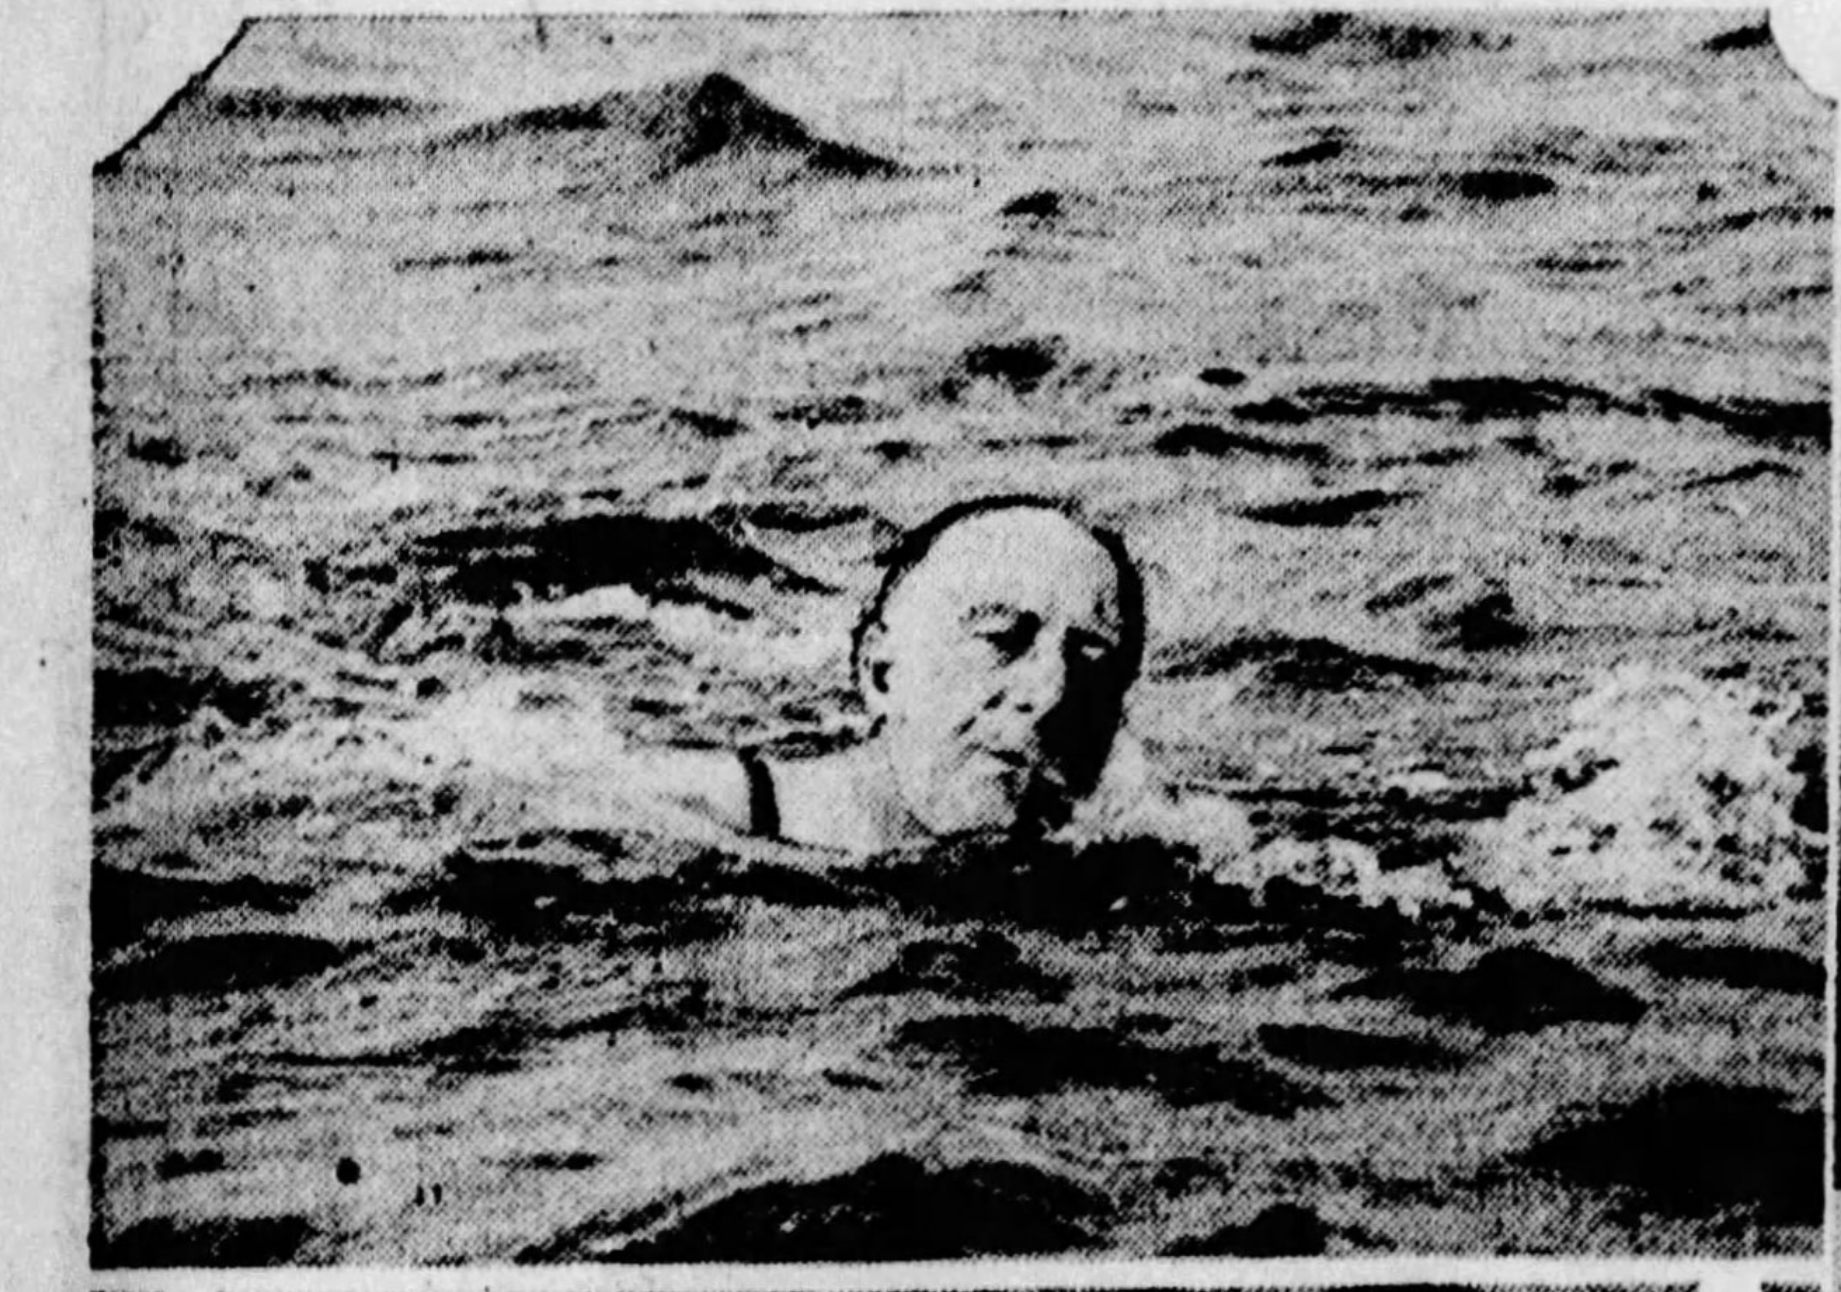
Court House Front to Be Pink!

NEW GRANITE ARRIVES

Now that the old stone steps of the Court House, dirtied by years of use and abuse, are down to give pedestrians a sidewalk, the lifting of the face is about to begin. A carload of pink granite has arrived here from the same quarries that furnished the original granite in 1886. It will not only give the Court House a new pink complexion, but will show what time does to granite in the way of color, by cantrast with the old. The job will be finished about October 1. The dotted line above shows how the top of the new facing will be.

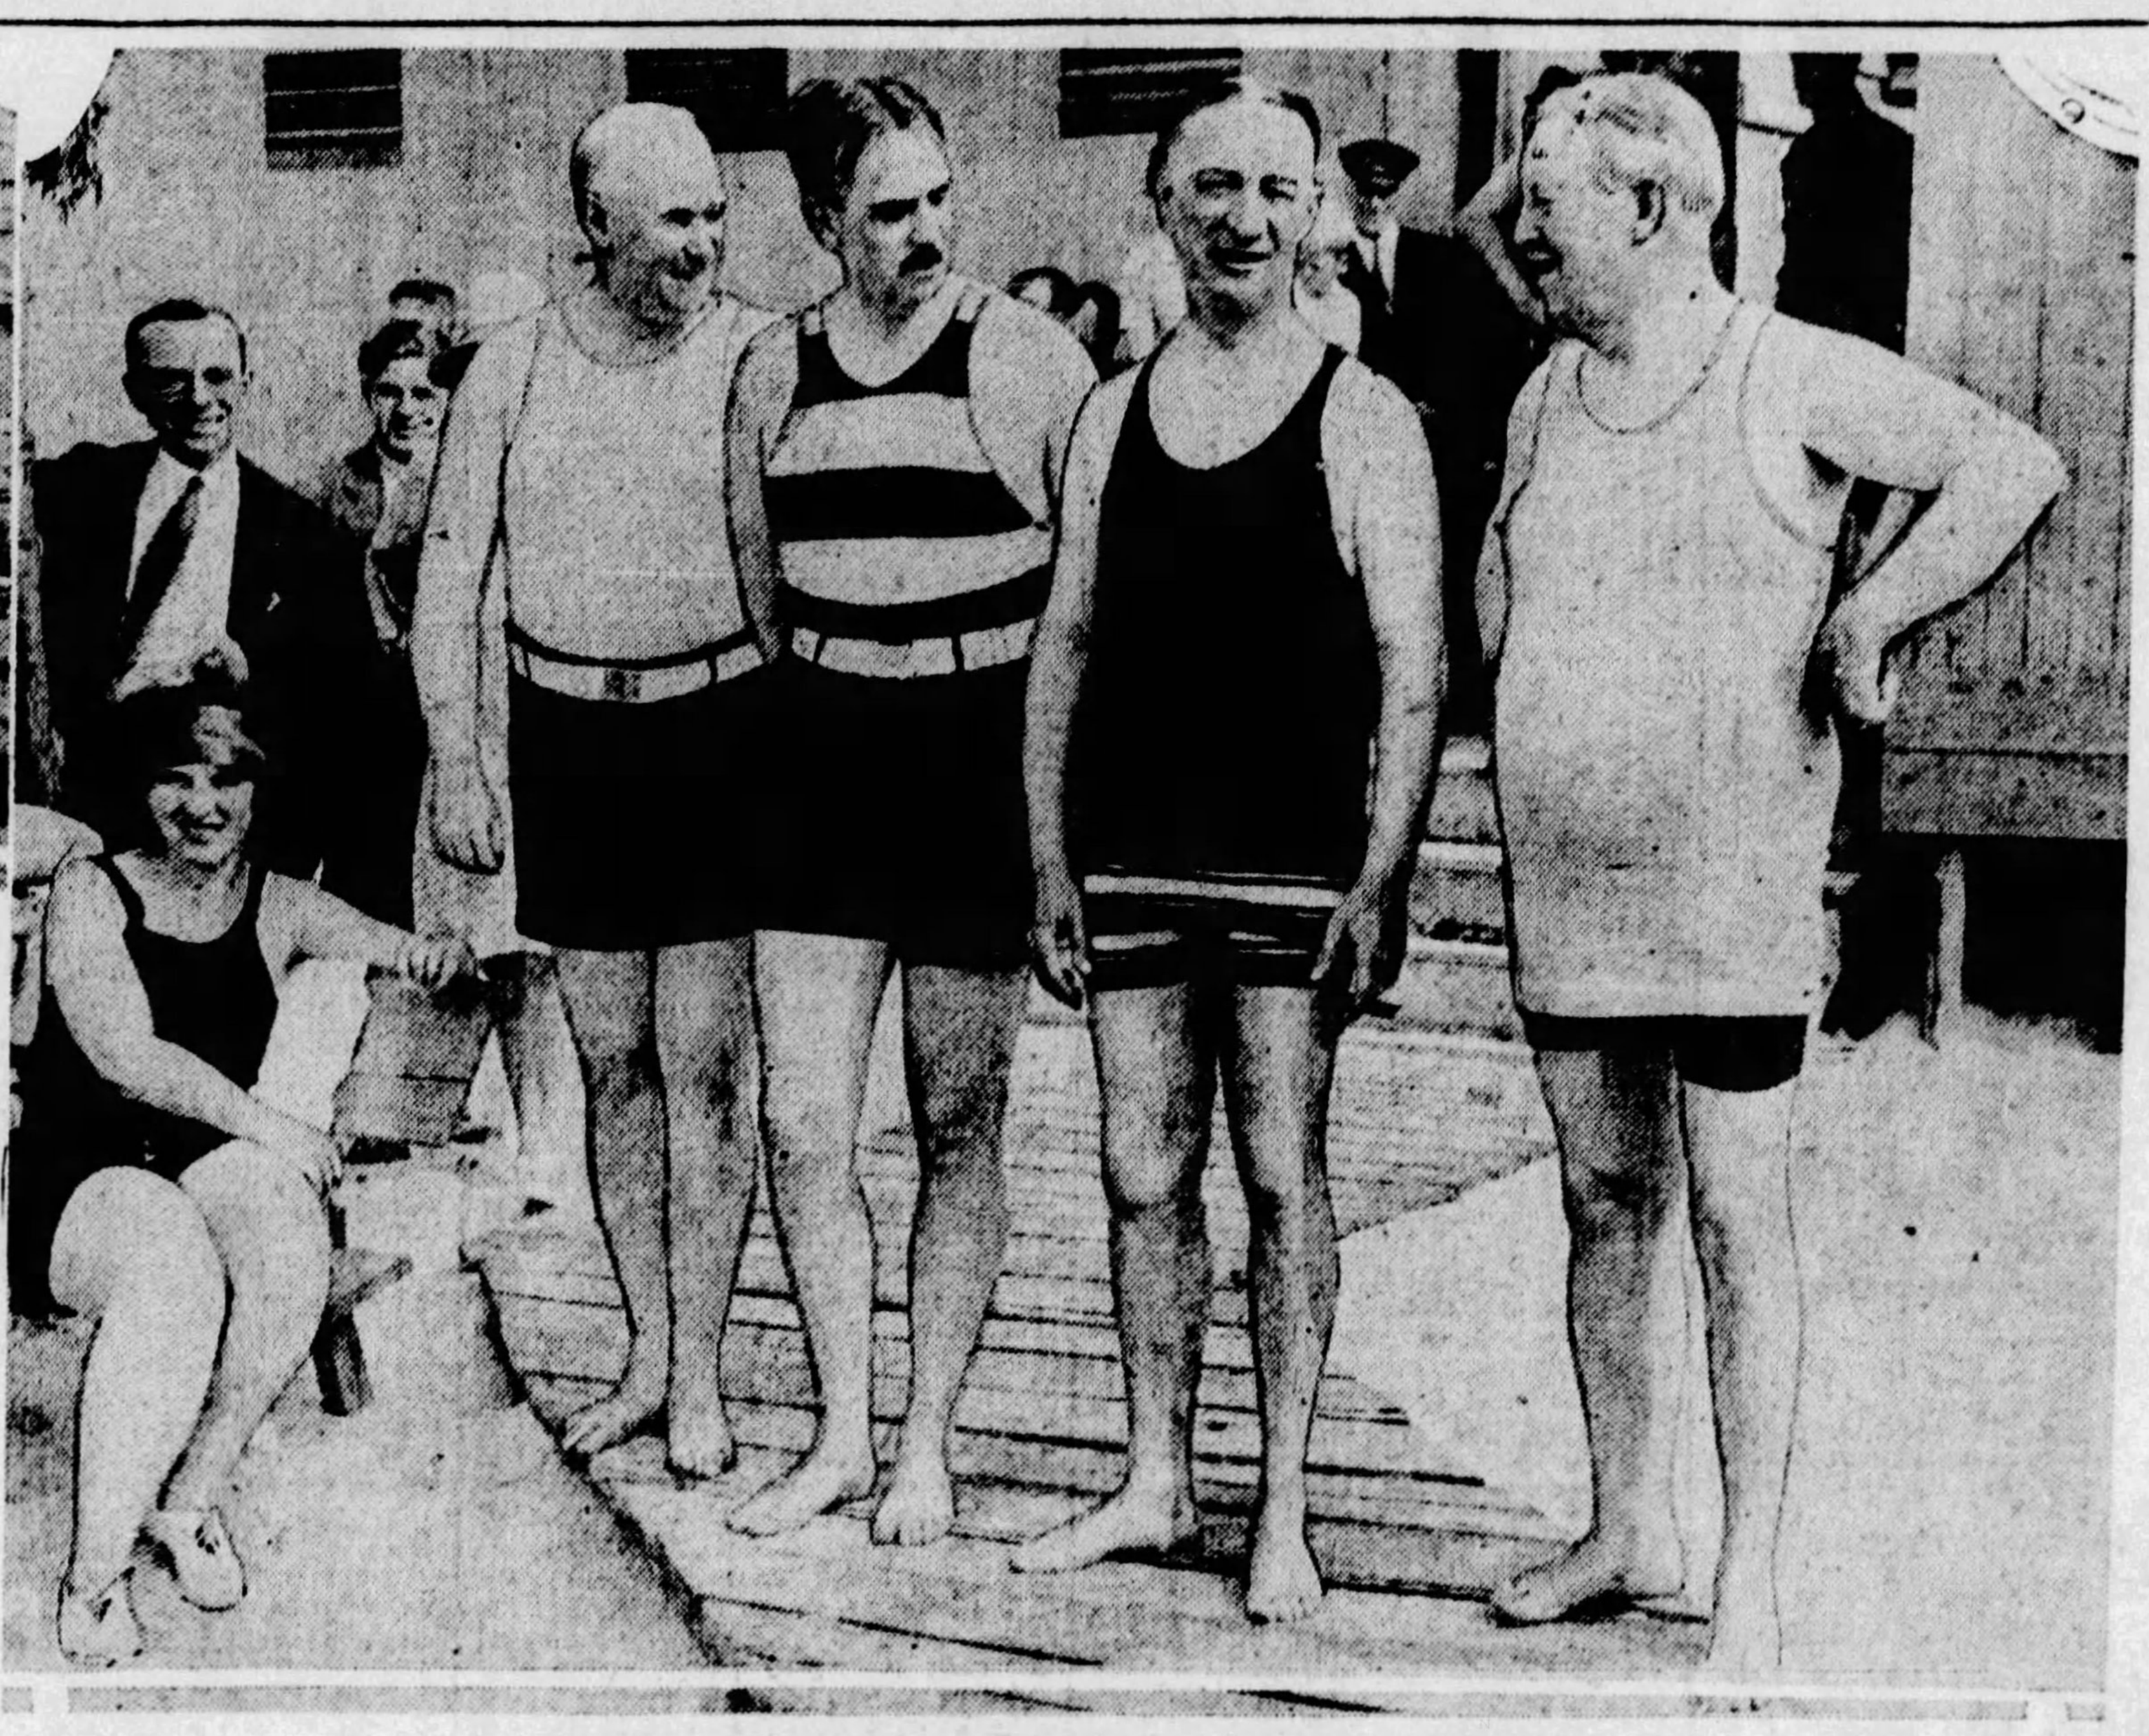
POLICEMAN HELD IN AUTO DRIVE

Weekend Outing -:- A Governor Goes Swimming -:- In the Sound



IN THE SOUND

Gov. Alfred E. Smith created a stir at Peconic Beach, L. I., merely by going swimming. He swam thusly. The governor's party was there for the week-end.



PARTY

There were, of course, others in the governor's party. They created stirs, too, but not such big stirs as the governor himself. Here you have: John Gilchrist; Maj. J. A. Warner, the governor's son-in-law; Gov. Smith, and William A. Humphries. They all went swimming.

POLICEMAN HELD FOR ILLEGAL AUTO ARREST

Motorcycle Patrolman Chester Zygello of Sharpsburg was held for court under $200 bail last night on a charge of misdemeanor involving illegal arrest of a motorist, at a hearing before Alderman Thomas D. Jones. The prosecution was supported by the Pittsburgh Motor Club as part of its campaign against illegal arrests and fining of motorists.

The hearing was upon informations charging extortion and misdemeanor preferred by Arthur H. Sykes, of the Saybrook Apartments, Craft avenue, who was represented by Attorney Frank J. Zappala, counsel for the Motor Club. The charges grew out of the arrest of Sykes on Saturday afternoon, July 21, while he was driving in Main street, Sharpsburg. Sykes was discharged by Burgess Walter Berner last Tuesday night.

Zygello had taken a $15 forfeit from Sykes, and after that hearing he barred the exit and threatened to jail Zappala and those he represented unless the receipt for the forfeit should be surrendered, prosecution witnesses testified last night. "I'll place the whole crowd in jail unless the receipt is given up; I'm not going to be held for extortion," Zygello declared at that time, according to witnesses. The receipt had been surrendered, Zappala claiming duress, and Burgess Berner cautioning Zygello about his conduct, witnesses testified. Zappala argued before Alderman Jones that Zygello illegally received and retained the forfeit and that it was only delivered to Burgess Berner to be returned after the discharge.

THE ARREST

Mr. and Mrs. Sykes, who with two women friends were in the car at the time of the arrest, testified that Zygello passed them on Main street, Sharpsburg, driving a girl. He was not properly uniformed or wearing a badge, and was coatless and hatless, they said.

Mrs. Sykes said she laughed as the cars passed.

Zygello ordered them to the curb and placed them under arrest, charging they passed a red signal. When they denied the charge, he said, "I'll arrest you for the 'ha-ha,'" Mrs. Sykes testified. They were forced to follow Zygello for some time through various streets until he drove his girl companion to her home, they testified. Zappala and C. H. Roth, secretary of the Pittsburgh Motor Club, testified about the incidents at the hearing.

Attorney Joseph A. Rossi, counsel for Zygello, argued for his discharge without presenting any testimony in denial of the charges. Sharpsburg Borough Solicitor Edward A. Kraus, Jr., also argued in behalf of Zygello. The argument became general, with heated exchanges between opposing counsel, and Burgess Berner and other borough officials were drawn into the argument. Zappala and his opponents warmly challenged the veracity of opposing statements. Alderman Jones halted the verbal flow, declaring there was not sufficient evidence to substantiate the charge of extortion but holding that the charge of illegal arrest had been established.

CITY IS HOST TO TOURING JAPANESE CHURCH PARTY

Fifty Japanese on a sight-seeing tour of the United States stopped off here today and were entertained by churchmen, members of the Chamber of Commerce and prominent Pittsburghers. They will leave tomorrow morning to continue on their way home.

Among them were 12 women—wives of members of the party—dressed in native costumes. All were delegates to the World's Sunday School convention in Los Angeles, and are representative professional and church people of Japan.

Headed by the Rev. S. Iwamura, Congregationalist minister of Tokio, the party was met at the Pennsylvania Station by a committee composed of members of the Allegheny County Sabbath School Association, the Pittsburgh Council of Churches and the Chamber of Commerce. Harry W. Neely, vice president of the chamber, was chairman.

Following breakfast at the Fort Pitt Hotel, the visitors toured the city; placed a wreath on the grave of H. J. Heinz, had lunch at the plant of H. J. Heinz Company, where Dr. J. E. Detweiler, pastor of the Avalon Presbyterian Church and former missionary to Japan, made an address in Japanese.

During the remainder of the day, the party was split into pairs that were privately entertained at the homes of Pittsburghers.

KILLED IN SAME MINE WHERE MISHAP COST LEG

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., July 31—(AP.)—Edward Auten, 45, a miner who lost his leg several years ago when he was caught under a stone fall in the Glendale Gas Coal Company mine near here was killed yesterday in the same mine under a fall of stone. He leaves a widow.

TWO KILL SELVES HERE

One hour after John Mikulas, 21, of Klein road, Ross township, returned home from New York City, he went to a rear room of his home and fired a bullet into his head. Members of his family and neighbors found him lying on the floor with a .38 caliber revolver in his right hand. On a table nearby they found a note which read, "Well I came home so you could see me dead but not alive." It was signed "John."

According to Constable Port Moses, Mikulas came home at 9:30 o'clock last night and was greeted by his parents and neighbors. He appeared to be in good spirits, Moses said. He had been employed on the docks in New York since May and three weeks ago suffered an injury when a cable snapped. He was confined in a New York hospital until a few days ago.

Despondent over family troubles, according to a report to the morgue, Thomas C. Williams, 57, 4335 Casso street, shot himself through the head at 4 o'clock this morning. The shot awoke other members of the family and they found Williams dead in his bedroom. He had been worrying for some time, relatives told morgue attaches.

SEES CUT IN PA. G. O. P. VOTE

Hoover will carry Pennsylvania by a comfortable majority, but admittedly less than that given Calvin Coolidge.

That was the message brought here by Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, on his first visit of the campaign.

The first endeavor of the state committee, he said, after counting Pennsylvania's electoral votes in the Hoover column, will be to elect 36 Republican congressmen to support what he believes will be the next Republican President.

Gen. Martin was very frank.

"There is a great deal of Smith sentiment," he said. "We would be foolish not to recognize that fact. But there is a tremendous Hoover sentiment."

He told of a local meeting of the Pennsylvania State Grange, where 16 farmers who have been voting the Democratic ticket indicated that Hoover is their choice while only one Republican farmer changed to Smith.

FOR ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Dr. Robert B. Greer will be the electoral college member from the Butler-Lawrence Beaver congressional district, he announced. John F. Curran, veteran political leader, will be the Washington-Greene member, Frank M. Graff of Blairsville, the member from the Indiana-Armstrong-Clarion-Jefferson district, Walter W. Beaty from the Warren-Forest-Elk-Venango-Mercer district, Arthur W. Milne from the Erie-Crawford section and Robert T. Glass from Westmoreland.

The Allegheny county members, announced several weeks ago in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, are Mrs. Henry Oliver Rea, former Congressman W. H. Coleman, Joseph C. Trees, George J. Kambach and Dr. James P. Kerr.

NORMAN HAPGOOD

There is nothing more interesting than the relation of modern mass production to the arts and the various aspects of literature and culture. Pittsburgh has done some fine work in fostering that important side of life and happiness.

My guess is that our rich and active cities are going to become more and more the centers of intellectual activity of the fine and varied sort that we associate with the word renaissance.

ASKS $25,000 FOR AUTO CRASH HURTS

Claiming a cut on the temple received by an automobile accident had caused an affection of the brain, resulting in dizziness and loss of hearing in his right ear, William A. Leether, 49, brought suit for $25,000 in common Pleas court against Laura Faulkner. He claims that she drove her automobile upon the sidewalk at Perrysville and Marshall avenues February 29, knocking him down.

Dogs, Dogs, Dogs! -:- As Homeless "Showed Off" at Rescue League Farm -:- Would You Like One?

DOLLY

"Dolly," owned by M. M. Luster, 130 Arlington avenue, was just a visitor and performer at the Animal Rescue League's "Dog Circus," held at the Sandy Creek Farm.

HANDSOME

"Handsome," shrewd pup, also visited. He belongs to William Patterson, 1526 Brighton road.

MASCOT

"Duke," if you please, isn't just an ordinary dog at the League's farm. He is a mascot—a dog among many, as it were. Here, Anna Ridall shows him off at his best.

"REX" DO YOU WANT HIM?

SEEKS HOME

"Rex," this dog, needs a home, as badly as many other dogs out there. Helen Gardner, whose father, 955 West North avenue, is interested in the League work, exhibits him.

GONE!

"One-Eyed Pete"—that is his name!—went quickly when he was offered to the people who visited the show. He is going to have a good home.

The boat will leave at 8 a. m., returning at 11:30 o'clock.

2 FISHIN' HOLES NO GOOD; NOW TRYING THIRD

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

BROWNS CAMP, KLAMATH RIVER, NEAR HORNBOOK, Cal., July 31.—Isolated from the political world in a fishing camp, high in the Siskiyou range, Herbert Hoover today sought desperately to land his first catch of the trip.

The Republican nominee for President traveled 615 mile by motor car, fished in two icy mountain streams, and has yet to catch a fish. He arose with the dawn this morning, ate a hurried breakfast and disappeared up the river valley for the third time. His trip north from Palo Alto was taken to land some steelhead mountain trout and to get recreation.

PICTURE MEN BLAMED

Hoover tried his luck in the Rogue River, a few miles from Medford, Ore., yesterday morning, but without success. A group of photographers, who waded the stream to snap pictures of the candidate, were blamed for scaring away the fish. Then Hoover entered a motor car and drove 65 miles through the Siskiyou range to this fishing camp at the headwaters of the Klamath River.

The nominee fished here yesterday afternoon, but caught no fish. He came back to camp highly discouraged. Some of the veterans opined the high water had dirtied the stream and the fish could not see the bait. In all his trout fishing Hoover has used flies, favoring the California coachman.

Hoover got some satisfaction on returning from his second unsuccessful effort when he learned that a dozen other members of his party had fished without success.

CHAMP ALSO FAILS

"I don't feel so bad when Rayl Lyman Wilbur, the champion fisherman of California, tried, too, and failed," observed Hoover.

Wilbur, a brother of the Secretary of the Navy, has a great fishing reputation in this state.

The nominee explained that he goes fishing to get solitude. He likes to catch fish, but that is only half the story.

"Nowadays the only time a man can find solitude, is when he goes fishing," he said. "A man can leave his friends, go off to a stream by himself and no one feels hurt, if he is going fishing. Fishing takes one away from the jazz of the cities."

If the nominee should fail a third time this morning his party probably will break camp late today and move on to another stream. Some of his friends have urged him to visit the Pitt River, within sight of Mount Shasta. Should he land a good catch here, however, the party will remain on the Klamath until tomorrow night, when Hoover will board a train at Hornbrook for San Francisco. Should he visit the Pitt River he will leave there tomorrow night in time to reach his home at Palo Alto Thursday morning.

OHIO GAINS; KENTUCKY, W. VA. LOSE COAL OUTPUT

BRIDGEPORT, O., July 31.—Ohio coal production is mounting while that in Kentucky and West Virginia is decreasing, Federal reports show. The readjustment of freight rates, together with the fact that Ohio mines are now working on a competitive wage scale is ascribed as the cause. Ohio's June production was 1,040,000 tons compared with 925,000 in May and against 592,000 tons in June last year.

WHY did Heinz go into the cereal business?

Because the House of Heinz, after years of research work, was convinced that it was possible to make a contribution to your health and enjoyment by the production of a cereal food entirely different from any other already on the market.

Heinz Rice Flakes are the result.

But to give you Heinz Rice Flakes it was necessary to develop an entirely new process of cereal-making.

By this patented process, certain qualities of the whole rice grain are combined in such a way as to impart a new health-giving quality to the flakes. This is the first and only time that the natural cellulose or roughage content of the rice grain has been entirely retained in a cereal, giving to Heinz Rice Flakes the properties of a gentle, natural laxative.

Most important of all—you will say—is the delightful flavor of this new cereal. An entrancing, nut-like flavor that has no likeness in any cereal you ever tasted.

All in all, Heinz Rice Flakes are just what Heinz set out to perfect... an entirely different, more edible, better tasting, more healthful, crispier, crunchier cereal food . . . ready to eat with milk or cream and a little sugar.

This is Heinz contribution to the cereal-making industry and to the health of the nation.

MILK, ICE FUND NEARS $1,200 MARK

The fact that for the past three or four days the weather has been pleasantly cool has nothing to do with the babies' need of ice and fresh milk,—as many philanthropic Pittsburghers are remembering The Milk and Ice Association's work goes on all during the year and it needs funds for maintaing this work just the same whether it is winter or summer.

Several donations to the Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund have come in over the week-end, bringing the fund a little nearer the $1200 mark. The fund has been increased quite materially in the past few days, and each contribution means one or more babies given a new lease on life. One gift of $5 has been sent in by Anna H. McCracken, while the Little Girls' Pleasure Club, consisting of two North Side girls, Ruth Singer and Dorothy Smith, has donated $1.

The Living Room Suite "The Ver Hage"

August Sale Price $325

Individuality asserts itself in this beautiful 3-piece suite, designed by Gimbels, Pittsburgh, after a study of local needs. It is simple, yet rich in effect, desirable because it recognizes the useful and preferable in living room furniture today. The lines of contour afford ample comfort and convenience. It is of solid birch frame, covered with lustrous mohair, with freize cushions. Pieces priced individually are: Davenport, $170; Chair, $75, and Club Chair, $80.

The Bed Room Suite "The Hampton"

August Sale Price $225

The English influence in this fine suite of chamber furniture marks its refinement, carrying lines typical to those introduced by Christopher Wren, one of England's foremost designers. It is characteristic for its heavy mouldings and its panel effects. The carvings are in solid wood, with figured walnut veneer, and red wood burl fronting the small drawers and foot panels of the bed. The case pieces are of dust-proof construction throughout. A rare value at $225.

Beautiful Dorothy Manners Suite for Dining Room

August Sale Price $295

A charming and beautiful suite, dedicated to the lovely Lady of the Revolution, because its style and construction agree with her ideas. Dorothy Manners detested sham and imitation, and this suite, in the making, has abolished use of imitation woods. The suite includes buffet, china cabinet, server, arm chair, five side chairs and extension table. A true period creation.

DATA LISTED ON TOWN HALL, AIRPORT

The Town Hall committee, which is assisting the County Commissioners to plan and pick the site for the structure authorized by the recent bond issue, will begin to function actively upon the return from Europe of George S. Davison, chairman.

But in the meanwhile, the committee is receiving blue prints and suggestions from various citizens of Allegheny county, and by fall will have sufficiently covered the ground to be able to present a definite plan to the board of commissioners.

So Joseph G. Armstrong, chairman of the board, said yesterday, when he explained that the preliminaries of selecting a site and choosing the manager would be done by the committee, subject to the approval of the commissioners.

"We are fortunate," Armstrong said, "to be able to have men like Mr. Davison and A. E. Braun, chairman of the airport committee, work towards the solution of these problems.

"And they are functioning. While Mr. Davison is in Europe, and is not expected back for several weeks, the Town Hall committee which he heads is marking time. But the airport committee is active. Mr. Braun wrote me just today that he is considering some sites which I sent to him, after having received them through the mail from various people in the county.

"The committees will present their plans, their choice of site and manager, and then present their reasons for their choices to the board of commissioners. Of course we cannot delegate to the committee our powers of appointment, but we will be guided by the judgment of these men—for they are extremely capable and also interested enough to offer their services to the county free.

"And their services are invaluable because they will have their plans made and will present them at a time when we will be almost overburdened with the construction of roads and bridges also authorized by the bond issue."

all $22^{50}

ALL men agree, once they have worn Richman's Clothes, that here, at last, they have found the happy solution to every clothes problem.

For Richman's Clothes are made in a great variety of styles and fabrics to meet the requirements of every taste and every occasion—so correctly styled, so rich in fabric quality, and so beautifully tailored that a man can ask nothing more in appearance or wear.

And yet, they are so modestly priced that those who must consider economy can well afford to buy two or three suits at a time—and provide for the frequent changes a man needs to win the reputation for being well dressed.

Never before in clothing history has it been possible for a man to dress so well at so small a cost. It is possible, today, only because of the economies commanded by Richman resources, and the efficiency of Richman manufacturing and marketing methods. The cash purchase of fine materials at lowest prices, scientific volume production in our own great factories, and the saving of the middleman's profit through our direct-from-factory selling plan produce the incomparable value for which Richman's Clothes are famed far and wide.

Corns

Pain gone—forgotten in one minute

They work like magic. In one minute Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads end corn pain.

Millions have adopted this new, scientific, quick, safe, sure way. By this method a corn heals itself, because it removes the cause—friction and pressure of shoes. If applied at first sign of irritation from tight shoes, Dr. Scholl's Zino-pads positively prevent corns.

Powerful liquids or caustic plasters don't give you these results—often make the toes sore from acid burn. Zino-pads won't irritate the tenderest skin. They are thin, protective, healing. At all drug, shoe and dept. stores. Buy a package today—35c.

USED CARS are opportunities

—A used car is unused transportation—

A GOOD automobile may be likened to a "package" containing so many thousand miles of transportation.

Only occasionally are all of these miles used by one owner. The American custom of turning in a car after an average use of two years, brings into the market every year several million "used cars." And these offer opportunities which more people are appreciating every year.

The cars accepted by General Motors dealers in trade vary in name, body style and price. Some have seen sturdy service; in others the potential mileage has been scarcely touched. There is a wide field of choice for families wanting transportation at the lowest possible cost, or wishing to own a car of a higher price class.

Particularly do used cars present an easy way of owning a second or third car.

Examine the used cars in the stores of General Motors dealers, and purchase the car of your choice on the convenient GMAC Payment Plan.

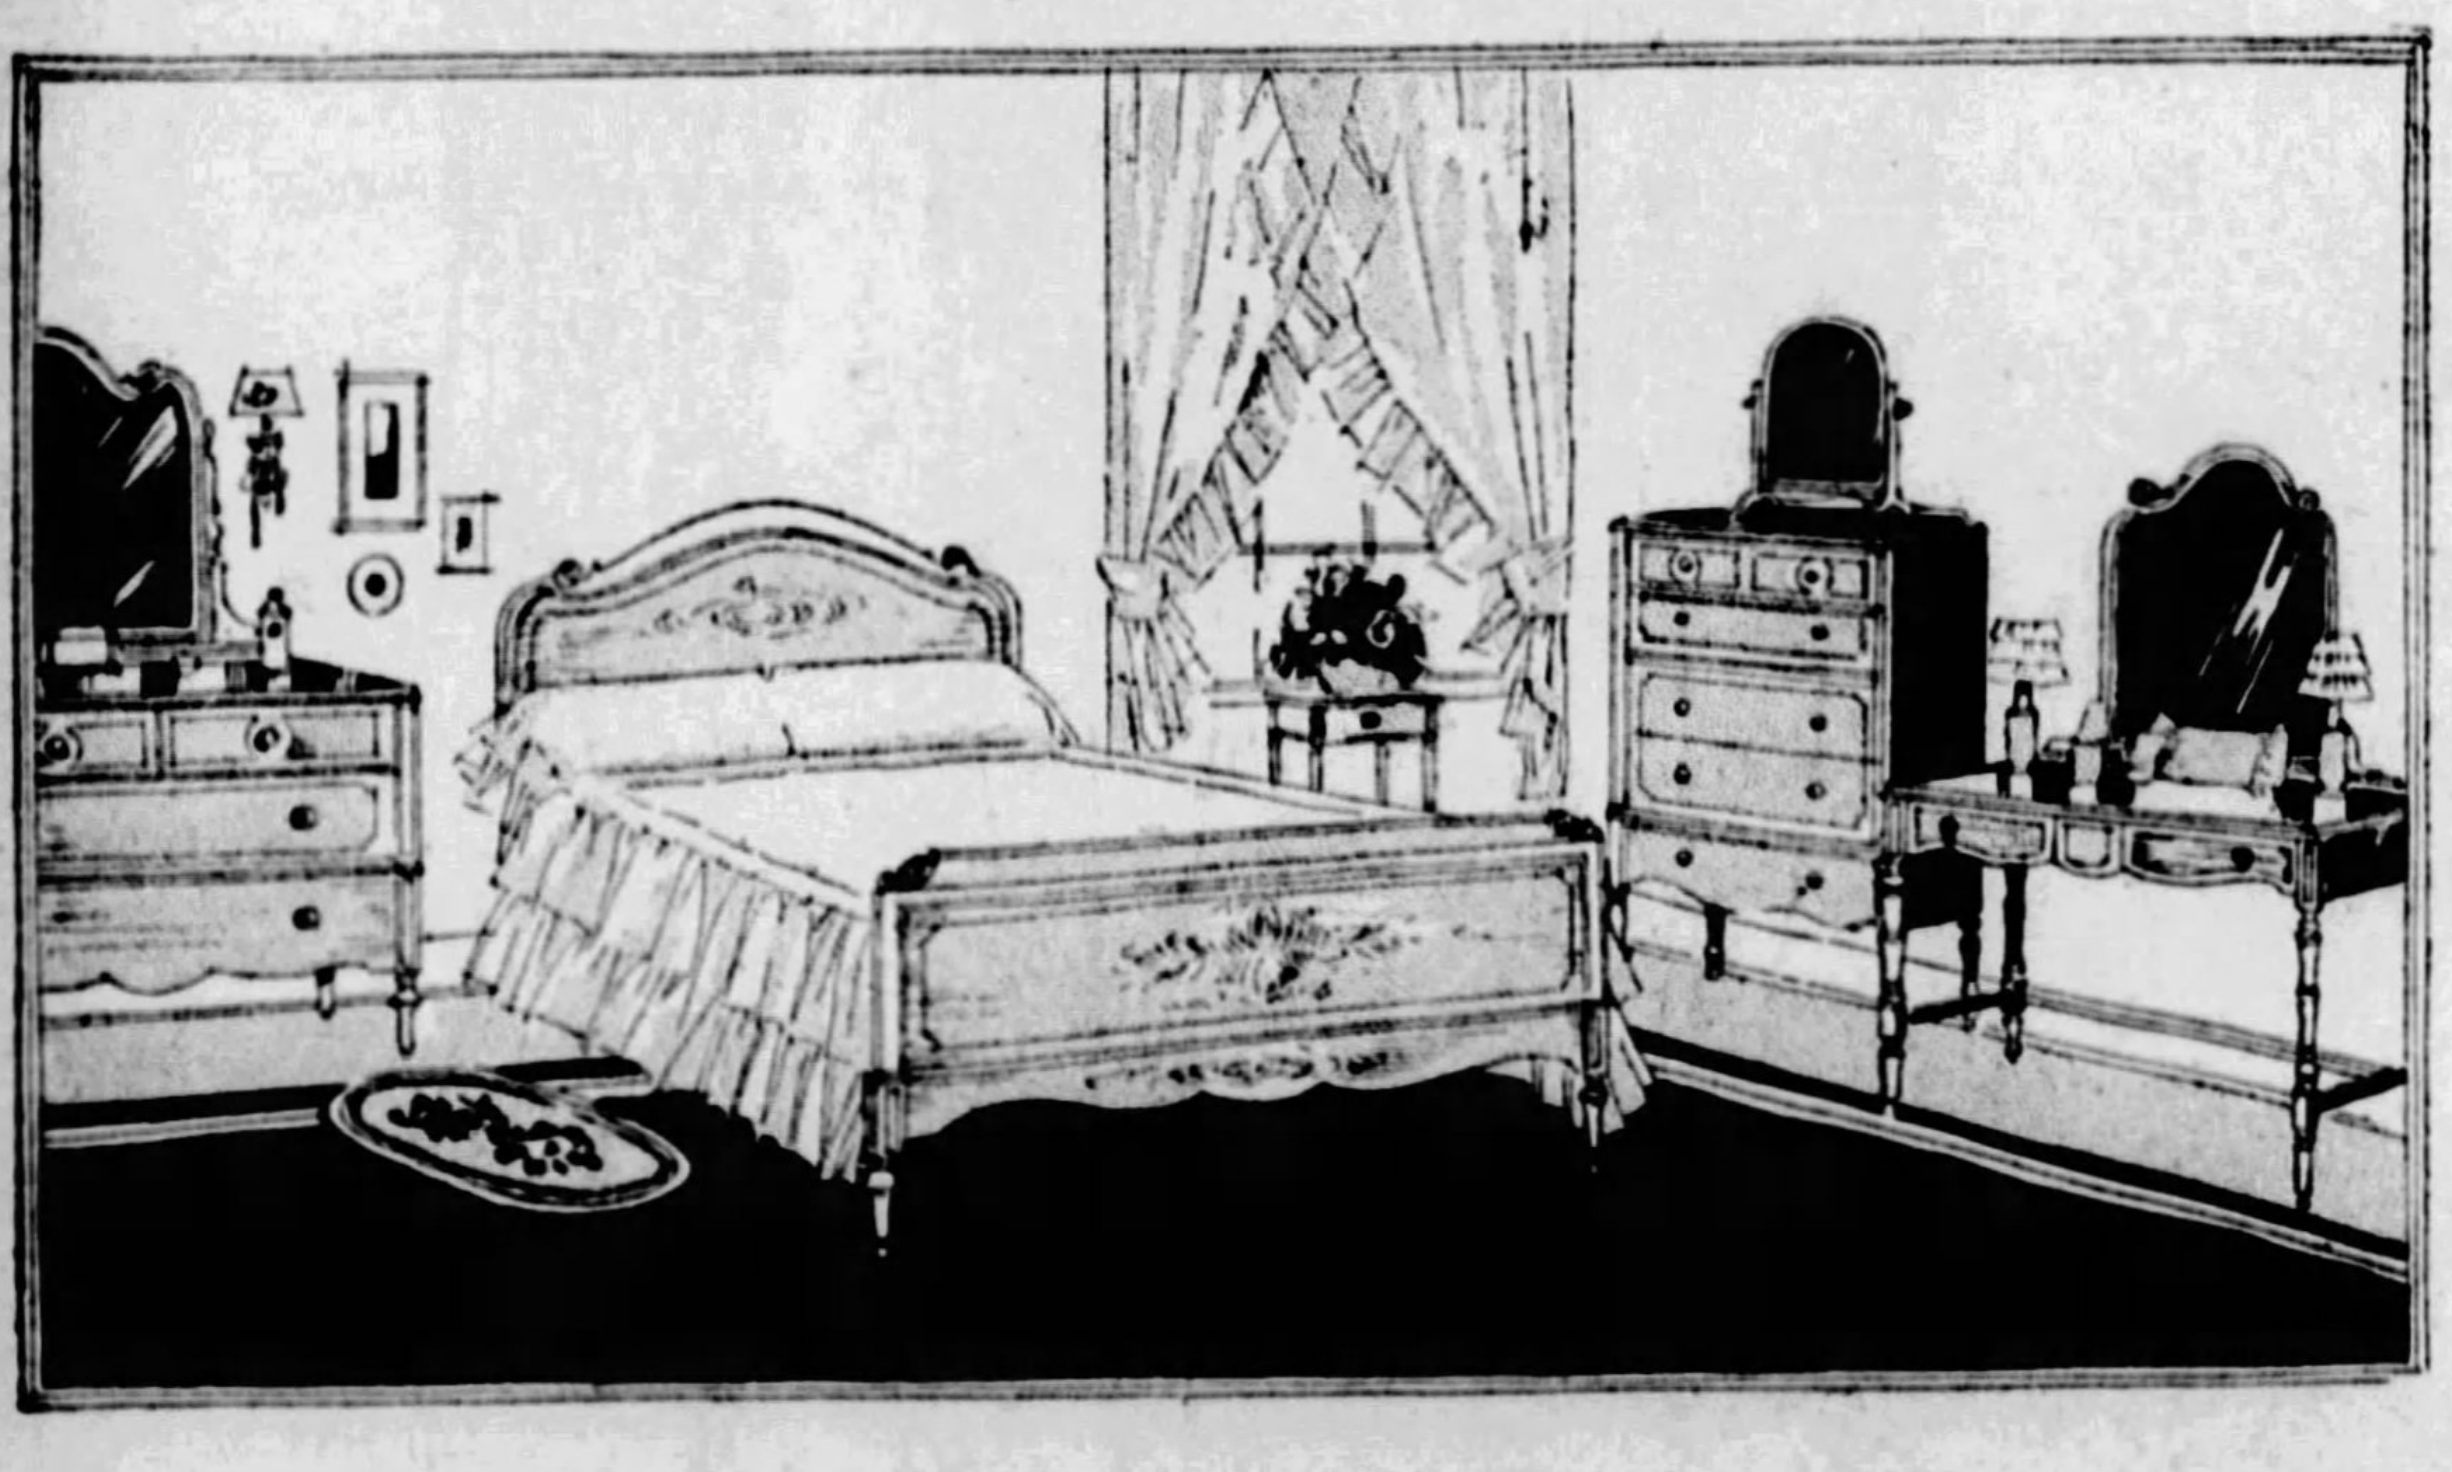
August Furniture Sale Begins Tomorrow

Furniture of quality, character and beauty—substantial savings! Horne furniture—good furniture—furniture for today's homes at a greater saving than is possible by a limited discount throughout the entire stock.

It's a sale of NEW merchandise—a sale of the smartest and most wanted types of furniture. Every offering was secured from our regular sources—the suites and occasional pieces pictured are typical of the values.



Four-Piece Bedroom Suite, $235

Choice of Walnut or Enameled Finishes

A charming set of bedroom furniture for a modern room, of a graceful Hepplewhite design. The carefully matched walnut fronts and bits of wood carving enrich its simplicity of line. The same suite is equally attractive in a soft gray enamel, shaded, and trimmed with dull green, and flower decorations. There is a 48-inch dresser, dressing table, chest and full-sized bed.

Deferred Payments

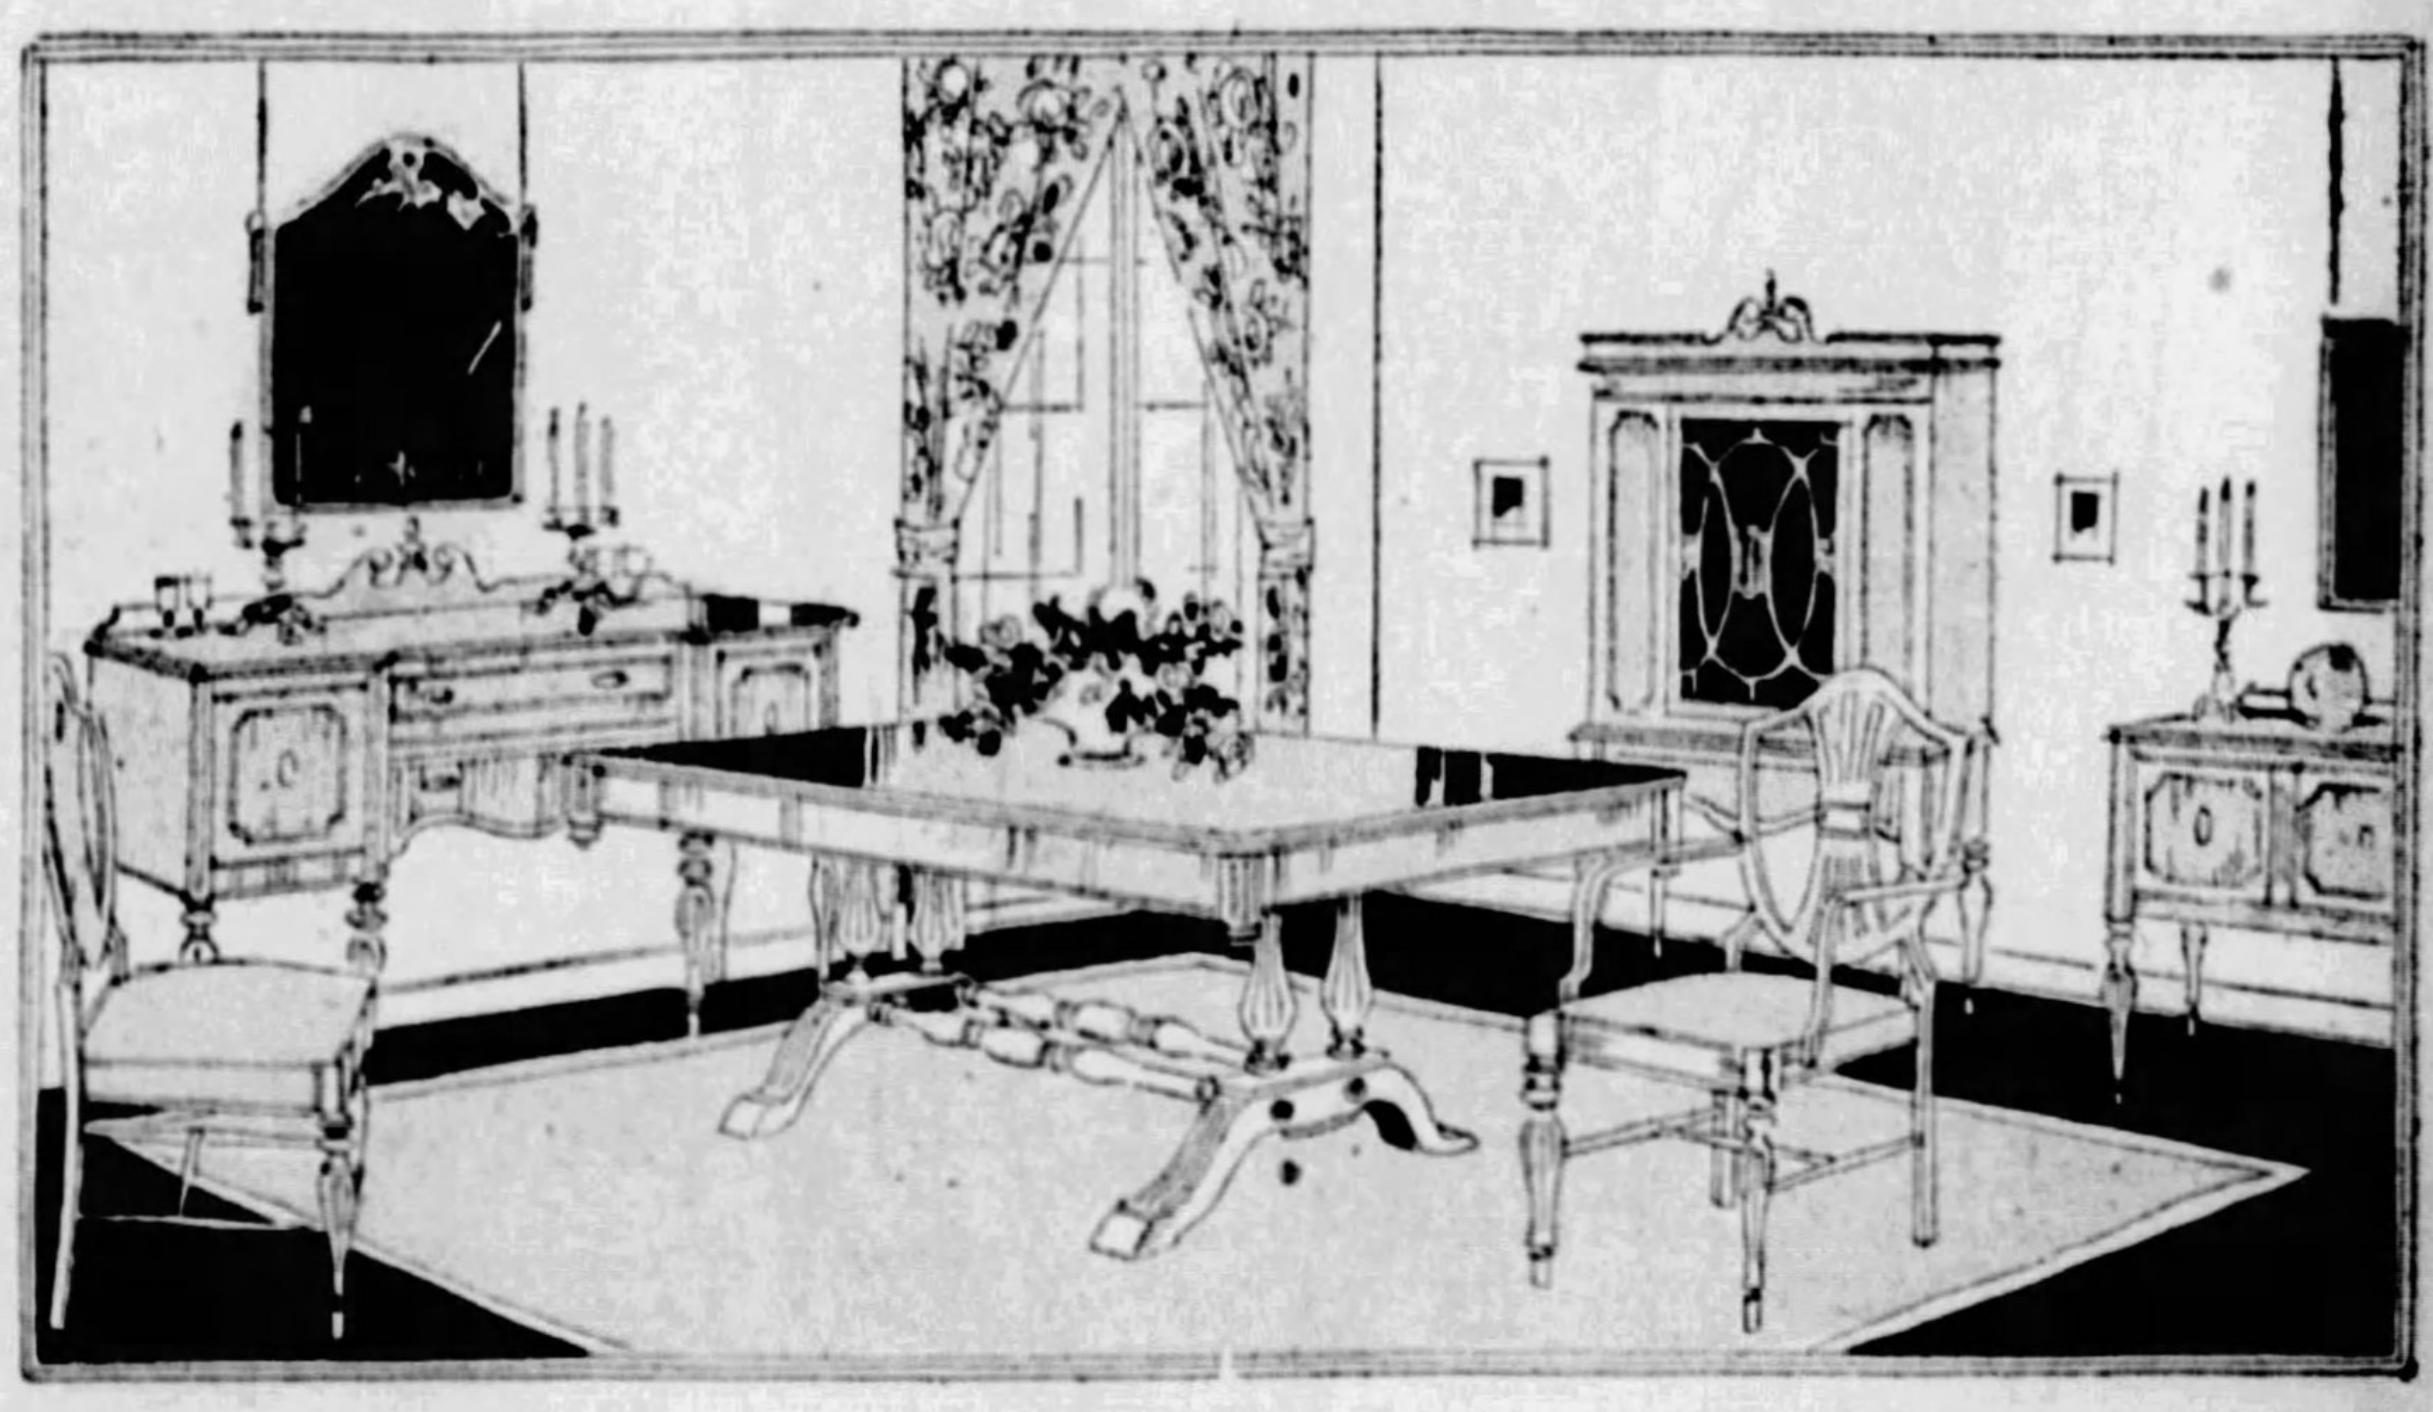
Payments out of income, a moderate amount at the time of purchase and the remainder over a period of months, may be arranged through the Credit Department.

Two-Piece Mohair Suite, $235

Davenport and Chair as Illustrated Below

This is a good example of a number of living room suites in the popular tuxedo style. And an excellent example of a davenport on the smaller, more graceful lines that characterize modern furniture for modern small homes. Upholstered in mohair in a new weave, or in velours, a modern note is given in the colorful tapestry on the reverse side of the luxurious cushions. Davenport, $150.00. Chair, $75.00.

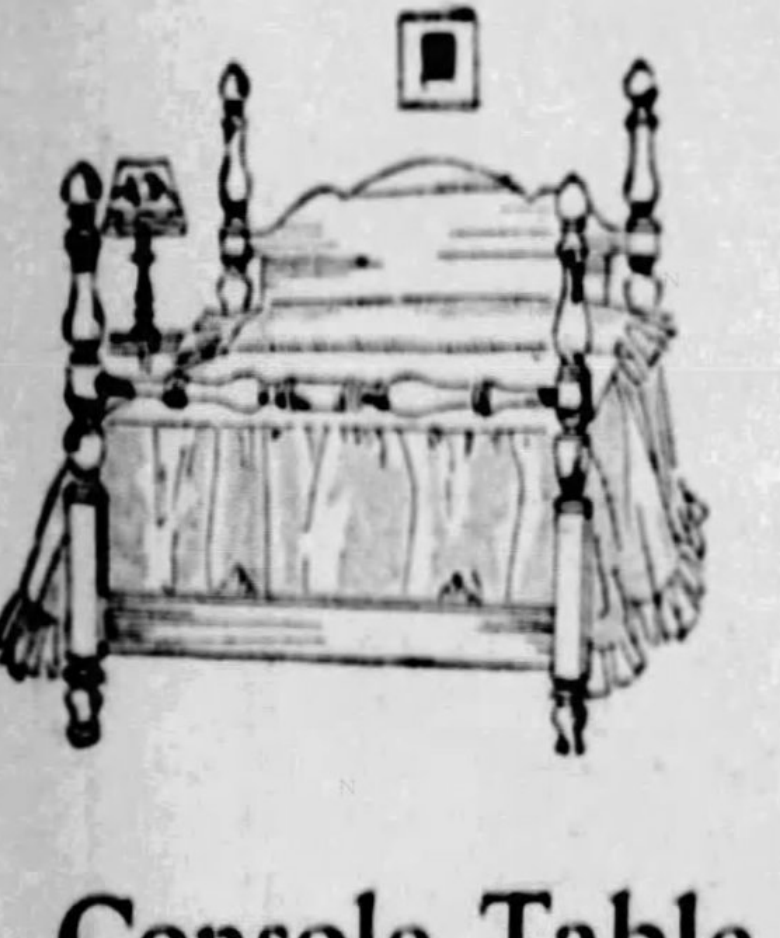
... Horne's, Sixth Floor ...



Ten-Piece Dining Room Suite, $265

In a Graceful Hepplewhite Design—A Dining Room Suite for Today's Home

An unusually handsome suite, of beautiful woods, following a Hepplewhite design of simplicity and grace. Very finely figured mahogany, matched carefully, is used on the fronts of buffet, server and china closet. Neat mouldings and reeded legs are the principal ornamentation. The chairs show the characteristic Hepplewhite shield back. Of mahogany and gumwood. Buffet, server, china closet, table and six chairs.

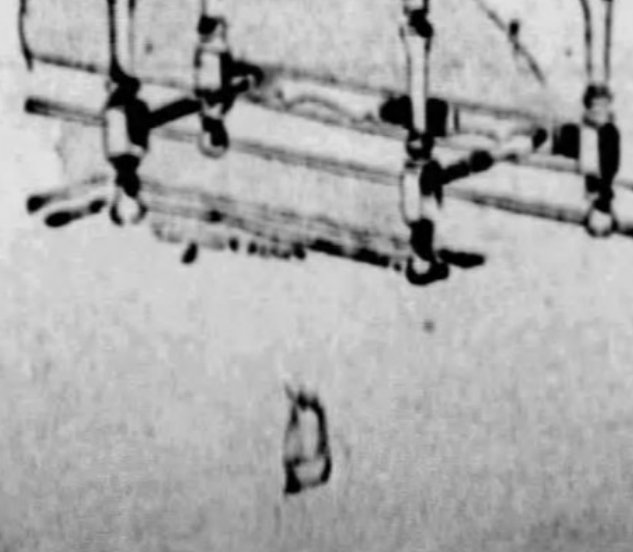


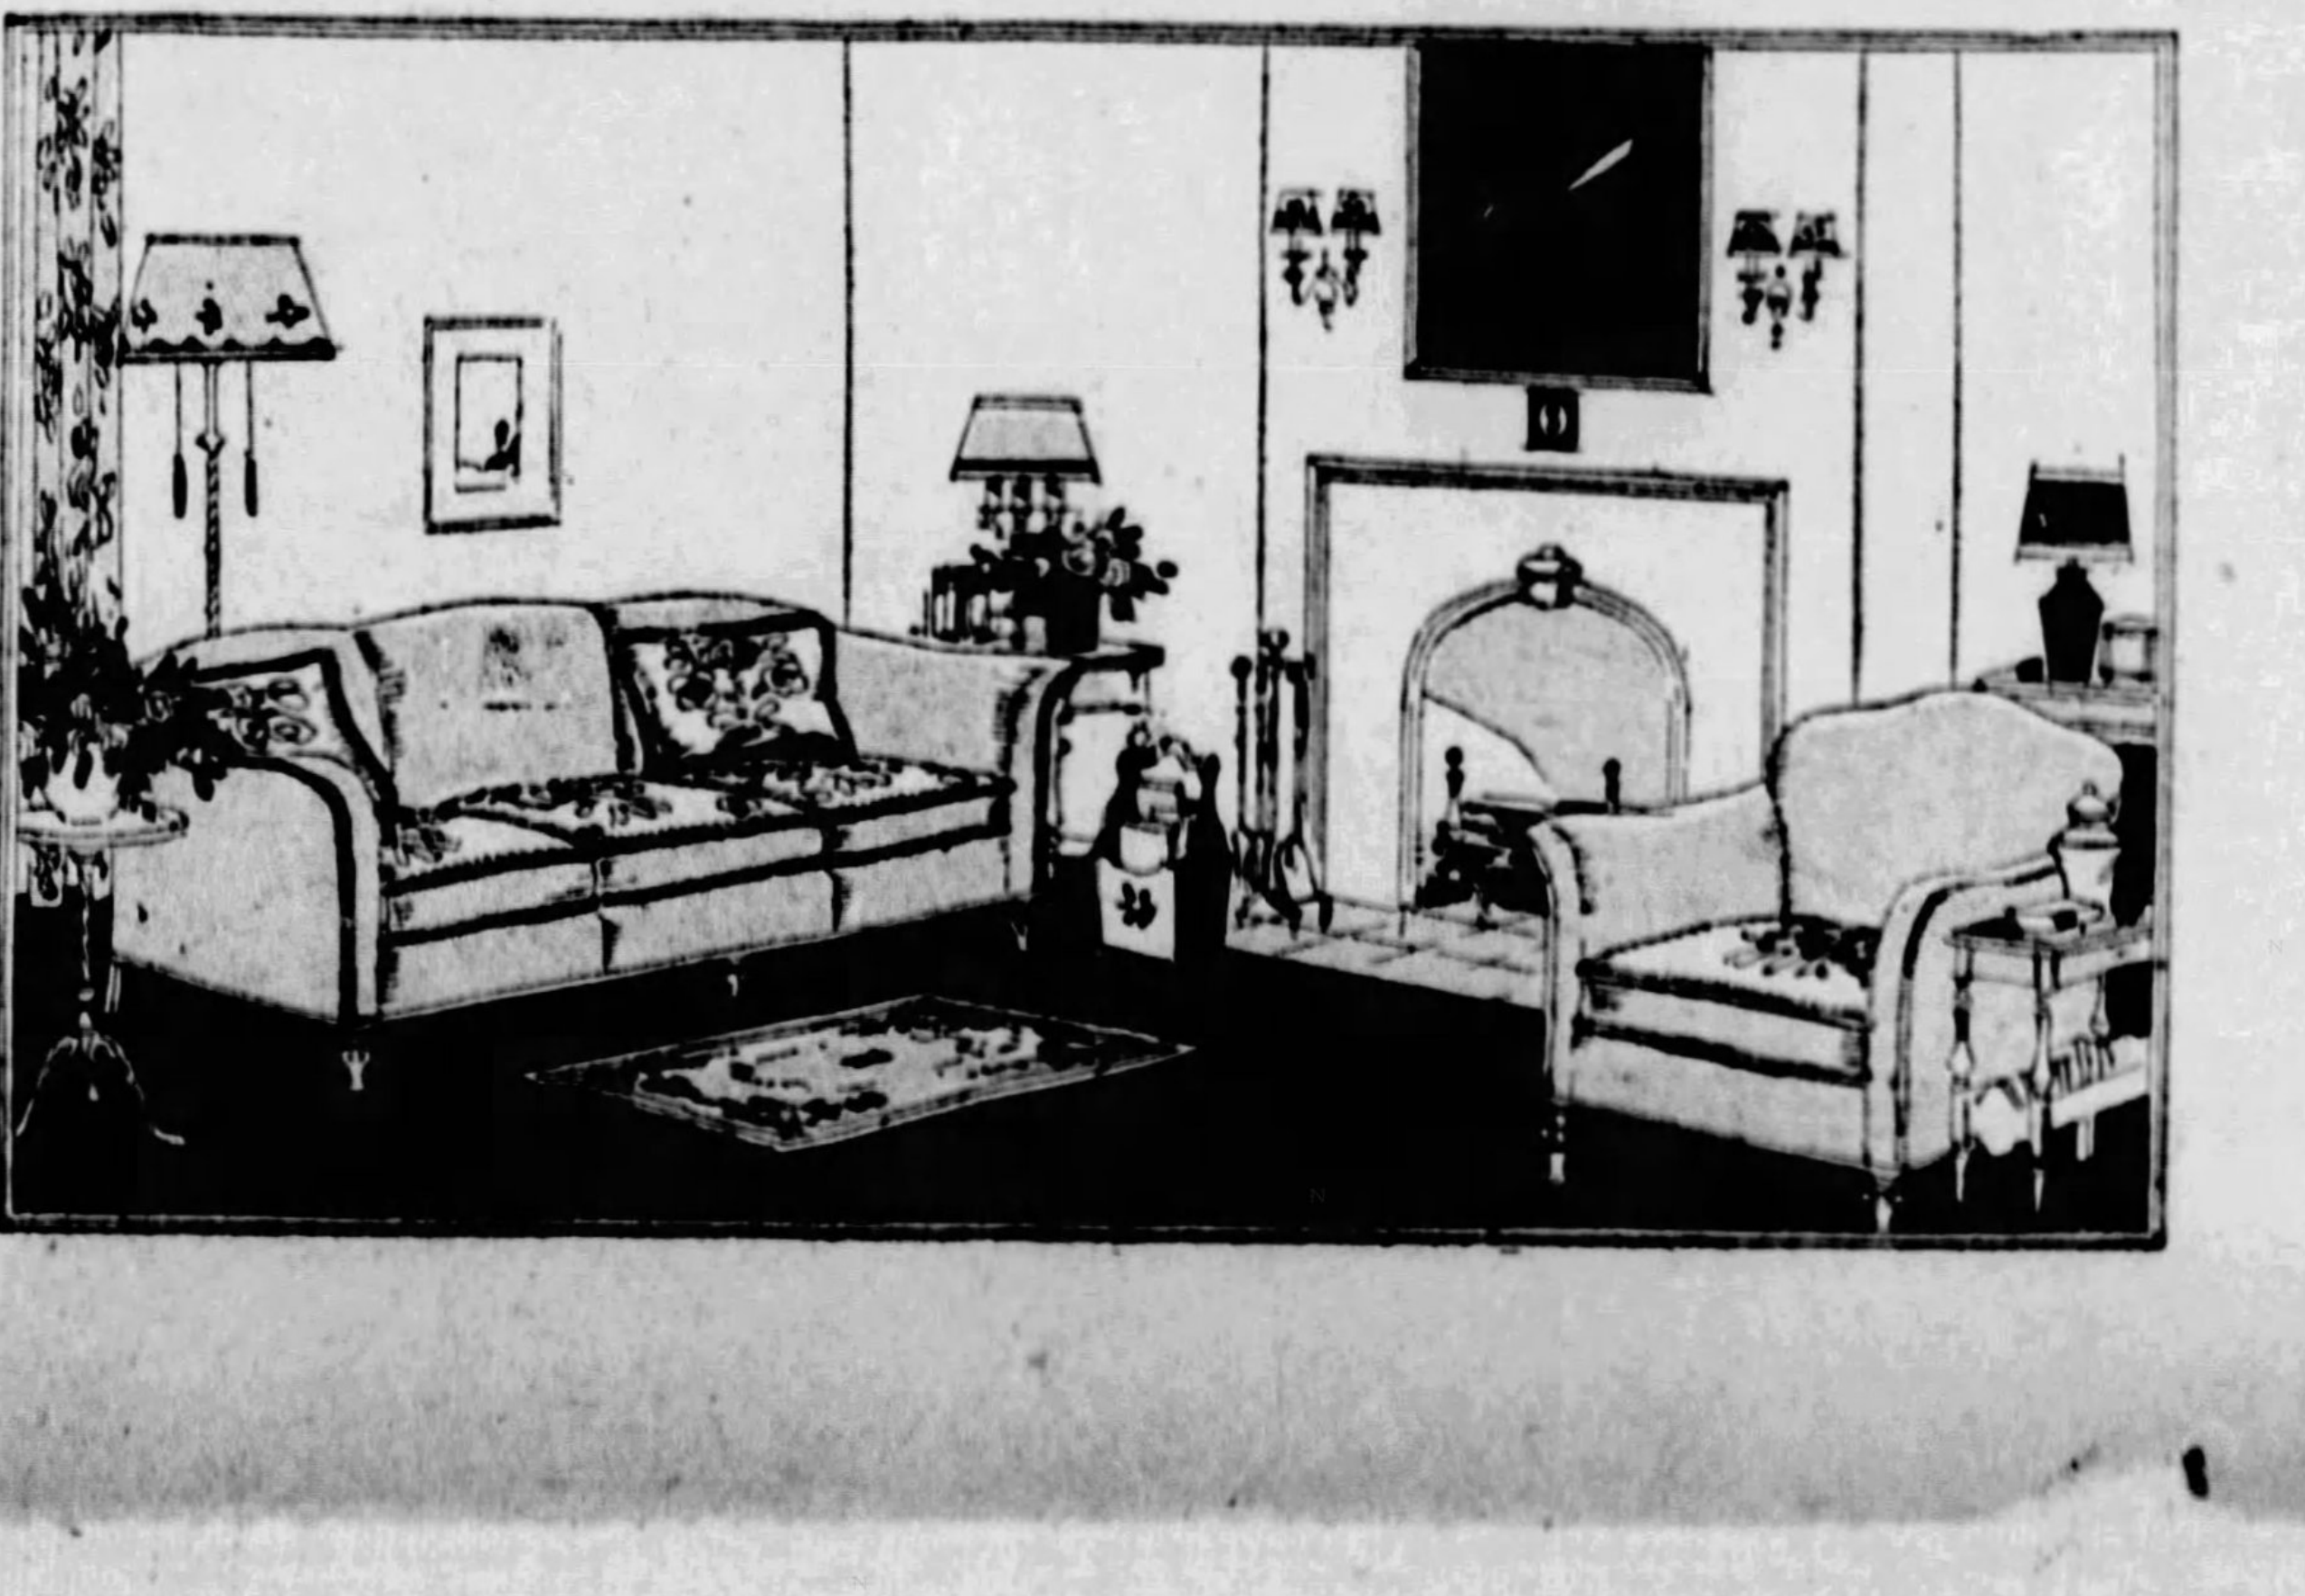
Poster Bed Outfit, $49.00

A graceful early American style four-poster bed, of mahogany and gumwood; completely equipped with a good coil spring and a comfortable felt mattress. In either full or twin sizes at this price.

Console Table, $16.50

Here is a pretty table that will adapt itself in various decorating schemes. Of walnut and gumwood, with deep carving. Measuring 15x32 inches on the top.





Boudoir Chair, $24.50

A pretty and comfortable chair for the bedroom, covered in a cheerful cretonne, with a flounce below. The back is heavily padded to add to its comfort. Choice of three cretonnes.

Fireside Chair, $57.50

A delightfully comfortable big early American wing chair—just the one in which to curl up in front of the fire. It has mahogany legs and stretcher, and is covered in denim, with a comfortable loose cushion.

WAS GREAT HELP TO WAR VETERAN

Local Man, 82, Finds Ten Herbs Wonderful for Disorders Due to Old Age.

"I am 82 years old, and I think that when a medicine benefits a man of my age like Ten Herbs did, it must possess merit," was the statement of Mr. Leonard Henry, 720 Euclid Avenue, Pittsburgh, to the

MR. LEONARD HENRY

Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great herbal compound to crowds of men and women. Mr. Henry is a Civil War veteran, and a member of the G. A. R. Post 117. He has lived in Pittsburgh all his life, and was employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad for 50 years.

"They say that after 'three score and ten' a person is living on borrowed time and needs something to take the place of youth's assistance," Mr. Henry continued. "I always had a fairly good appetite, but food did not digest properly. Gas would form and cause me to get very short of breath. My bowels were extremely irregular—some days like dysentery and other days badly constipated. My blood circulation was not what it should be, and my nerves were in such a bad state that I slept poorly.

"I thought my condition was due to my age, but I can honestly say that since using Ten Herbs I feel years younger. Your medicine seemed to be just what my system needed. I enjoy my meals now and can digest my food. Gas does not form and I do not become short of breath. My bowels are regular. All my different organs seem to have been benefited. My blood circulation has been wonderfully improved, and I sleep better at night. I have recommended Ten Herbs to a number of friends and gladly give this statement for publication."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

COUNTY TAKES OVER RAID MONEY

STILL AND MASH UNCOVERED BY RAIDERS

Visiting Wilmerding, West Elizabeth and three places in Pittsburgh, prohibition agents last night confiscated a still, a large quantity of moonshine and "home brew."

Of two dwellings in Wilmerding, one in State street yielded several bottles of moonshine, and the other, near by, housed a 250-gallon still, 54 barrels of mash and moonshine. Nobody was found in the latter place.

In a store in West Elizabeth the raiders said they found six 50-gallon barrels of moonshine, a large number of empty bottles, containers and chips of whisky barrels used in "blending" moonshine. Harry Genelin, 22, of 3114 Avalon street, was arrested. A Preble avenue saloonkeeper was arrested when beer and moonshine were seized in his place.

Making their second trip within 30 days to a restaurant at 4320 Penn avenue, the officers said they seized a small amount of moonshine and two men.

GARDNER PUTS RULE INTO EFFECT

All money seized in raids, or in connection with law violations, must be turned over hereafter to the county custodian of evidence in the office of District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner. George W. Murren, chief of county detectives, stated today that this rule had been put into effect in conformance with an order issued by the district attorney Saturday prior to his departure on a vacation trip.

The order was the direct result of a demand upon Mrs. Margaret Morgan, Sewickley justice of the peace, that she turn over $1,655.55 in her custody or possession since November, 1924. Murren stated that he conveyed this demand to Mrs. Morgan on the order of Gardner. Yesterday she visited Acting District Attorney Andrew T. Park and delivered this amount in cash.

The money was alleged to have been confiscated in a raid on a gambling game in a poolroom conducted by Mart Richardson in Chartiers avenue, McKees Rocks, about November, 1924. He was indicted in February, 1927, and convicted April 6, 1927, on a charge of keeping a gambling house. Judge George V. Moore paroled him for one year.

Mrs. Morgan failed to produce the money at the time of trial, although it was essential to prove the charge, according to Assistant District Attorney John F. Haggerty, who obtained the conviction.

Asked what explanation was given for retention of this money by Mrs. Morgan, Park said she stated to him she had been advised to retain it until disposition of the case and an order of the court. Asked why no action had been taken since disposal of the case nearly 16 months ago, Park stated Mrs. Morgan had explained she overlooked it.

No interest on the money was turned over by Mrs. Morgan, Park stated upon inquiry. Whether interest will be demanded or not is under consideration. More than $300 interest would accrue on this sum at 5 per cent since its confiscation. Park stated it would be placed in the bank in a special account pending the return of Gardner. It is expected that it will be turned over to the school district of McKees Rocks, as required by law.

The order of the District Attorney is designed to assure the production of money as evidence during trial as well as to insure the delivery of confiscated cash to school districts or poor boards, as the law may specify. Such cases arise frequently in the seizure of slot machines containing cash.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

DOLLY'S UNETHICAL ACT

By ERIC HEATH

TOM WINSTON and Dolly, his wife, were on the New York train when they saw the girl. Her air of sophistication and reserve were belied by the wistful, half-frightened expression in her large, dark eyes. She might have been a lovely child, but as a young woman of 18, which she seemed by her manner and dress to be, she lacked something.

"I don't think she's as old as she appears," Dolly said in a whisper to her young husband. "I'd like awfully well to know who she is and where she's going."

"Now why do you?" asked Tom. "I can't understand the curiosity of women," he added.

"Don't start to harangue," pleaded Dolly. "I don't know why I'm interested in that child—but I am!"

Tom glanced across at the girl; his eyes met the dark ones and she flushed and cast upon him a withering glance before she turned her back on him.

"I've been snubbed," murmured the young lawyer with a grin. "My interest has been misinterpreted. You see, your unbridled curiosity has gotten me into trouble."

They thought no more of the girl after they left the train, although Dolly did observe her hurrying through Grand Central Station ahead of them. She was looking anxiously about, then darted out of a door and was swallowed up in the throng. She had been carrying a very handsome leather bag, and Dolly wondered vaguely why she hadn't gotten a red-cap to take it for her. There was something almost furtive about her disappearance.

"We're dining out with a business friend," Tom said. "Hoped we'd be alone tonight, so we could run down to the village, after taking a show. But when I called McCarthy, Haynes & McCarthy on the phone, just now, old Mr. Ellison, senior partner, insisted on our being his guests. He's as rich as Croesus."

"Oh, dear!" sighed Dolly, "I suppose when I accompany you on business trips I ought to be politic and accept disappointments!"

"Tomorrow night," promised Tom, "we'll do as we please. There's a place in the village called 'The Swinging Gate'—"

"Fair enough," cried Dolly, as their taxi drew up before the hotel, and the door was opened by a liveried page.

As it turned out, they had a lovely dinner with old Mr. Ellison. He took them to an exclusive club, and very kindly gave Tom a guest card. Dolly knew from the way her husband's eyes lit up, just how very exclusive it was. Tom liked such things, but then, she smiled, every man has his own way of being vain!

"Telegram, Mr. Ellison," said a bright looking colored boy, very swank in a dark red uniform and brass buttons.

"Business — always business!" exclaimed the old gentleman. "You'll excuse me?" as he flicked open the envelope.

He read the message through, and the next instant Dolly was amazed at the change in their host. His ruddy face drained of color, his pale, kindly, blue eyes became hard and fixed. Clasping his hands to his heart, he groaned.

"You must pardon me, my dear young people," he apologized pathetically. "That wire— Very bad news!"

"Now," said Dolly, "you don't want to be bothered with us tonight."

As they walked up the street to the taxi-stand on the corner, Tom asked: "What could have given him such a fright?"

"I don't think it was a fright," replied Dolly. "Just a shock!"

They went to a charming play called "The Ivory Door," and then, at Tom's insistance, rode down to the Village to eat oysters at "The Swinging Gate."

They sat at a little checkered table, one of the many scattered about the place, and as Tom ordered the oysters, Dolly looked around with interest. Madam, the proprietress, sat before the large open fire at the end of the long room, and before her a huge yellow cat stretched on the warm hearth and blinked tawny eyes.

A girl sat alone at the table across from them. Though her back was toward them, Dolly noted something familiar about her. She watched the door anxiously.

Presently it swung open, and a tall, dark youth strode in. He smiled at her, grinned boldly at Madam, and crossed to the girl's table.

"I've been waiting for hours," Dolly heard her say huskily.

The youth sat down, took her hand and began speaking rapidly in French. Dolly heard the girl exclaim, saw her shoulders stiffen. Suddenly she flung his hand away, put her dark curls on the checkered board and burst into loud sobs.

Madam arose in agitation. "I can't have that!" she cried out.

The girl raised her head, and for the first time looked their way. Dolly stifled a little cry and Tom stared in amazement. Their little train companion!

Then, to Tom's astonishment and chagrin, Dolly sprang to her feet, crossed the room to the strangers and spoke to the girl.

"Doris Ellison, your uncle knew what sort of a fellow you'd planned to run off with! You've almost broken his heart!"

"How did he know about me?" asked the girl unsteadily.

"He's been communicating with the principal of your school. Tonight he got a telegram and he thinks that you—"

"This young lady has promised to marry me!" the dark boy suddenly cried.

Madam, the proprietress, who had been listening closely to what the girl and Dolly said, turned and glared at him contemptuously. "Bah, Jules!" she cried," you already have a wife—and a child. Now you get out of here!"

"I don't see how Mr. Ellison's niece, a girl raised among cultured people, with every advantage, could have fallen in love with a cad," said Tom Winston, as they walked to the hotel after having taken Doris Ellison home.

"I told him not to be so strict with her," Dolly observed. "If she'd been allowed to have beaus—be a little foolish—"

"But how did you know who she was, the way you did?" asked Tom, to whom certain puzzling questions were beginning to suggest themselves. "And about that telegram, how did you know that?"

"I saw her name on her traveling-bag, as plain as day," his wife told him. "And as to the telegram, I read it when I picked it up from the floor and stuffed it into Mr. Ellison's pocket. I was curious to know what upset him. Now, don't look so shocked, Tom! Maybe it wasnt ethical—but you'll have to admit, it was sound common sense!"

Nixon Audience Finds Much To Laugh At In Fun Plot Of "Polly With a Past"

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

ANOTHER fun vehicle, "Polly With a Past," gave the Nixon Players further opportunity to more firmly establish themselves with Nixon audiences last night, when this comedy by George Middleton and Guy Bolton was presented with a new leading woman, Marguerite Merrill, in the title role. The play, which is based on the efforts of a young man to win a girl whose main interest in life is the saving of human wrecks, and who is induced by a couple of friends to pretend to be attached to a French siren so that the object of his affections may have an opportunity to "save" him, contains numerous farcical situations which developed many laughs last night.

Miss Merill, as a stranded minister's daughter, Polly, seeking a musical career in New York and finds herself drafted from housemaid service in apartments of two bachelors to become the invented Paulette with a dreadful past, gave a vivacious characterization of the pretended adventuress with a charming French accent and dialect. She revealed, too, a very pleasing singing voice, accompanying herself at the piano. Harry Bannister was humorously dumb as Rex, the victim of her supposed wiles which were more real than they seemed to be. The height of the fun was reached in the second act, when Rex and Polly were asked to describe his rescue of her from drowning, published as a hoax to impress the society friends of Rex. Rex's fellow conspirators hadn't had time to tell him or Polly about the "drowning" so, naturally there was a mixup.

Clifford Edge and Howard Freeman skillfully played the pals of Rex and Louise Quinn was the lady with the yearning to save derelicts because it was all so thrilling. Kathryn Card and Sara Ford played other feminine roles effectively. Norman Porter, Fred Sullivan Joseph Thayer and the handy "George Spelvin" played the remaining male parts.

The setting of the first act, ornate bachelors' quarters, helped the production to register.

TRITE DRAMA, 'NIGHTSTICK' IN PITT

By JOHN P. COWAN.

Just like a dramatization of the average newspaper front page are the incidents and the plot in "Nightstick," which the George Sharp Players are doing in the Pitt this week. It is a realistic melodrama that has to do with the lives and love affairs of "cops," as they call themselves, and, dealing with officers of the law, it embraces the doings also of underworld characters. This play, written in collaboration of many authors, harks back to the days when it was the proper thing to weep for the heroine and hiss the villain and when the clang of the fire alarm, the roar of the limited mail train or the sawmill made the big scene. The only difference in "Nightstick" is that two persons are shot down in cold blood, but nobody is saved, and there is not the thrill of the old fashioned fire bell or whirring sawmill.

Last night's audience seemed to be waiting for the "big scene" as in the old days, but it did not come, and so there was no liberal applause. The work of the players was sympathetically received, for it was realized that they were making the most of this vehicle, which seems more or less trite because it deals with murder, and murder has come to be such a commonplace affair.

Olive Meehan, as the girl weary of "police talk" and the profession of man-hunting, the daughter of one policeman and the sweetheart of another, plays a tense emotional role with intelligence and poise. Likewise Bradley Page handles the part of the super-man-hunter with decision and confidence that distinguishes his stage presence. John Moore, Robert Fisk and Reed Hamilton maintained their hold on Pitt patrons in the portrayal of onerous roles. The entire personnel of the company is well cast and the play moves with zest and spirit. It is well staged.

ASTOR AND HUGHES ON SCREEN IN GRAND

"Sailors' Wives" is the big picture in the Grand this week. After seeing it the spectator is perplexed as to the truth of the old saying that the sailormen have sweethearts in every port. This is a flippant observation on a film in which there is real dramatic quality depicted by Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes, but the title arouses the question in the minds of the audiences, nevertheless. Supporting the stars are Olive Tell, Gayne Whitman, Ruth Dwyer and the veteran, Burr McIntosh, good actors everyone. The news pictures with scenes leading up to the Heeney-Tunney fight and the Mohammendan religious festivals in India are especially interesting. The Brownlee entertainers furnish an acceptable stage presentation.

Olive Meehan, leading woman in Pitt play, "Nightstick," presented by George Sharp Players.

Mary Astor is star of "Sailors' Wives," screen feature of the program given in the Grand.

Cullen Landis is seen in "Lights of New York," talking photoplay, attraction in the Stanley.

Leatrice Joy has the principal role in "The Bellamy Trial," principal photoplay in the Penn.

Marguerite Merill makes her debut as leading woman in Nixon, which offers "Polly With a Past."

VOCAL MOVIE IN STANLEY

"The Lights of New York," which surely marks an innovation in photoplays, in that all of the characters speak their lines as they depict the action on the screen, made a very favorable impression as the screen feature in the Stanley yesterday. The story is a dramatic one of the association of bootlegging with night life of New York and there are scenes of various phases of this activity, with a cabaret and a barber shop and focal points. The vocal quality is excellent and the play, itself, while not a dramatic masterpiece, nevertheless is interesting. Helene Costello does well as a cabaret dancer whose love for a young barber saves him when he is to be "taken for a ride' at the behest of Wheeler Oakman, bootlegger and cabaret manager who discards his own "woman" who warns him the dancer is not for him. Cullen Landis as the young barber shop proprietor, plays his part excellently. Gladys Brockwell is convincing in an emotional role. On the stage various acts pleased, including Eileen Flory, singing comedienne, George Sisters, in melody and dances, and a number of others. "Spirit of the Blues" was the appreciated overture. News pictures included views of the recent boat race between the Chris Green and Betsy Ann.

DANCING ACT HEADS PROGRAM IN SHERIDAN

The leading stage act in the Sheridan Square for three days is "Stepping Along," presented by seven girls who give an elaborate dancing revue. Arthur Crowe offers characterizations in a comedy skit. Stutz & Bigham have a routine of comedy chatter, songs and dances. Paul Brothers appear in feats of equilibrism and Elwell & Dell present an offering of comedy. There also is a feature photoplay, "Hold 'Em Yale," on the character of which brief comment is made in the review of the Harris. Short screen features and an organlogue by John E. Mitchell complete the program.

NOVELTY TOPS HARRIS BILL

The feature of the program of six vaudeville acts and photoplays in the Harris for the first half of this week is "The Golden Violin," a novelty inasmuch as the instrument appears to play itself while held in the hands of a young woman. Charles Howe & Nannette have a somewhat similar offering in which an automatic piano plays snatches of popular classic airs, seemingly in response to conversational suggestions from Mr. Howe. It also plays more sustained selections for dances by Nannette. Jim Reynolds chatters humorously and is a favorite, garnering the most laughs. There also is a meritorious dancing act by Atkins & Lucinda, and a couple of other stage offerings as well as the screen program, which includes news reel ring scenes of the Tunney-Heeney contest which are quite interesting although the actual boxing, prohibited by Federal law, is not shown. The feature film, "Hold 'Em Yale!" is a farcical romance, with Rod LaRocque as an Argentinian freshman who takes up football to win "the girl" and then gets into trouble on the night before the big game. It is foolish but funny.

PENN PICTURE LESSON

"The Bellamy Trial," in the Penn this week, is an educational picture. Yes, there's a mystery to the plot but the most of it deals with the whims of lawyers, the finger-printing stunts of detectives, the love-making of reporters and some of the routine of tabloid journalism. It shows up the exploited murder trial as an entertainment par excellence for those people who gloat over morbid things. In following the various characters—the lawyers, the jurors, the witnesses, the court criers, the reporters and the bailiffs—the spectator is mystified as what it is all about except that he is extremely fascinated by the individual pictures. Leatrice Joy has a good part, but there are several other outstanding characters and all are well played. It is a long picture and consumes the most of the Penn's program. A Hal Roach "gang" comedy is a good foil to the tenseness of the big picture. Teddy Joyce calls his presentation the "Ocean Blues." It is good mid-summer entertainment.

PIGEON FOUND IN CANADA BELIEVED IN CUBAN RACE

PRINCE ALBERT, Saskatchewan, July 31.—(AP.)—A pigeon believed to be one of three recently released at Havana, Cuba, in the Cuba-to-Washington racing classic has arrived here. The bird entered the loft of E. F. Webb. It bore the marking "A. U. 24 E. F. C. No. 60," and wore a band with the address "738 Jeuvelmaane, 221 Webster avenue, Brooklyn."

NEW YORK, July 30.—(AP.)—Anton Huevelmans, Brooklyn pigeon fancier, said last night that he was unable to identify from its markings the pigeon which arrived at Prince Albert, Sask. The bird's legband bore the address "738 Jeuvelmane, 221 Webster avenue, Brooklyn," which is Heuvelman's address.

The pigeon fancier said he is a member of the American Union, a pigeon racing association, whose secretary, A. J. Behrenet, of Chicago, enters birds of members in

BRITAIN, FRANCE AGREE ON NAVAL LIMITATION

HUSBAND GOT ROUGH, DIVORCE PLEA CHARGES

Alleged that her husband struck her on the head and knocked a skillet out of her hand because his lunch was not ready, Mrs. Edna R. Keil, Crafton, has filed a claim for counsel fees and alimony in Common Pleas Court, in her divorce action against Robert H. Keil. The couple formerly lived in Brookline.

AMERICA, OTHER POWERS EXPECTED TO JOIN PACT

International News Service.

GENEVA, July 31.—Announcement has been made in the British House of Commons that England has made an agreement with France for limitation of naval armaments as an important step towards peace and disarmament. Coming at the same time as the United States pact to outlaw war, the two developments were hailed as inter-linking.

The opinion was advanced that the Anglo-French agreement may go far towards solving the whole disarmament problem.

"The United States always sustained the French views on naval limitation. The Anglo-French agreement will make a solution easy," a League of Nations official told International News Service.

The naval agreement and the American anti-war treaty are expected to play an important part in discussions when the League Assembly meets here next month.

TO INVITE OTHER POWERS

LONDON, July 31.—(INS.)—British official circles were optimistic today that the other interested powers will approve the terms of the Anglo-French agreement for limitation of naval armaments. The terms of the compromise have not been made public, but will be communicated to America, Italy and Japan within a short time.

It is believed here that the conditions of the agreement will form the basis of a new international conference to be summoned later.

Negotiations between London and Paris had been conducted secretly and the announcement by Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain took the press by surprise.

GOES TO CONFERENCE

According to present plans the Anglo-French terms will be submitted to the next meeting of the preparatory disarmament conference which, hitherto, has not gone deeply into the naval aspect of international disarmament.

9-YEAR-OLD LAD SWIMS 14 MILES IN FOUR HOURS

CHESTER, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Johnny "Freckles" Devine, Jr., Philadelphia's 9-year-old swimming prodigy, swam the Delaware River from Philadelphia to Chester yesterday, a distance of 14 miles, in 3 hours, 58 minutes.

When Johnny was lifted to the wharf here and greeted by the Mayor and a crowd of cheering spectators, he said he "felt fine and wasn't a bit tired."

Plunging into the river at the Navy Yard in Philadelphia at 2:22 p. m., the boy swimmer, aided at times by the tide, arrived at 6:20 p. m. His father, his trainer, and a number of others followed the lad down the river in small boats.

The boy has been an accomplished swimmer since he was 3 years old and holds many boys' records. Until today his biggest feat was swimming Biscayne Bay, Florida.

EX-STATE CHIEF REFUSES TO BACK WET

HARRISBURG, July 31.—(AP.)—Opposition of Vance C. McCormick, former Democratic national chairman, to Gov. Smith as the Democratic presidential nominee is crystallized in an editorial in today's editions of the Harrisburg Patriot, which McCormick publishes.

The editorial repudiates Smith for his anti-dry views as governor of New York and his recent declaration to the Houston convention for modification of the prohibition laws, and asserts Gov. Smith's "belated telegram to his party's convention at Houston was a contradiction and repudiation of his party's platform."

Mr. McCormick, as chairman of the Democratic national committee in 1916, directed President Wilson's campaign for re-election.

DEATH ROLL

A. E. Kemmerling.

Funeral services for Alexander E. Kemmerling, 63, who claimed descent from Mary, Queen of Scots, will be held tonight under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. at Pitcairn. He died Saturday in the West Penn Hospital. His ancestors were among the earliest settlers in Pennsylvania and his mother was Elizabeth Stuart, of the old Scottish family. He had been a member of the Odd Fellows lodge for more than 40 years. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Alice Oliver Kemmerling, three sons, Arthur E., Glenn P. and Ralph L. Kemmerling and a daughter, Mrs. Alexander C. Wellington.

Mrs. Charles Leppia

Mrs. Dorothy Leppia, 75, wife of Charles Leppia, of 108 Seventh avenue, Homestead, died yesterday. She was born in Germany, coming to Homestead about 40 year ago. She was a member of St. Mark's German Evangelical Church of Munhall. Besides her husband, she leaves two sons, Frank Leppia, of Munhall, and Adolph Leppia, of McKeesport; two daughters, Mrs. Carrie Trautman, of West Homestead, and Mrs. Fred Brickner, of Homestead.

Weather Conditions.

The crest of the high pressure area stretches along the Atlantic seaboard this morning, from Maine to Florida. The pressure, however, has diminished somewhat. It is producng clear skies, generally, east of the Mississippi, although light showers occurred yesterday afternoon in Eastern Tennessee and Western North Carolina, and over a belt southward from there to the gulf.

Low barometer covers practically the entire West. The principal center is a trough formation extending from Western Ontario southwestward over the central plains to New Mexico. It is producing considerable cloudiness in the Mississippi valley and the Plains states, and thunderstorm conditions from Arkansas northward to Canada. There were also thunderstorms at widely scattered places over the Rocky Mountain states.

The temperature changes were slight, but generally towards warmer.

River Conditions.

The rivers are falling everywhere in the district. Stage at Pittsburgh is 10.8 feet; Dam No. 2, 7.9, and Dam No. 6, 8.4. All the dams are up.

PURSE TAKEN AT PICNIC, 2 SUSPECTS ARRESTED

Andy Janaski, of Wall, held his infant daughter with one hand and a dime with the other, ready to place the coin on a paddle-wheel game in Kennywood Park, then two pickpockets filched his purse. Close by was Constable A. J. Ackerman, who arrested William Orlando and Jimmie DiGionra, of Webster avenue and Fullerton street, who were committed to jail today in default of $1,000 bail each on charges of larceny from the person.

Denied Phone Use, Shot Neighbor, Police Say

Refused the use of a neighbor's telephone yesterday, Frank Catalene of Bluff street, Bridgeville, shot Jacob Oznanich, the neighbor through both legs, police allege. Catalene fled and is being sought. Oznanich was taken to St. Francis' Hospital.

3,000 Y. P. C. U. DELEGATES GO ON RECORD FOR HOOVER

CONNEAUT LAKE PARK, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—A resolution endorsing Herbert Hoover for the presidency was adopted at the national convention of Young People of the United Presbyterian Church in annual session here yesterday.

The convention has registered over 3,000 delegates from the 50 presbyteries of this church.

The resolution reads:

"We pledge our support to Herbert Hoover, not as a partisan nominee, but for his courageous stand for righteousness and sobriety. The issue is clearly defined. It is law, order and decency versus nullification and corruption. We therefore call on all Christians to stand firmly for the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act, and to vote only for such national, state, county and municipal officers sa may be worthy persons."

Falling off a scooter while playing in front of her home last night, Dorothy Long, 9, of 119 East Fifteenth avenue, Homestead, suffered a fractured hip. The child was taken to Homestead Hospital.

Six Nuns Carry Dead Sister to Grave

ERIE, Pa., July 31.—Six sisters of the Order of St. Joseph's were pallbearers at funeral services for Sister M. Tobia (Blenner), a nun for 51 years, which were held in Our Lady's chapel yesterday. The Rt. Rev. Monsignor R. T. Guilfoyle was celebrant of the solemn requiem high mass and was assisted by the Rev. John Walsh, pastor of the St. Columbkill Church, Stoneboro.

Sister Tobia was a teacher at Villa Maria and also taught classes at St. Patrick's and St. Michael's Church.

Never a Marcel Wave

By Edna Wallace Hopper

On the stage, in public and at private functions, my hair always attracts. During my performances women never fail to ask the secret of my perfect wave and the youthful, lively sheen of my hair.

It is very simple. I wave my own hair. First, I moisten it with my liquid hair-dress, Wave and Sheen. I use a comb to apply it. Then I carefully insert the combs. I tie a piece of chiffon over my head. By the time I am ready to complete my toilette the waves are in to stay.

A radiant sheen, free from stickiness, is the chief charm of this simple method. Wave and Sheen is the only dressing I would use on my hair. It is the only preparation I know that does not give the "plastered" effect, which I cannot tolerate. The hair must have some air in order to be healthy and free from dandruff.

You can get a bottle of my Wave and Sheen at any toilet counter. It is guaranteed. 75 cents.

FACE AND ARMS BROKEN OUT

Cuticura Heals Hard, Red, Itchy Pimples.

"My face and arms were broken out with pimples. They were hard and red and so itchy that they caused me to scratch. I only got a few hours of sleep at night on account of the irritation. I tried a few remedies but could not get rid of them. I sent for a free sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and used them with good results. I purchased more and after using about two cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Alice Egli, Rt. 1, Hawley, Pa.

Cuticura Soap shampoos cleanse the scalp and hair of dandruff and dust and assist in the healthy growth of hair.

Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Sold everywhere. Sample each free. Address: "Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. R, Malden, Mass." [illegible] Cuticura Shaving Stick 25c.

ON THEATER BILL

"MAKING A NEWSPAPER"

George Bancroft and Evelyn Brent (above), in "The Dragnet," thrilling underworld drama, are featured on the Arsenal Theater bill tonight, which includes also, "Making a Newspaper," two-reel news feature, showing the operation of the modern newspaper. This interesting newsreel shows how the reporter "gets the story," following it through the various processes of publication to the street.

WHAT'S ON THE AIR

MILLIONS of listeners-in will find it hard to keep their toes from tapping tonight when the Seiberling Singers Orchestra, under the direction of Frank Black, will trace the growth of modern American orchestration on the evening ether. The program will run the gamut from that best-known of all the shoulder-swaying pieces of Negro origin, the "St. Louis Blues," played in its original form, to Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue," which first demonstrated the full possibilities of the new symphony orchestra.

The Sacred Song Concert broadcast from Station KDKA, beginning at 10:20 p. m., will be presented by Lethia Frazier Rankin, soprano, and Richard Fulton, tenor, supported on the piano by Stephen Miller.

The gospel selections during the sacred half hour have been chosen from requests to the sponsor of the program.

Hank Simmions' Show Boat, a WJAS feature, also is a program that many will enjoy. The programs:

"IO" Dreams of Alan Blake As Marie and Pal Plan 50-50 Married Life

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Ione Farr, just out of high school, gets a position in a music publishing house in New York to which she commutes from her home up the Hudson. Her chum, Marie Karey, is engaged to Palmer Elliott, a young lawyer. Ione loses her heart to Alan Blake, who also works for the same firm. He sees the two girls at a hotel restaurant.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

"BUT—well, if they're really in love? Ten years—why, if they're in love they'd wait 10 years. You'd wait for Pal, Marie, darling."

"Whether I'd like to or not, Io, it isn't a thing you can do today. Life moves too fast, somehow; love—faithfulness—those things get dropped out and lost as you go along. Anyway why should I wait? Even a year for Pal to make good—why should I? Keep my job, bring two salaries into the house! That's a way to show love, isn't it?

"Make a partnership; 50-50 marriage. Happier with the wife keeping a hold on independence."

"But I don't see . . . Probably I'm old-fashioned, Marie. I sort of like working around the house, cooking and all. Sometimes I go over to Jenepher's and do this and that; some little thing for Timmy, poor baby. And of course if you want independence you needn't get married!"

They giggled at that; started along the street together, arm in arm. Lights were like spilled jewels, glittering red and green and golden in the purple dusk.

"So beautiful, Marie—never so beautiful before. I'd like to gather some, string them for a necklace. Hang a couple in my ears and make a band for my hair. Ah, lovely!"

Marie gave her a quizzical look, shook her arm. "You sound in love, Io. Did you like Alan Blake? But, of course, everyone does.

"They say he came here from college. He was playing in a musical society and met one of our studio men—Wolfie Speed, it was. He's awfully clever! Welmar's going to pass him higher as soon as he learns the ropes, I heard. Look—right on the dot!"

They crossed the corner as she spoke and came up to a young man waiting there. Palmer Elliott, broad-shouldered and stocky, had a square, solemn face. Now it lightly slowly when he saw Marie.

Ione waved farewell and ran for the car that would take her to the ferry. Lyall was a 40-minute ride on the express; now she would have to take a local and keep little Janey waiting dinner.

But she felt a creeping restlessness tonight; a dim sense of excitement that made her wish to delay her home-coming. She kept thinking of Marie, of what she had said about 50-50 marriage. Marie wanted that—ah, yes, it was all right, then.

Not for her, though. Old-fash-

NO HISSES FOR NOBILE

ROME, July 31.—(AP.)—Gen. Umberto Nobile and the surviving members of the ill-fated dirigible Italia came back to Italy today to be greeted enthusiastically by their countrymen seeking to show unbounded confidence in them despite criticism in many parts of Europe.

Premier Mussolini, "Il Duce," symbolized the feelings of the Italian people in the matter of being the first to extend greetings to the returning men at the very threshold of the mother country, purposely sending the prefect of Bolzano to the Brenner Pass to welcome them in the name of "Fascist Italy."

As the train transporting Nobile and his men advanced southwards the enthusiasm increased steadily. Trento made a patriotic demonstration, Verona solemnly received them and Bologna gave them a frantic ovation. Even greater manifestations are expected at Florence this evening and at Rome tonight.

Brennan, Dem. Head, Dying

International News Service

CHICAGO, July 31.—George E. Brennan, Democratic committeeman for Illinois and close friend of presidential nominee, Al Smith, today was reported near death from septic poisoning.

He was stricken last Thursday following the extraction of two ulcerated teeth. The poison spread to the glands of his throat.

This condition became further complicated by diabetes and pneumonia, according to his physicians.

After a consultation of six prominent surgeons an emergency operation was performed last night to remove some of the poison gathered in the lymphatic gland.

Oxygen was being administered today to keep the stricken leader alive. Because of his age—63— physicians hold little hope for his recovery.

Last rites of the Catholic church were administered before the operation. Mr. Brennan remains conscious and realizes he is fighting death. Gathered at his bedside are his wife and only child, a daughter Mary, and several friends, including former Mayor William E. Dever.

COUSIN'S BODY FOUND, SEARCH FOR ANOTHER

By GENE HOFFMAN,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, July 31.—A story that would challenge the imagination of a Poe or a Maupassant was being unraveled today from the person of August Kessler, a 70-year-old hermit.

Kessler is in Bridewell Hospital suffering from skull fracture and other injuries inflicted upon him by a trio composed of two men and a woman who are said to have robbed him.

When police visited his tumbled-down shack in the forest preserves yesterday to search for clues as to the identity of his attackers, they found a rough board coffin under the hermit's bed. It contained the body of a woman.

Kessler declared the body was that of Clara Haupt, his 73-year-old cousin, who had kept house for him. She died three months ago of pneumonia, he said.

KEEPS CORPSE IN HOME

"Make me a box and keep me here until you get enough money to bury me in the forest," was her last request, Kessler said.

"I didn't have money enough to give her a decent burial, and I didn't want her buried in Potter's field," the hermit told police. "So I built a box and was keeping her under my bed until I had money enough to bury her."

Today forest preserve police, under the direction of Chief August H. Loula, prepared to probe the earth under and around Kessler's shack in the belief that the hermit may have established a private cemetery there.

There was a mysterious peg-leg man, as old as Kessler himself, who until three months ago made his home with the hermit and his housekeeper. This man, the police say, disappeared completely three months ago.

QUEER RELIGIOUS RITES

The investigation has brought to light the queer religious fanaticism of the aged hermit. For 26 years he has lived in the quaint three-room shack deep in the forest preserve. All these years he has conducted weird religious rites in the shadow of the forest and his home. Residents in the vicinity have watched them at a distance.

In his shack police found an altar and a queer assortment of icons. There were altar linens and robes, incense burners and candles.

CAFE TILLS LOOTED

Leaving untouched a safe containing nearly $600, robbers looted three cash registers in the Union Restaurant, 440 Diamond street, early today and escaped with $160 cash and $5 in stamps.

City detectives and the restaurant management were at loss as to how the thieves gained entrance. Windows and doors had not been tampered with. A skeleton key may have been used, detectives say.

The fact that the safe was not opened led detectives to believe the looting was not the work of the safecrackers who have been plying their trade in the downtown district for the last month.

Dairy Co. Damaged By Fire

Flames threatened destruction of the plant of the Hermes-Groves Dairy Company, Forbes and Boyd streets, today.

Backfire in an empty ice cream truck which was being driven from the garage set fire to the machine. The flames leaped to a touring car alongside, destroying the latter.

Employes battled the blaze, and with the aid of city firemen subdued it before it had spread to the large number of other machines and equipment in the garage. Harry Lindar, an employe, was injured. The loss was $2,000.

FINE PENNY TOSSER

Another $50 fine was assessed against Edward E. Fisher, 5716 Forbes street, best man at a Mayflower street wedding last Wednesday, who tossed heated pennies to two score children serenading the newly-married couple.

Charged with cruelty to minor children, by Mrs. Elizabeth Gibson, investigator for the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society, before Aldermen Howard James, of East street, Fisher was adjudged guilty and ordered to pay $50, the costs and the doctor bills incurred by his little victims. Nine children burned picking up the pennies appeared as witnesses.

Fisher had previously been fined $50 in Morals Court on a suspicious person charge.

Will Rogers Says

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 31.

Flew into a Los Angeles airport to wait 'till the fog raised to get over to another one at Santa Monica, when all at once a plane dropped down through fog that was thicker than smoke in a presidential nominating room, and who crawled out of the thing but the kid himself, Lindbergh.

Fog don't stop that lad. I asked him where he was going and he told me, "Confidentially, East."

Say, what do you know about my old friend, William Allen White? He asked Al a question and Al didn't answer. When they get Al to hesitating on an answer, why he looks bad.

Many a man wishes there was a law to burn old records.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

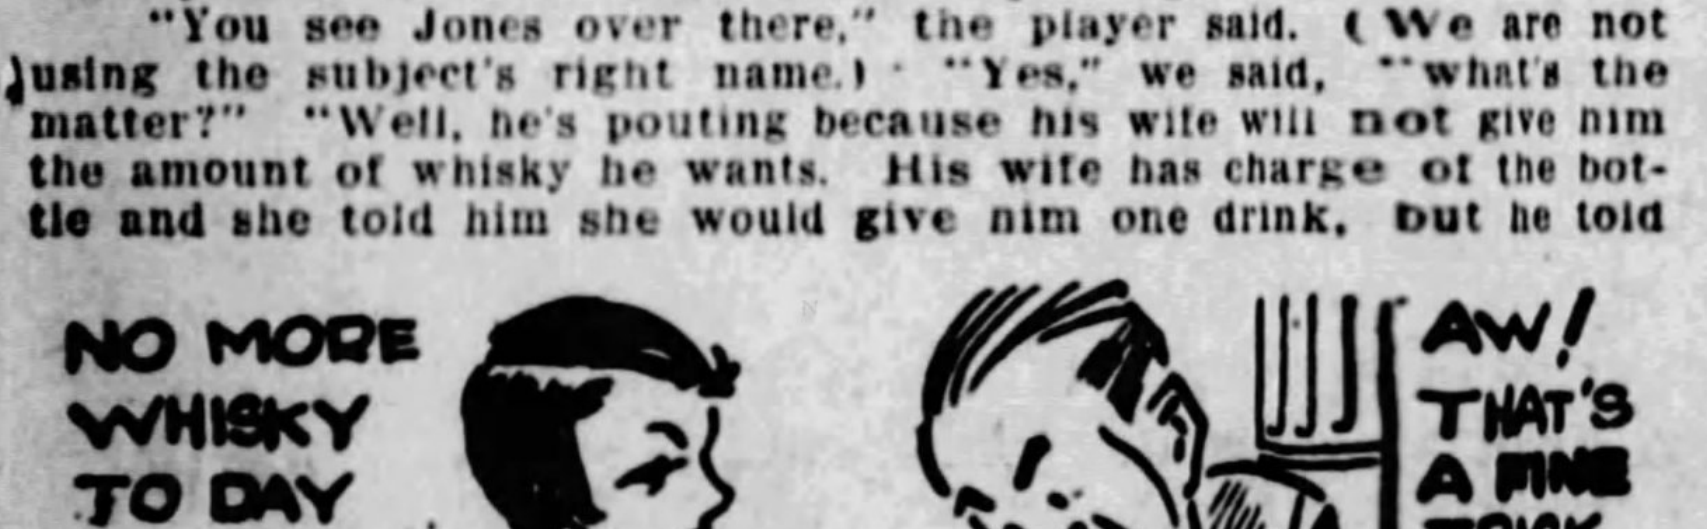
HEROES, also, have their problems. The hero we saw in a hotel lobby recently was a baseball celebrity. A few years ago his diamond exploits had set hundreds of thousands of tongues and heads wagging in admiration. He still is potent in the big league realm. When we saw him he plainly was sulking. He was pouting like a peevish school boy. One of his fellow players explained to us the reason for the pouting.

"You see Jones over there," the player said. (We are not using the subject's right name.) "Yes," we said, "what's the matter?" "Well, he's pouting because his wife will not give him the amount of whisky he wants. His wife has charge of the bottle and she told him she would give him one drink, but he told her a few moments ago he would not go to his room for less than two drinks. They have been having quite an argument."



NO MORE WHISKY TO DAY!
AW! THAT'S A FINE TRICK!

And there was the prominent figure of the diamond, holding a disconsolate head in his hand, while he looked exactly like the kids do when refused a piece of candy or an ice cream cone, which their parents at the time of the request deem bad for them.

A LITTLE later the wife in question was justifying her position to our friend. "I told him I'd give him a drink now and another one a little later on, but he's that stubborn that he says he wants two at the same time. I think he's unreasonable, don't you?"

It developed that a slight check had been put on the hero's drinking because on a recent trip around a part of the circuit, a trip lasting about two weeks, the gentleman in question had spent exactly $700 for his "tea." Hearing about this, as wives do hear about things, the wife took charge of the money and the liquor. She never takes a drink, by the way.

People in Parkersburg, W. Va., may recognize what follows. At least, in Parkersburg some 20 years ago there was a little boy who when he went to parties always came home with a minute description of the kinds of dresses the little girls at the parties wore. No one ever had centered his attention on styles or materials, but better than his sisters could he describe to his mother the various kinds of frocks he saw. About this he was teased by his sisters, and, of course, by rowdy boys who giggled and pointed fingers of scorn at such a strange talent. The boy grew into manhood and went to New York. He was there only a few years until he became recognized as one of the most famous gown designers and merchants in the country. He is a multi-millionaire now, owns country estates and yachts, and divides him time between Paris and New York. Just a Parkersburg boy who made good in the big city—a boy who to this day could not explain to you how he ever got to noticing the style and materials of ladies' frocks.

AND I USED TO RAZZ THAT FELLOW!

IN THE wilds of our summer retreat we have been studying nature at close range. Until yesterday we thought that a chicken laid an egg and then had to wait for another one to come along. Our study reveals that in chickens sometimes there are as many as three and four eggs in a formative stage. We never would have learned this if we hadn't watched the little woman cleaning the chicken for dinner. There's nothing like getting out in the wilds and studying the wonders of Mother Nature.

Another nature point: The grasshopper is one who believes in the saying: "He who hesitates is lost." He is against that school of philosophy which warns scholars: "Look before you leap."

Every day a city boy learns something new.

FAY-KING

By FAY KING

IT TAKES years for a beautiful tree to reach a growth where its branches afford welcome shade and shelter.

It takes but a few moments for a sharp ax to destroy it forever.

Like the tree, it takes time for friendships to grow to the place where confidence and understanding bring happy companionship!

It takes but a few seconds for sharp words to destroy it!

Of the many people in the world, how few we know, and how few know us. How very few will miss us when we are gone.

It takes time to get to the place where we can say "hello." It takes only a moment to say "goodby" forever!

Avoid dispute, doubt and arguments. When the tendency to quarrel arises, as it sometimes does, between the nearest, dearest and best of friends, be the one who has the greater courage to remain silent!

Walk away with a friendly gesture, and when you meet again forget it!

It is hard to keep silent when we know we are in the right. It is hard to keep back the word that will sting at the moment we wish to assert our rights.

But you will never regret the silence, as you assuredly will regret the momentary triumph of saying it!

SKYWARD By Commander Richard E. Byrd

Byrd's Plane Cast About In Inky Darkness While Over Ocean

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Commander Byrd first trained for a seafaring profession, but later became interested in aviation. He has described the dangers of pioneer flying and the adventurous flights of the first aviators to cross the Atlantic Ocean. During the war he established an air unit at Halifax, N. S. He advocated the creation of a Bureau of Aeronautics in the Navy Department. Due to missing a train he failed to make the fatal test flight on the ZR-2. He told of his trip to the North Pole and of the take-off on his trans-Atlantic flight.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Decide to Land on Beach

CHAPTER XXX.

THE worst we had anticipated had happened. Fog at our destination.

In a way we welcomed the fight ahead. Here would be another test of aviation, and I felt we could conquer the elements with the gasoline we had left.

We probably could have flown on to Rome on the edge of the storm area and set the world on fire with this long distance record, but that would not have been "carrying the message to Garcia."

We were able to locate accurately our position by the cities beneath us and the coast line to the left. But before long darkness began to descend, and with it came thick, rainy and ominous weather.

Soon we got only occasional glimpses of the lights of the towns, and the thick, low fogs or clouds drenched the plane and again we were tossed about in the blackness without being able to see our hands before our faces.

It was so inky dark that every time we put on the flash light to give an order it blinded us temporarily, so that we could only dimly see the luminous instrument board. However, the personnel and the many mechanisms of the plane continued to function efficiently, and I had every confidence of hitting Paris.

If we hit Finisterre after almost 2,000 miles of blind flying, I thought we certainly ought to be able to reach Paris a few hundred miles off.

We were using the earth-induction compass and it had been excellent to steer by, better than the ordinary magnetic compass. The pilot had before him the pointer of the earth-induction compass, which was supposed to synchronize with a pointer in the navigator's compartment.

Compass Fails

A number of times I found my pointer considerably off and at first I blamed it on the pilot, but found that one of the pointers apparently was sticky. We would tap the dial and by checking with a standard compass we always managed to get on the course again.

I always take two or three compasses on an important trip, to check for accuracy. In spite of a few minor mechanical difficulties, the earth-induction compass undoubtedly is the aviation compass of the future.

About the time we expected to hit Paris we got temporarily out of the thick weather. I saw bright lights ahead and a revolving light which I took to be Le Bourget. Our dead reckoning showed us to be just about at Paris.

Our troubles seemed at an end. It was a relief. I wrote out the following radio for Mr. Wanamaker:

"Paris is in sight. It has been a great trip. I wish to tell you with enthusiasm that Noville, Acosta and Balchen have faced grave dangers with the greatest possible courage and calmness. They have been wonderful and we all send our best wishes to you."

That radio was never to be sent. I looked down and saw the revolving light flash for an instant on the water. It was a lighthouse. I knew there was no ocean lighthouse near Paris. We were somewhere on the coast of France! I was astonished very greatly indeed.

The compass had gone wrong—had taken us in a great circle. By the flare of our flash lights I conferred on paper with the pilots and concluded that we had made a circle to the left. There had either been some local affection of the compass in the plane, or the pilot's dial had stuck badly. The only way to get on again would be to lay some course and check up the compass.

Inky Darkness

We tapped the dials, checked them with the extra standard compass we carried, and got them O. K. Again we set out for Paris and again were tossed about in the storm and darkness. It was raining very hard on the coast and visibility was bad. It was much stormier inland.

We afterward found that the center of the storm was over Paris. I watched the course carefully after that and checked compasses every few minutes. I knew we were heading toward Paris. The inky darkness was broken occasionally by the flashes of our lights as we needed them temporarily, and the fire from the engine exhaust pipes. The rough air made it a little difficult to steer, especially in the darkness, but we kept a pretty good general course.

Then arose the necessity of watching the gasoline carefully, for a forced landing in the darkness would not only have meant certain disaster for us, but also for some of those perchance beneath us.

Finally, our dead reckoning showed us to be at Paris, but we could see nothing—nothing beneath us—nothing but the luminous lights of our steering instruments.

We had got to the point beyond which, if we had continued, we could not have returned to the coastal waters, on account of the diminished gasoline. We knew that we would need a few gallons of reserve in order to cruise around for a landing place that we might not even then find. I believe at the moment we were near Paris; our motors were heard by many people at Le Bourget through a sound intensifier, but I could not flirt any more with the lives of my shipmates.

Decision Made

The French trans-Atlantic flier Lebrix twice said during speeches at his reception in New York, on February 15 and 16, 1928, that he and all the French aviators waiting for us at Le Bourget agreed that not only should we not have been able to land on account of the very thick weather, but that we should have surely killed people had we attempted it.

In a flash it came to me that the compass needle taking us in a great circle right up to that lighthouse was an act of Providence.

A decision had to be made. My big job was to try not to kill anyone beneath us and to save my shipmates. The only thing to do was to turn back to water.

It would probably be difficult for the layman to visualize our predicament, tossed around in the inky darkness of the storm, drenched by rain.

I doubt if any one could realize the strain of this part of the flight. We had no assurance that the plane could be landed safely on the water, but there was no chance of a safe landing on the land, where we could see nothing.

Thus the decision to turn back did not carry safety with it. It meant that, even should we find water, we could not be certain of landing without disaster, because I never heard of anyone landing in the water when it was pitch dark and when the water could not be seen.

We could not even be certain of landing a great plane like ours safely in the water in the daytime.

Course Set

So, when we turned, we faced uncertainty ahead, but there was nothing els we could do under the circumstances that would give us any chance whatever to save the lives of the crew and to avoid endangering the people beneath us.

We set a course for the lighthouse we had seen. The wind might blow us off a bit in the darkness, but if the fog were not too thick there, we were confident of hitting it, provided we were where we thought we were while over Paris.

Much of the way we could see nothing beneath us, and we were flying so low that Noville had to pull in the antenna of his wireless to prevent it from hitting objects on the ground. Finally, when I thought we were near the lighthouse, I asked Balchen to get down lower. He was afraid of running into something, but we had to take the risk. We emerged from the mists and there was the lighthouse ahead of us. That shows, again, I think, that we had not been lost—that we had been at Paris.

We cruised over it slowly, but in spite of the light the area around it was black, and we could only guess its topography. We could find no landing place. We had hoped there would be a beach and had written out a message on a weghted streamer asking the people to clear the beach and make some kind of light for our landng.

We then flew over the lighthouse and, by the quick flash of the revolving beacon, we could tell that we were over water and dimly distinguish the shore line. We could not discern the character of the beach. It was still raining and dismally thick.

I wrote a note to my shipmates which I passed around with the flashlight which read: "Stand by to land." I knew there would be a hard bump.

We decided to land near enough to the beach line to swim ashore, if necessary, and to salvage the plane, if it were not too badly wrecked. At the same time we had to be far enough away to miss any rocks, should the beach be rocky. That, of course, we could not tell.

How to Remove the Cause With a Natural Remedy

High blood pressure is almost always the result of accumulated body poisons due to constipation or faulty elimination.

Fermented food and germ-laden waste matter clog the system and generate poisons which affect every vital organ, increase blood pressure and actually shorten life.

Get rid of these deadly poisons. Stimulate the liver, assist the kidneys and sweep toxic matter from the intestines by taking Lithurie Salts before breakfast for a week. Because it contains no sodium chloride or sugar—because it is composed only of valuable, natural mineral salts with fruit acids of lemons and grapes, Lithurie Salts is not only harmless but can be depended upon to give quick results in reducing blood pressure and toning up the system generally. Try it. Get a large, inexpensive package of any druggist today on our "satisfaction or money back" guarantee. At any May Drug Co. Store or any other good druggist.

HALF WIVES by Winifred Van Duzer

"IO" Dreams of Alan Blake As Marie and Pal Plan 50-50 Married Life

loned things for her. A garden and a pink dress . . . But why think about it? She wasn't going to get married. Not for years and years!

CHAPTER III.

THE train sped over the Jersey meadows, and she slid down comfortably in the seat, pressing her face to the glass.

Other trains rushing along the horizon; their lighted windows were bright, yellow squares tripping swiftly, smoothly. Like the notes of a bright, quick melody, gliding so.

That was what Jenepher called one of her "nutty notions" and laughed at her about. But Tom and Janey, born O'Hara, understood.

"A bit of a song there is in every drop of Irish blood," Tom told her once. "Make your poetry, then, lass, and never be ashamed just so it is happy poetry!"

Jenepher said, "Pooh—no profit in poetry!" And to that Tom looked very stern and replied: "There are things more worthy."

He spoke that way to Jenepher sometimes. Married five years now, she was barely 26, and buyer in a department of a smart Fifth avenue shop.

She had been only a clerk there when she met Tim Larrabee and they fell tumbling into love. He had a job in Lyall; assistant bookkeeper in the town's largest department store. He was just starting in and his salary was hardly more than Jenepher earned.

They were married. And Jenepher, giving up her work, soon learned that a salary squandered blithely on one must be doled out with caution if it is to cover the needs of two.

Her practical mind considered this and that, siezing on one possibility after another as a means of relieving a situation fast becoming a wearying monotony.

One day she put on her best clothes and went back to the shop she had left six months before. And when she came home at night she met Tim with little gusts of laughter, all glowing—pulled his head down, talked with her lips against his ear.

Ione, slip of a girl then, with black curls all over her head, had looked on excitedly as her sister told the news.

"I'm going to work for a while, Tim, love. Young thing like me, strong as iron—it'll be something to pass the time till you get your raise. I so want to be a good wife to you—wonderful, wonderful boy!

"So it's all fixed up—now, proud of your smart wife?"

She remembered that Tim had answered nothing for a minute, holding himself silent with surprise. Then he said, "You bet—well, you bet. But only for a little, Jen."

So it had started. And the little while had stretched out. Tim had his raise, but Jenepher had one, too. And she had set her heart on a home. A house on fashionable Sickles avenue — it had stood vacant a long time and might be had for almost anything.

They bought the house. What Jenepher had saved made the down payment and instalments were easily met from her salary. But it meant that she would keep on with her work.

Two years — Jenepher coming home; then, reluctantly. Rebelliously—ah, indeed! For her foot was on the ladder now; there was a good chance she might be buyer some day. She had proved a business sense that pleased everybody; already they had given her chances to show the quality of her judgment.

Even when her little son lay in her arms she wasn't reconciled to throwing over opportunity. There still was something due on the house and baby Timmy, now—he'd have needs!

So in less than a year she was back in the shop. Sometimes she left Timmy in the care of his grandmother; sometimes, when he was a wee mite, there was a trained nurse to look after him.

Ione sighed, remembering the succession of nurse maids, housekeepers, "mother's helpers" who had followed each other in her sister's house since Timmy had become a toddler. Little, sweet darling — round, laughing face—chubby hands, always soiled. Poor baby?

Well—Tim was head bookkeeper at the department store now. At about half what Jenepher earned. . . . Any woman would be proud of success. No wonder little Marie wanted to keep at work like Jenepher, brilliant thing!

But there flashed in her thought the picture of herself at a garden gate, pink dress fluttering; someone coming along the road. She had a vivid memory of Alan Blake's warm look as he leaned down, touching her hand with his fingertips. She jumped up, laughing; went to stand in the rush of warm fragrant air at the open door.

The train was curving along a ledge half way up a mountain; far below at the right the river swept to a wide grayness and merged with the lilac sky, threaded by the light of Tarrytown. All her life she had been seeing that—loving it—but it seemed new tonight, brighter, some way.

When the train stopped she dashed up the hill; began to run along Cedar road. The Farr home was at the northern end of the town; a rambling, old-fashioned square house, white with green shutters, set back in a sweep of ground.

Tom Farr had built it himself when he brought Janey there a bride, chopping trees from the forest that covered the hills then and grew down to the river edge. Even now Tom's land ran into a stretch of woodland at the north. Pleasant it was on a warm autumn night with leaves rustling so—the spice of marigolds drifting from the garden . . . She paused on the veranda to look out across the river.

Janey came to meet her—little, round person, with gray ends of hair straggling down her cheeks.

"Io? So late, then, dear? Hurry, child—I tried to keep things hot—"

"Such a day I've had, mother darling!" Ione threw an arm around the plump waist and hurried them both into the house, taking swift little dancing steps. At the end of the hall was the big dining room where Tom read his paper evenings under the light.

He looked up now, his fresh, almost youthful face crinkling as the girl threw herself upon one knee—pulled her mother down on the other.

"So she did come, Mother! There—didn't I say she'd be along next train? You see, now?"

Ione pulled his ear, ran her hand the wrong way on his close-clipped snow white hair so it stood up in a ruff. "If you two are going to worry when I'm late! The idea! Well—don't you want to hear how gorgeous I am? Mr. Benz said—"

Then she must tell them, all breathlessly, what Mr. Benz said in praise of her work; how he promised to take her to the studios tomorrow—teach her how popular songs are made.

Tom listened thoughtfully, chin down. But Janey blushed with delight, put on the wondering look she sometimes turned toward her elder daughter.

"You see, Father? She has your brain. She'll be like Jenepher!"

CHAPTER IV.

HE gave her a long, searching look, turning her head so he could see her eyes.

"Is that it, lass? You wish to be like Jenepher? Have her kind of life?"

Janey had slipped away; now she was clattering dishes in the kitchen, calling that the chops were growing cold. Ione stood up slowly—caught sight of a little, sleeping figure on the couch.

"Oh—Timmy? Ho—the maid's gone, then?"

Tom said: "Tim brought him on the way to work. The woman went yesterday, and he was left to himself till a neighbor took him in."

"Ah"— Eyes brimming she bent over, kissed the tumbled head. "He might have got hurt—run over! Why don't you talk to her?"

He took up his paper. "She's the mistress of her soul!"

Ione ate at the kitchen table; later when Timmy woke up she fed him bread and milk, and he dropped asleep in her arms, soft little face against her neck. She carried him out to the porch-swing, sat there swaying back and forth.

An auto load of young folk went by and hailed her gleefully.

But she wouldn't come and ride. She was thinking of the afternoon, jolting through the cross-town street; of Alan Blake's merry, teasing look when the taxi lurched and he caught her against him with his hand pressing her shoulder.

She had a beau or two—oh, indeed! Johnny Payne, down Castle avenue—wasn't he always hanging around with his roadster, crazy to take her out? And Kay Wilkie telephoning every night, nearly, dropping in casual-like all the time? She'd gone to parties and the movies with him since grammar school.

SURRENDER!

In the Language of Love
It Always Spells "Victory"

Drawn By
Dorothy Flack

© 1928 by Int'l Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.
Dorothy Flack

IN the battle of love the sweetest moment comes when the desired of one's heart surrenders her heart into the keeping of the dearest man on earth.

The conflict of hearts may have been waging long and furiously, with never a thought on either side as to which would eventually win. But when that holiest of all holy moment arrives and she shyly confides all the hopes and fears; all the dreams and hopes with which her heart has been so long filled—ah, then comes the moment of surrender. When his arms enfold her and his lips find hers, and the whispered "Do yous?" and "I wills" so thrill the pair of them. Can anything be more wonderful?

For surrender in the love meaning never spells Defeat! It always spells V-i-c-t-o-r-y—the victory of a loving heart, which at last finds the peace and joy and happiness of a true mate.

She may have teased and coquetted until he's almost frantic with fear—fear that his love will be spurned. But not so. This is the way of love. To tease and laugh until one is sure that the love which is so shyly hidden is welcome. For no one wants to feel that Love may be spurned. So she teases and teases until at last the moment comes, when, with a sweet, soft sigh, she surrenders her heart into his keeping. For she knows now that she is in turn beloved and that her surrender is but the forerunner of all the happiness in the world.

MEDITATIONS of a MARRIED WOMAN

by HELEN ROWLAND

RECIPROCITY IN MARRIAGE

THE trouble with modern marriage is that there is too much "self-expression" and independence in it, and too littel reciprocity and good team-work. There is too much "I-and-mine" stuff and not enough of the good, old Lindberghian "WE!"

* * *

True RECIPROCITY is based on the following simple code. (Brides and bridegrooms, please copy.)

I'll powder your back, if you'll put the studs in my shirt.

I won't nag or chatter at breakfast, if you won't grouch or go into the silence after dinner.

HELEN ROWLAND

I'll sit through a musical comedy without looking like a martyr, if you'll sit through a romantic movie without going to sleep.

I'll let you smoke your smelly old pipe in peace, if you'll let me revel in my rouge and my lipstick to my heart's content.

I'll serve the dinner hot, keep your clothes mended and do all the dish-washing, if you'll wash the car, mow the lawn and tend the furnace without growling.

I'll try to pinch the tooth-paste from the right end, if you'll try to refrain from getting spots on the clean tablecloth.

I won't touch your desk or your safety-razor, if you'll keep your hands off my talcum powder and your cigaret ashes out of my pin tray.

* * *

I won't point out the virtues of my neighbor's husband, if you won't gaze too long or too admiringly at the flapper across the street.

I'll stop using the imported perfume you don't like, if you'll stop eating onions for luncheon.

I won't mope or lecture when you are out late at a poker game, if you won't raise a row when I come in late from a matinee.

I'll try to make the pies that your mother used to make, if you'll try to make the dough that my father used to make.

* * *

I won't do any back-seat driving in the car, if you won't do any efficiency expert stuff around the kitchen.

I'll try to keep your heart up, stimplate your ambition and fill you with courage and self-esteem, if you'll flatter me now and then and keep up my faith and my vanity.

* * *

I'll nurse you, wait on you, suffer with you, rejoice with you and play with you, if you'll pet me, wait on me, sympathize with me and jolly me.

* * *

This is the Code of True Reciprocity, which would make of any marriage a heavenly rest instead of an eternal punishment.

FOR THE LOVELORN

Unhappy

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am another girl coming to you for advice. Three years ago I loved a boy very much. We had a quarrel and for three years I didn't speak. Just recently we made up and he asked me for a date, but I couldn't keep it. He has never asked me since. I think of him during the day and dream of him at night. I can't ask him to come and see me, because I am not allowed to keep company at home. Please advise me on this matter because I am very

UNHAPPY.

Next time you see him, make a point of explaining that your mother doesn't permit you to have boys call on you. He will understand, I am sure.

Back Number

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a girl 19 years old. I don't believe any self-respecting girl should pet, drink or smoke, and I don't do any of these things. All the fellows and girls I know think I am old-fashioned, but I don't care. Some day the right man will come along and I'll be glad. I saved my love and kisses for him. No fellow wants a girl that has kissed every Tom, Dick and Harry, and I don't want that kind of a fellow. Sometimes I get disgusted and feel like giving up, but then I think how young I am. Miss Gale, do you think I will ever find my ideal man?

A BACK NUMBER.

Of course you will find him, my dear, and you will be very glad, then, that you have kept your standards high.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

Lillian Is Impatient to Quiz Phil Veritzen

I DID not ask Lillian for any explanation of her assertion that she expected to be indignant several times before the day of our beach picnic was over, nor did she vouchsafe any. We got into our bathing suits hurriedly, ran out and had a glorious swim in the water of the bay, but in accordance with our agreement to keep watch of Philip Vertizen's reactions to Mary's association with his son and with young Mr. Jackson, we left the water before anyone else did and dressed again. Then, with the ostensible purpose of paying deference to my mother-in-law, we took folding beach chairs and sat down next to her, Lillian signaling surreptitiously to me that this was the best possible place for keeping the great dramatic producer within our vision.

It was not long, however, before we saw that either Lillian had been mistaken about the prohibitory signal she thought she had seen Mr. Vertizen give to Mary at Noel's accosting of her, or else that his prohibtion did not also extend to young Mr. Jackson. For when Katherine and Mary went into the water, young Mr. Jackson promtply left Eleanor Lincoln to Noel's care and, coming up to Mary, carried her off to a swimming race with him.

From that moment the two were inseparable, as indeed were Noel and Eleanor Lincoln. And my employer, far from evincing any displeasure, smiled frequently and benevolently as he looked toward the grouping of the two young couples.

"He swallowed the canary, all right," Lillian whispered to me, when Katie's delicious luncheon having been discussed, and the possibilities of sport in impromptu canoe races exhausted, we prepared to drive to the ocean five miles away. "But why? I shall choke the answer out of him before the day or, rather, the night, is over. I know I shall."

"I shall give you the opportunity as soon as it gets dark," I told her while we again followed the Veritzen limousine with Mother Graham still basking in the great producer's flattering attentions.

I felt the keen glance she shot at me.

"When? Where? What? Why?" she asked.

"Regular reporter, aren't you?" I said, laughing. "It's very simple. When Mary refused to see Noel the other day, he begged me to arrange some way where he could talk to her uninterrupted by anyone. I told him that after the pirate steak tonight in the interval of darkness before the moon comes up, you and I would contrive to give him that opportunity. I did not get the chance to tell you about it, because, don't you remember, right after he left Katie came in screaming that Junior was gone?"

She nodded [illegible] I hurried on.

"I haven't thought of it since, but you'll have plenty of opportunity to talk to Mr. Veritzen, even to strangle him, as you so bloodthirstily wish, for it will be your job to keep him so interested that he will not suspect that Mary and Noel are having an interview. I'll mount guard over them to keep the rest of the party away."

"If this pirate steak is like the others we've had, the most of the party will be lying on the sand around the fire too stuffed to move," Lillian commented grimly. "Only people in love like Noel and Mary will have eaten moderately enough to be able to move. I don't know how I shall get up energy enough to tackle Phil, but there's one comfort, he'll be torpid himself."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, August 1.

THE planetary energies for this day favor great activity and a spirit of adventure into advanced channels, or public service; and while the efforts may be wisely and diligently directed toward success, it is probable that the financial rewards may become complicated or be deferred. Speculation and extravagant outlay carry a hazard. Also employment should be safeguarded.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of initiative and enterprise, with fine prospects and possibly public adventures, but the finances may need to be husbanded and not risked in speculation or extravagance. The employment is likewise menaced, but labor and diligence should bring rewards.

A child born on this day may be industrious and enterprising, with large aims and adventures, but these may be jeopardized by extravagance and the tendency to take long chances.

The energies that reach man from the planets and tend to influence him to blind action when understood become his servants and may be utilized to carry him on to majestic heights.—C. C. ZAIN.

Fish Mold

Soften one-half envelope of gelatine in one-fourth cup cold water; dissolve by standing in hot water. Add dissolved gelatine to three-fourths cup boiled salad dressing and one cup left-over flaked fish, add a little salt, paprika and two tablespoonfuls vinegar. Turn into mold and chill. Remove to bed of lettuce leaves and cut in slices. Garnish with slices of lemon.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

Acid Stomach One of Common Ailments

YOU regulate your children's diet for them. You forbid them certain foods which you believe would be harmful and you limit the quantities. You may sometimes scold or punish the child for disobedience when the temptation of some forbidden favorite proves to strong for the young conscience.

DR. COPELAND

And then you right about face and do just what you punished the child for doing. It is strange how many grown people are slaves to their appetites.

If people never ate food they believed to be bad for them they would never have indigestion. If they never overate or indulged at the wrong time, we would probably hear very little about acid stomach.

Acid stomach and heartburn are the terms commonly used to describe the condition known as "hyperacidity." This is one of the most common of ailments.

The symptoms are varied. The most common are a feeling of fullness and weight in the abdomen, belching of gas and food after eating, headache and sickness at the stomach.

Persons who are subject to hyperacidity know, or think they know, which foods cause the condition. And yet they go on eating them.

Nervousness is an important factor in producing hyperacidity. The condition is most apt to occur when you are nervously tired, overworked or overexercised. If in this condition you eat hurriedly, carelessly or too much, heartburn is likely to be the result. There could hardly be a better formula for bringing on an attack of heartburn than to bolt a meal of rich foods and then hurry right off in a frenzy of excitement to keep a business or social appointment.

Constipation is nearly always a symptom of hyperacidity. Indeed, it is probably one of the causes of it. You cannot hope to cure hyperacidity until the constipation has been relieved.

The first step in correcting the condition is to regulate the diet. Omit rich foods, such as pastries and fried foods, condiments and malt liquors. Limit the amount of fats and starches. Take plenty of green vegetables and stewed fruits.

Overcome the constipation. If regulation of the diet will not do this at once, take a tablespoonful of mineral oil daily, half an hour before breakfast or three hours after the evening meal.

When Fat Departs

new beauty comes, new youth, new health

Excess fat is a blight to beauty, to health, to longevity and youth. Any man or woman who fails to correct it limits the joys of life.

But get the results in the right way. Not by abnormal exercise or diet, for such extremes are dangerous. Combat the cause. Modern science has found that it often lies in a gland deficiency—in a gland which assists nutrition. And physicians the world over now treat obesity by supplying that lack.

When this discovery was made, a great American laboratory embodied that help in Marmola prescription tablets. They have now been used for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Users have told others, until the use has grown to nearly 5,000,000 tablets a month.

All can see the results in every circle. Excess fat is disappearing fast. Almost everyone has friends who will say that the reason is Marmola.

There is no secret about it. Marmola employs just what the best physicians employ to correct this abnormal condition. The complete formula appears in every box. And a book explains the reasons for each good effect. This to prove that the loss in weight is natural and helpful.

Do not change habits in a radical way. Simply take four Marmola tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. The way is easy, pleasant, scientific, real.

Start today, for your own sake, and watch the results. Learn what others have learned in the 20 years of Marmola. Your whole life may be changed by this test.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1.00 a box. Any druggist who is out will order from his jobber.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Pittsburgh to Lose Two More Charming Girls, as They Declare Intentions to Marry Out of Town

I BELIEVE I have commented before on the number of our local girls and men who have married out of town lately. Weddings uniting prominent Pittsburgh families seem to be occurring less and less freqpently and every year we lose a number of our girls to other cities and the social circles there. Of course, our men bring very welcome additions to the local society group when they marry girls from other towns, and I must say that many of these newcomers have proved to be very successful hostesses, and have entered into all the social and philanthropic activities of the city with just as much zest as our own girls have shown. In one or two cases they have become real leaders in all the social events of any size and importance.

All of this harangue has been prompted by Mary Armstrong Robinson's decision not only to marry an out-of-town man, but to be married away from Pittsburgh. Mary's father, William H. Robinson, has homes both in Beechwood boulevard and in Gloucester, Mass., and she is marrying a Gloucester man Henry Leslie F. Buswell, and that means, of course, that her Pittsburgh friends will see little of her excepting on occasional visits.

Mary, as you probably know, has set September 11 as the time and Gloucester as the place for her wedding. And no doubt a number of her Pittsburgh friends and relatives will go East to see her married.

AND still another engagement involving a local girl and an out-of-town man is announced just today. It is that of Harriet Agnes Patterson and Lowell Clement Noyes, son of Mrs. George Edward Noyes, of Evanston, Ill. Harriet is a daughter of the James Pattersons, of Beechwood boulevard, and I believe she hasn't made any definite plans for her wedding yet.

THE Thomas Raymond Evanses, of Beechwood boulevard, have been spending the week-end at Atlantic City, I've been told. They have their son, Raymond, with them and are stopping at the Chelsea. They left last Thursday, I believe, and are expected back home today or tomorrow.

ANOTHER visitor in the East is Mrs. James Crossan Chaplin III, of Glen Osborne. Mrs. Chaplin is spending about 10 days with her father and mother, the junior Jonathan Browns, at their home in Boston.

AUGUSTA LEOVY is a member of an interesting house party. The party is being given by the Loyal A. Osbornes at White Lodge, Stockbridge, and among the other guests are Armory Houghton, son of Alanson B. Houghton, American ambassador at London; Irving B. Cary, the L. H. Osbornes, Jr., and John S. Osborne, secretary to Ambassador Houghton.

MISS PAULINE REILLY, of Homestead, entertained with a bridge luncheon Saturday in the Garden Tearoom in honor of Miss Anna Andress, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Andress, of Homestead and Clairton road, South Hills, whose marriage to Chester L. Shaw, of Lancaster, Pa., will be solemnized August 15. Covers were laid for 12.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES E. HESS and their daughters, Harriet and Virginia Hess, of Mt. Lebanon, are spending several weeks at their cottage at Geneva-on-the-Lake, Ohio.

MISS MARGARET JOHNSON, of Ingram, entertained at bridge in her home Friday night in honor of Miss Leila Tappe, whose marriage to Paul Stewart will be solemnized Saturday. During the evening, announcement was made of the engagement of Miss Clara A. Miller, of Carrick, to Earl C. Tatum, of Oakland, formerly of Norfolk, Va. A fall wedding is planned.

* * *

MR. AND MRS. JACOB BEECH, of Wilkins Crest, Wilkinsburg, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Elsie Beech, and Clarence Carlyle Ailes, of Wilkinsburg, which was solemnized Saturday night in the Beech home. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Harry Nelson Bassler, pastor of Trinity Reformed Church, Wilkinsburg.

THE marriage of Miss Catherine Seewald, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Seewald, of Wilkinsburg, and William N. Daugherty, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Daugherty, of Pitcairn, was solemnized Saturday night in the Seewald home. Mrs. Bruce F. McKain, of Cleveland, was her sister's matron of honor, and John Schiffler, brother-in-law of Mr. Daugherty, was best man. After an eastern trip, Mr. and Mrs. Daugherty will live in Pitcairn.

MISS EDITH MARIE M'BRIDE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. McBride, of Huxley street, Sheraden, has chosen Wednesday, August 8, as the date for her marriage to J. Howard Devlin, of South Pacific avenue. The ceremony will be performed at 9 o'clock in the Holy Innocents Catholic Church.

* * *

ISLAM GROTTO will hold a dinner dance, cabaret and card party next Monday at the Willows, Oakmont. Ralph H. Axthelm is general chairman, with Albert L. Brahm, Jr., as vice chairman. Joseph Glanzrock is chairman of tickets, assisted by Arthur Hallewell; Raymond Fulton and Robert Mullen, "500" and bridge; J. Clifford Franz, publicity, assisted by Earl Summers; James Carson and William Confers, door; Walter Kernats, Jr., dancing and novelties, assisted by Elmer G. Barton.

THE seventh annual Guyer reunion will be held Saturday in the grove at Martinsburgh, Pa. There will be sports for the children and in the afternoon there will be a ball game between the married and single men. A literary program has been arranged for the evening. B. G. Snyder is president of the family organization; G. F. Guyer, vice president, and Mrs. C. E. Guyer, secretary.

THE Women's Athletic Association of the University of Pittsburgh will give a bridge party Wednesday afternoon in the Faculty Club. The committee in charge includes Miss Gertrude Kromer, chairman; Miss Elizabeth Baker, Miss Margaret Lawton, Miss Kathryn Young and Miss Alice Watson.

* * *

JUDGE W. H. S. THOMSON and his family, of Aylesboro avenue, have left for their summer home in Erie county, where they will remain until the late fall.

CARNEGIE WOMEN WILL STUDY VARIED PROGRAM

THE Woman's Club of Carnegie has decided not to confine itself to an exhaustive study of one topic or one art or one country. In its programs for the coming year the members will hear about everything from the pony express to Luther Burbank.

Those who like to travel vicariously will enjoy the programs on the features of different parts of the world. A trip through Maryland, motor coaching through North Carolina, through Georgia, a description of famous falls, canyons and caves, the history of the Mississippi river valley, a discussion of the unexplored portion of the United States, the clay hills of Utah and the lava beds of Idaho, and the story of Los Angeles are all topics to be presented during the coming season.

The art of the theater will interest members at another meeting, and of course, music and painting and writing will receive consideration.

On September 28 the season will open with a meeting in the home of Mrs. William T. Kerr. A review of the year that closed in June, and an outline of the coming season will be presented.

Mrs. H. R. Bigham, president of the club, announces the following committees:

Program—Mrs. Thomas S. Lenfestey, Miss Phalla Gruver, Mrs. L. J. Davis, Mrs. Walter Yourd, Mrs. Harry Herron, Miss Bay B. Harris.

Civic—Mrs. G. C. Hopper, Mrs. Charles W. Millar, Mrs. D. F. Anderson, Mrs. W. A. McDonough, Mrs. Glenn Crane.

Forestry—Mrs. Robert J. Hardy, Mrs. Louis M. Brown, Mrs. Fred Logan, Mrs. Howard Lee, Mrs. John G. Lidgett.

Courtesy—Mrs. John Allenspaugh, Mrs. James M. McPeak, Mrs. M. L. Barrick, Mrs. R. D. Hoffman.

Music—Mrs. Floyd Wallace, Mrs. William Wrenshall, Mrs. Clara Fisher, Mrs. William Brown, Mrs. Charles Herrmann.

Blind—Mrs. Harry Howell, Mrs. D. W. Hopper, Miss Harriet Lenfestey, Mrs. Agnes Carnahan, Mrs. Seymour Sloan, Mrs. Robert Allott, Mrs. T. J. Robinson, Mrs. C. H. Halliwell.

Social—Mrs. Leonard McMillen, Mrs. A. D. Loudermilk, Mrs. Percy D. Siverd, Mrs. Homer Nixon, Mrs. A. B. Huff, Mrs. Clyde A. Johnson, Mrs. J. W. Rehlings, Mrs. Robert Chilton, Mrs. George Raffenspeiger, Mrs. Harry Hinkley.

Dramatic—Mrs. Fred W. Heathcote, Mrs. Charles Sinsell, Mrs. Russell Halpin, Mrs. George Stewart, Mrs. E. G. Fink.

Legislatic—Mrs. Jennie A. Waldie.

Mrs. D. H. Andrews and Mrs. C. C. Fulton are delegates to the Congress of Clubs, and Mrs. J. W. Donaldson and Mrs. John Conrad, alternates.

The executive committee with a few exceptions consists of officers. On this committee are Mrs. H. R. Bigham, Mrs. W. C. C. Johnston, Mrs. J. W. Gilbert, Mrs. Chalmers Davies, Mrs. T. I. Cotton, Mrs. Harry Garvey, Mrs. C. A. Foster, Mrs. F. A. Mercer, and Mrs. L. B. Worley.

Mrs. W. A. K. Clarke is chairman of all programs.

ALTHOUGH the Woman's Club of Edgewood is not small, for its membership is about 70, the organization has only three committees, and these committees are rather small. Yet is a particularly active club. So it is quite plain that the excellence of a group may have no relation at all to the number of its committees.

Mrs. Dean Harvey, who is president of the Edgewood Club, has announced three committees, the program, the social and the press.

Mrs. Henry D. James, Mrs. C. S. Krouse and Mrs. Frank C. Demmler constitute the program committee.

There are more members, as one might expect, on the social committee, which includes Mrs. Edward A. Craig, Mrs. George W. Herriott, Mrs. Frederic H. Parke, Mrs. Frank W. Conner, Mrs. Frank C. Demmler, Mrs. Thomas S. Grubbs and Mrs. W. C. Scott.

Mrs. L. C. Gardner, Mrs. J. G. Hays and Mrs. James L. Weldon have been appointed to attend to the club's publicity.

For those who like books, and the members of the Edgewood Club do, the program for next year of this group is most appealing.

Duquesne Bouts Off

DUE to a mixup in dates, the boxing show scheduled for the Duquesne Steel baseball park next Monday night has been postponed one week, Promoter Jules Beck announced today. Osk Till, of Rochester, N. Y., who is to meet Garfield Johnson, local Negro light-heavyweight, in the 10-round main bout, is listed to box Billy Vidabeck at Buffalo next Monday night.

The conflict was caused by a delay in returning contracts. Till will be here for the battle a week from Monday night, however. He is a former sparring partner of Gene Tunney and Vidabeck has been with Tunney for the latter's last three fights.

Johnny Ryan, of Erie, who meets Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, in the semi-final of the outdoor boxing show at Cycler Park, McKeesport, next Thursday night, has an impressive record. He hails originally from Boston, where he met Johnny Vacca, Johnny Sheppard, Johnny Vacca, John- other good ones. He has been going great guns in Erie, where he has lost only one fight, to Chick Suggs. He will meet Hargraves at 126 pounds. The latter is a classy Negro boxer. Cuddy DeMarco and Larry Brignolia will be the mainbouters, and Allen Beatty and Jimmy Belmont will box the second bout.

Joey LaGrey boxes Jimmy Kenny in a 10-round bout in New York tonight.

Mickey Fedor boxes Jack McKenna, Nova Scotia middleweight, in the six-round semi-final to a bout between Eddie Shea and Dominick Petrone at the Olympic Arena in Cleveland tonight. Carl Cavelli and Hal Stevenson mix in an other bout on the card.

Ted (Kid) Lewis and Maxie Rosenbloom box the windup at the Quensboro Stadium, New York, tonight.

Ruby Goldstein, New York's pet, returns to the ring tonight against Al Bryant in a 10-round bout at Newark, N. J.

Johnny McCoy, who won a decision over Willie Davies in the California flyweight tournament, meets Tommy Paul in the main bout of a show at Buffalo tonight. Benny Ross boxes Joe Burk and Tommy Ryan, formerly of McKeesport, meets Jimmy Valpone in other bouts of this show.

PHILADELPHIA, July 31.—(AP.)—All but five of the 136 players entered in the national public links golf championship, which opened today over the Cobbs Creek municipal course, took their final practice yesterday.

Only a few of the contestants were able to break 80.

Carl Kauffmann, of Pittsburgh, the defending champion, played in the Pennsylvania team championship, a prelude to the tournament proper, and could do no better than 84. William F. Serrick, of New York, had an 80.

The 75 returned by John Florio, Columbus, O., was the best practice score yesterday. Leo Boyle, Philadelphia veteran, had a 76 in the state tournament, which ranked as the second best score.

The first half of the 36-hole qualifying test will be played today, and the second half tomorrow. Match play will begin Thursday with 32 players.

Twenty-two of the 23 teams entered in the Harding cup inter-city play are on hand. Only three of the required four players on the Boston team checked in. The Harding cup play is combined with the qualifying rounds, the trophy being awarded on the basis of aggregate scores of four-men teams.

PHILLY TEAM WINS

Philadelphia golfers won the state championship in a team match held as a preliminary to the public links tournament. The Philadelphia team turned in a card of 482.

Erie, making its first bid for the public links title, and Pittsburgh tied for second place, with scores of 541. Lancaster, another newcomer in the competition, finished last with 581. The Philadelphia players have won the state championship, symbolized by the Joseph Horne trophy, three years out of the four it has been in competition.

Leo Boyle, with 76, and Charles Albertus, with 78, were the only two players to break 80. Both are members of the Philadelphia team. E. B. Schutte and J. J. McCarthy, both of Erie, had 81 and 89, respectively. Carl Kauffmann and Sam Graham led the Pittsburgh team with 84s.

No one in the Lancaster team was able to break 90.

The individual scores follow:

Philadelphia—Robert Albertus, 84; Charles Albertus, 78; Jackson Shultz, 83; John Boyd 81; Mike Surmiak, 80; Leo Boyle, 76; total, 482.

Erie—Herbert Vogt, 92; E. B. Schutte, 81; J. J. McCarthy, 89; Lester White, 93; Ross McGovern, 94; Albert Polagyl, 92; total, 541.

Pittsburgh—Carl Kauffmann, 84; C. J. Lunden, 89; Richard Wessel, 99; M. W. Galido, 95; Sam Graham, 84; M. H. Boschert, 90; total, 541.

Lancaster—Guy Bear, 94; Harold Rebman, 109; Louis Rupp, 96; Sol Brubaker, 96; Howard Neiss, 93; Stanley Fortney, 98; total, 581.

Ruth May Take Mound to Stop Yank Slump

NEW YORK, July 31.—(INS.)—The spurt of the Athletics, coupled with the amazing slump of the Yankees, is getting to be as exciting as Sheridan's ride. Seven straight for the A's, and first place only 5½ games away!

Despite Babe Ruth's forty-first homer, the league leaders took another wallop on the beezer from Cleveland yesterday, 4 to 2. Ruth's mates couldn't do anything with Southpaw Walter Miller, while George Pipgras, attempting a comeback after being kayoed the day before, was practically ruined by Summa's triple with two on.

The Yanks have lost eight of their last 11 starts and Manager Huggins is so shy of good pitchers that he is considering sending Ruth to the mound. The Babe's return to the box after years of outfielding might be a flop, but how the gate receipts would soar!

ATHLETES NEAR FORM FOR PHILA. CO. MEET

Athletes entered in the third annual public utilities track and field meet at Schenley Oval on Saturday under the auspices of the Philadelphia Company and affiliated corporations, are putting the finishing touches on their preparation.

Hundreds of men and girls have entered the various events, and it is doubtful if ever before there was so much earnest advance work done.

So far as the employes of the various utilities corporations are concerned, there is genuine rivalry among them and they are eager to outdo each other.

U. S. FENCERS LOSE

AMSTERDAM, July 31.—(AP.)—The American foils team was eliminated in the semi-finals of Olympic fencing competition yesterday, but never gave a better account of themselves in international matches in the opinion of Meregnac, dean of world's foil fencers.

The VARSITY COLUMN

by JESS M. CARVER

IT WON'T be long now before the boys will be clambering aboard the old bandwagon of American college football, that blatant, gilded cart that sways the emotions of half the nation from early September until after Thanksgiving each year. The Olympic games, the finish of the pennant races in the major leagues and the world series and national tennis championships must be dispensed with before the first real thud of the football with be heard throughout the land—at least the sort of thud for which you'll pay $3.30 per.

Locally, the fans may look forward to seeing and experiencing a fair season. There are some 25 reasons to believe there will be another undefeated eleven of which to boast when the campaign is over, one that will emulate the great Pitt machine of 1927. These reasons are 25 huskies who will fight for varsity berths at Carnegie Tech.

SYRACUSE and New York University will be the two out-of-town schools of big league note that will send their elevens here for games this season that have not appeared here, either ever before or within the past three or four years. The Violet will come here for a battle with Tech the Saturday after Thanksgiving, and Pitt will play host to Syracuse somewhat earlier in the fight.

Duquesne, under the second year of the rule of Layden, Holohan and, it hopes, Weibel, will be watched with particular interest, mainly for the purpose of discovering whether or not the Notre Dame system is destined to work against tristate football and the spell of the Warner system, which dominates the gridiron activities hereabouts.

THE Dukes get their first big time opportunity this fall by meeting Wash-Jeff. This game was arranged mainly through the hard work and foresight of Graduate Manager John Holohan, whose appointment to the post can be laid to some extent at the door of this achievement. Holohan, a smart manager and a keen business man, is the big hope of the Dukes, along with Elmer Layden, who is expected to develope into a successful coach.

This district, including the city and tri-state section, has four men to be placed in the pre-season running for all-America honors to replace the two who were signally honored last fall, Gibby Welch of Pitt and Bill Amos of Wash-Jeff. Two of the four are from W.-J., and are the brightest points in Andy Kerr's somewhat drab outlook. They are Carl Aschman, a center, and the dashing Jap Douds, tackle extraordinary.

CARNEGIE TECH offers Howard Harpster, a brainy field general, fine kicker and excellent passer for all-star quarterback honors. Pitt has Joe Donchess, hard-hitting end, who won some mention on various all-America teams last year. This player possesses real class. The only thing that can keep Harpster from winning national recognition will be a continuance of the style of football that does not permit Harp's toting the ball. He is as good as any of 'em in other departments.

Percy Williams, the little chap who won the Olympic 100-meters championship yesterday, defeating a field composed of the greatest sprinters in the world, has been showing his class as a runner since his earliest school days.

WILLIAMS hails from Vancouver, B. C., and has swept forward to triumphs in a score of Canuck track meets. He entered this year's Olympic competition in Canada facing both physical and mental barriers that would have stopped many runners less sturdy in heart. He won the Canadian scholastic 100-yard championship in 1924, but a severe attack of rheumatism kept him off the tracks in 1925.

In 1926 he staged a fine comeback and won the sectional 100- and 220-yard championships at Vancouver. Then in 1927 his spikes set a Canadian record for the 100-yard event, 10 seconds flat. This spring he concentrated on the furlong and set a new Canadian record of 22 seconds for the event.

A FLIP of the coin eliminated Williams from the Dominion trials at Toronto last year. Williams arrived a day before the trials, and the effects of the journey and change of climate prevented him from making his best showing. He finished second, and, as there were too many entries, a coin was tossed and Williams lost. He returned to Vancouver and began almost at once to train for this year's events.

He showed greatly improved form early this year. He won the Washington State High School century in 9.9 seconds at Seattle May 5. Later he outclassed all contestants in the Greater Vancouver high school sprints for 100 and 220 yards.

AT PROVINCIAL Olympic trials this year Williams equaled the world mark for the 100-meter run by going over the distance in 10 3-5 seconds, a fifth of a second under his time in the Olympics yesterday.

CENTER TENNIS PLAY TODAY

The annual Pittsburgh Center junior and boys' tennis tournaments are being played today on the courts of the P. A. A., and University Club. Competition began at 10 o'clock.

Billy O'Loughlin, winner of the junior division last year, is defending his title and Wally Arensberg, who won the boys' championship last year, also will compete as a junior.

The winners in the two classes will qualify to compete for the national championship at Culver, Ind., the Pittsburgh Tennis Association defraying their expenses.

YOUNG SAYLOR HURT

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 31.—(AP.)—Young Sailor, Charleroi, Pa., welterweight, suffered a dislocated hip when knocked to the floor in the fourth round of a 10-round bout with Johnny Roberts of Huntington, last night. Roberts was awarded a knock-out victory.

Six Yanks Reach Olympic Mat Finals

AMSTERDAM, Holland, July 31.—(AP.)—Six Americans reached the final round in the Olympic catch-as-catch can wrestling competition today. Only in the lightweight—145 pound—division will the Stars and Stripes lack a color-bearer. In this division, Clarence Berryman, of Oklahoma A. and M., was thrown in four minutes in the quarter-finals this morning by Kapp, of Esthonia.

Lloyd O. Appleton, of Cornell College, Iowa, won two matches today, defeating Praks, of Esthonia, in the quarter-finals and Letchford of Canada in the semi-finals, of the 158-pound class. The other American survivors are:

123 pounds—Robert Hewitt, University of Michigan.

135 pounds—Allie R. Morrison, University of Illinois.

174 pounds—Ralph W. Hammonds, Texas University.

191 pounds—H. L. Edwards, U. S. Naval Academy.

Heavyweight—Ed George, University of Michigan.

U. S. WATER POLOISTS DRAW OLYMPIC BYE

AMSTERDAM, July 31.—(AP.)—The United States water polo team, which drew a bye in the first round of competition which starts August 4, will meet the winner of a match between Argentine and Hungary in the second round on August 6, it was decided today.

The Hungarian team is regarded as one of the strongest entered.

Swimming entries closed with 229 men competitors and 129 women. Joseph Reilly of New York was elected to the executive committee of the International Swimming Federation which also serves as a jury of appeals during the aquatics. Reilly heads the list of American officials as judge, others including Col. Charles J. Dieges of New York, timer; Doris O'Mara, New York, and Carl G. Lehmann, Newark, turning judges; Charles H. Brennan, Detroit, diving judge; Joseph Ruddy, New York, water polo referee.

STANTON NETMEN HELD TO 3-3 TIE

The Stanton Heights tennis team was held to a 3-3 tie by College Hill of Beaver Falls in a Pittsburgh Tennis Association Interclub League match on the former's courts last evening.

The summary: Singles—Reader, College Hill, defeated Beatty, Stanton Heights, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3; Young, Stanton Heights, defeated Campbell, College Hill, 6-1, 6-0; Potts College Hill, defeated Davis, Stanton Heights, 6-4, 7-5; Hecker, College Hill, defeated Ritterbush, Stanton Heights, 3-6, 12-10, 6-4.

Doubles—Beatty and Davis, Stanton Heights, defeated Reader and Campbell, College Hill, 8-6, 8-6; Boyd and Eggleston, Stanton Heights, defeated Potts and Hecker, College Hill, 6-1, 7-5.

YOUNG FIRPO WINS OVER GEORGE PEROTTA

NEW CASTLE, Pa., July 31.—In a slashing bout at Jolly Bolw here last night, Young Firpo of Louisville, Ky., won the decision over George Perotta, New Castle middleweight. Firpo was the aggressor most of the way.

In the semi-final of six rounds Johnny Dunn, of Wilkes-Barre, won the decision from Joe Boychan, of Newark, O. Louie Sererio, of Meadville, was awarded the decision in his six-round go with Bobby Belford, of Alliance. Terry McManus, of Pittsburgh, won the decsion in the opener of four rounds with Roy Minteer, of New Castle.

WATERS STOPS LARRABEE

CHICAGO, July 31.—(AP.)—Mike Waters of Ireland won a referee's decision over Frankie Larrabee of Lincoln, Neb., in a four-round bout last night, at 133 pounds.

LOMSKI SCORES K. O.

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., light-heavyweight contender, knocked out Eddie Clark, Atlantic City Negro in the fourth round of a 10-round bout at the Dexter Park arena last night. The bout was stopped.

SPEAKING OF SPORTS

by HARRY KECK SPORTS EDITOR

THE Yankees are coming back to the field in the American League and what promised to be a dead race may develop into a humdinger in the closing stages, with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics making a keen bid for their first pennant since Mack broke up his old White Elephants aggregation following the disastrous world series of 1914.

Only five and one-half games behind Miller Huggins' crew, whereas the New York club once had a lead of 12½ games, the Athletics have real reason to take heart, especially in view of the great burst of speed they have shown recently while the Yankees have been in a bad slump. The Athletics have won 11 of their last 12 games and the Yankees have lost 11 of their last 15, so that the race now is almost as close as the National League fight, in which Bill McKechnie's Cardinals do not by any manner of means yet consider themselves "in," despite a bulge of four games over the runner-up, the Cincinnati club.

IT IS difficult to conceive of such a machine as the Yankees breaking so wide apart, and there may be more than one reason for its collapse. It may be genuine and it may not be. Far be it from this scribe to point the finger of suspicion at the grand and glorious National Pastime, but it has been proved that runaway races are not the finest thing in the world for the business end of the game. For instance, the Yankees recently had a crowd of less than 20,000 for a Sunday battle at the Yankee Stadium while they were going full tilt and Babe Ruth was doing his stuff in record-breaking fashion. Such gates do not pay such payrolls as the Yankees are forced to carry. However, if things should get close and hot, watch the bugs break their necks getting inside the turnstiles.

On the surface, the Yankees' failure to win recently appears

LOUGHRAN PLANS TO CLAIM TITLE

WILDWOOD, N. J., July 31.—(INS.)—"If Gene Tunney quits he will be the third champion I have chased from the ring. Should he default his title he will be doing what Paul Berlenbach and Jack Delaney did, give up their crowns rather than meet me for the title," declared Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, light-heavyweight champion, today.

The titleholder, who is vacationing here, pointed out his record against the present crop of heavyweight contenders as justification for him claiming the throne if vacated by Tunney.

NAVIGATOR IS WINNER OF STEWARDS' CUP

GOODWOOD, England, July 31.—(AP.)—Lord Glanely's Navigator, by Blue Ensign, out of Chronometer, won the Stewards' Cup today. Lord Lonsdale's Endowment was second and A. B. Walker's Stranatro was third. Sixteen ran.

Navigator won by two lengths and there was half length between second and third. The betting was 8to1, 10 to 1, and 20 to 1. The stakes were £1,000 with extras and the distance six furlongs.

COAST BOUT POSTPONED

SAN FRANCISCO July 31—(INS.)—The ten-round bout between Nick Testa, Eastern welterweight, and Young Corbett, Fresno, which was scheduled for Friday night has been postponed until Aug. 17. Testo injured his right hand while training.

SANDLOT BASEBALL

by TOM BIRKS

ROGER CULVER and his Bellevue team will make another effort this evening to defeat the Homestead Grays. And seeing that other clubs are turning that trick the North Boro mentor feels that his rejuvenated nine can stop Cum Posey's aggregation.

Just who will pitch is not known, but a real pitcher is going to decorate the Bellevue mound this evening. Jack Miller, Cy Rheam and the Rooney boys will be available, together with Fitch and Nixon, so plenty of hitting and fielding talent will be lined up. The game will be called at 6:30 sharp, and the biggest crowd of the Bellevue season is expected.

BACK from that vacation, Manager Bill McGrady breezed into the office telling the world that St. John's is going to make things tough for the rest of the opposition in the second half of the City League campaign.

IN a one-sided contest last evening, the Happy Club of Crafton Heights, defeated the Ingram Independants to the tune of 18 to 0. While the Happy club has been going at a fast clip lately, they have been finding it difficult to book suitable light first class teams at home or abroad. For games write B. Harrington, 12 Rogers Place, Crafton, Pa., or call Walnut 3119-J.

Martin, the Garfield boy now playing the outfield for Bellevue, is requested to call Linden 1175 today without fail.

BRITAIN'S PHENOM SHOWS CLASS

OLYMPIC STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, July 31.—(AP.)—Douglas Lowe, of Great Britain, today won the 800 meters final in the Olympic games, retaining his championship won in 1924.

Among others he defeated the American star, Lloyd Hahn.

Lowe won by 10 yards from Bylehn, of Sweden. Hahn led until the final turn when he wilted and was badly beaten.

The English star, Guy Butler, won the eleventh heat in 22 4-5 seconds with Mannaert of France second. Pina of Argentina led until 30 meters from the tape when he wilted and finished third and last.

Percy Williams, the 19-year-old Canadian sprinting sensation who won the 100-meter championship yesterday, made an auspicious start in his attempt to achieve a "double" when he won the fourteenth heat in 22 3-5. Cyril Gill of Britain, captured the fifteenth and final heat in 22 1-5.

HAMM IS WINNER

Eddie Hamm, of Georgia Tech, the American hope in the broad jump, cleared 25 feet 4¾ inches on his second try after fouling on his first attempt. This was 7½ inches short of the world's record which he set in the final try-outs for the team in the United Sates.

Hamm's jump which was remeasured and corrected to read 25 feet 4¾ inches, the equivalent of 7.73 meters, broke the Olympic record by 5½ inches. The old mark was 24 feet 4¾ inches, set by the American A. L. Gutterson at Stockholm in 1912.

The first heat in the 200 meter trials was won by Henry Cumming, one of the Americans, who beat Andre Mourlon of France in 22 2-5 seconds.

Although more than a foot behind Hamm's best jump, Al Bates of Penn State led the qualifiers in the second section of the broad jump trials. He covered 7.40 meters, the equivalent of 24 feet 4¼ inches.

Broad jumping continued and in the third section of trials Ed Gordon of Iowa City cleared 7.29 meters, the equivalent of 23 feet 11¼ inches. Svensson of Sweden led this section with a leap of 7.32 meters, or 1¼ inches.

Charley Paddock, making his first appearance of the games, won the fifth heat of the 200-meter dash in 22 1-5 seconds, with the Mexican, Gomez Daza, second. Pepe Barrientos, lone Cuban representative, withdrew, and the Filipino, Gongaga, ran fourth and last. Johnny Fitzpatrick, of Canada, won the third heat in 22 4-5.

Defending his Olympic 200-meter championship won in 1924, the diminutive American, Jackson Scholz, captured the sixth heat. In the seventh heat the German, Termann Schlosske, jogged the distance in the ridiculously slow time of 25 seconds, as there were only two starters, both of whom qualified.

Jules Cerbonney, of France, ran away with the eighth heat in 22 1-5 while W. B. Legg, of South Africa, won the ninth heat with George Hester, of Canada, second, and the Argentine, Barucco, third. But Hester was disqualified for running outside his lane and the South American was given the qualifying place.

Helmut Koernig, the German favorite, won the tenth heat under wraps in 22 4-5.

CARL RING WINNER

Carl Ring of the New York A. C., the first American to start, came through his first test easily, winning the second heat in 15 seconds flat and beating J. H. Viljoen, all-around track and field star from South Africa. Roaul Sempe, French timber topper from Bordeaux, won the first heat in the same time. The Argentine, Vilania, finished second, but was disqualified for knocking over three hurdles and the place was given to Jandera of Czecho-Slovakia.

G. C. Weightman-Smith of South Africa, a former Cambridge University classmate of Lord Davy Burghley, who won the 400 meter hurdles yesterday, provided a sensation in the third heat by equalling the world and Olympic record of 14 4-5 seconds. The mark which the South African tied was set by Earl Thomsen, former Canadian Olympic star from Dartmouth, at the 1920 games at Antwerp. Weightman-Smith beat Marchand of France by five yards. He pulled up at the finish and probably would have broken the record if he had been pushed. Both stumbled and sprawled to the track after finishing but appeared to be unhurt.

CHAMPION QUITS RING

Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion of the world, today announced his retirement from the ring in the important statement forecast several days ago. With him in the above picture is Sam F. Pryor, Jr., formerly of Pittsburgh, who has acted as his spokesman since the Heeney fight last week.

REINSTATED, BEATEN

Big Bill Tilden was the central figure of one of the biggest tennis squabbles in years before he was reinstated as a member of the United States Davis Cup team for the challenge round with France, and he scored the only victory for Uncle Sam in the series of five matches when he downed Rene La Coste in the first day's singles. However, he later lost with Frank Hunter in the doubles and then bowed before Henri Cochet in the singles yesterday. France won, 4 to 1, to retain the trophy emblematic of the team tennis championship of the world. Photo shows Big Bill giving his autograph to an admirer.

FIGHT RESULTS

At New York, Leo Lomski knocked out Eddie Clark, 4 rounds; bout stopped; Marco Polo defeated Paul Hoffman, 10 rounds.

At Huntington, W. Va.—Johnny Roberts won by a technical knockout over Young Saylor, 4 rounds. Saylor suffered dislocated hip.

At Atlantic City—Billy Randall defeated Billy Gannon, 8 rounds.

At Lancaster, Pa.—Jack Portney and Midget Fox drew, 8 rounds; Batling Willard defeated Jack Hanlon, 8 rounds. Jimmy Britt defeated Pete Navos, 4 rounds.

At Chicago—Mike Waters defeated Frankie Larranee, 4 rounds; Sandy Garrison defeated Tut Seymour, 4 rounds; Hershie Wilson defeated Morrie Gransberg, 4 rounds.

At Louisville—Dixie LaHood defeated Mutt Snyder, 10 rounds.

At Williamsport, Whitey Labaugh defeated George Mallich, 10 rounds, Sailor Motte defeated Walter Dickerson, 8 rounds; Art Fesser knocked out Charley Daley, 1 round.

At New Castle, Pa.—Young Firpo defeated George Perotta, 10 rounds; Johnny Dunn defeated Joe Boychan, 8 rounds; Louie Severo defeated Bobby Belford, 6 rounds; Spike Henderson defeated Sandy Taylor 4 rounds; Terry McManus defeated Roy Minteer, 4 rounds.

At Jersey City, N. J.—Midget Wolgast defeated Phil Tobias, 10 rounds. Marty Collins and Mickey Blaine drew, 10 rounds.

JAMES J. LONG IS ON HIS VACATION. HIS SPORTS COMMENT COLUMN WILL BE RESUMED UPON HIS RETURN.

REDS REPORTED AFTER CHARLEROI M. A. CLUB

CHARLEROI, Pa., July 31.—Reports persist here that the Cincinnati Nationals were negotiating for the purchase of the Charleroi Governors, in the Middle-Atlantic League, for farming purposes. Manager Bill Phillips and President A. S. Sickman of the club gave official denial to the reports but nevertheless they continued.

The reported action of the Cleveland Indians in buying the Johnstown club excited the tip about the Governors, it is said.

AMERICA'S ACE BEATEN

Frank Wykoff, vanquisher of Charley Paddock, was regarded as almost a sure bet to win the 100 meters dash for the United States at the Olympic games yesterday, but finished in fourth place. Percy Williams, a schoolboy of British Columbia, was the winner.

MEADOWS MAY HURL IN GAME TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

BOSTON, July 31.—Now that they have succeeded in reaching fifth place the Pirates today were anxious for another victory that would insure possession of a higher notch than has been the fortune of the Bushwhacker for many a long day. The third and last game of the series with the Braves will be staged this afternoon, the Pirates to head for Philadelphia tonight.

The margin by which the Buccos hold fifth place over the Dodgers is as thin as the cheese in a ball park sandwich, yet it is there, nevertheless, but like the cheese it is hard to find. The leap frog stunt was successful because the Pirates won a double header over the Braves yesterday, the Dodgers making a valiant stand for the doubtful honor in winning a single contest from the Reds.

GRIMES WINS 17TH

The advance plan called for the appearance on the slab today of the Duke of Burleigh, but Grimes and Donie Bush upset this idea late yesterday afternoon when Burleigh hastily warmed up and then hustled to the rescue of Bunker Hill. Carmen of Corry was being well shellacked by the Tribe in the second game, but Grimes, after getting his bearings, kept the contest down to a deadlock in the exciting eighth inning and by the expedient of extra frames, the Pittsburghers were able to cop a triumph in this as well as in the opening game of the day. The scores were 2 to 1 and 6 to 5.

So Grimes already has landed his seventeenth victory of the season and there is no real need for him to go beyond himself by making another start today. Instead, Lee Meadows or Ervin Brame will snap into action in the closing game. If Meadows feels O. K. at the time he will probably go to the firing line. Arthur Delaney is due to work for the home club.

The sugar-coated victory of yesterday was not hard to take in the dialect of the times, but in the language of the classroom, the Pirates had to exhaust all of their resources to achieve the desired result.

In the prelude, Remy Kremer came back to his championship form to get a hair-line decision over Eddie Brandt, the classy boy from Seattle. Brandt allowed only four safeties, which was two below the standard established by Frenchy, but the right-handed veteran had better control when accuracy spelled importance. It is noticeable that both of the Pittsburgh runs were made after Eddie had failed to get the ball over the plate, and the two tallies were annexed when two were out.

KREMER IN FORM

Kremer was not scored upon until the ninth, when Sisler worked his way around after getting a scratch hit which Brickell failed to hold.

Brickell, nevertheless, was one of the outstanding players of the afternoon. Fred drove in the first run of the opening contest; he could not get the ball into safe territory in the nightcap affair, but the speed and fielding brilliance of the youngster had a lot to do with holding line wallops to singles after the drives had left the barrier with two-base and three-base tickets.

Brother Paul, enjoying a big day at his favorite pastime of smashing the old apple, was the twilight hero. The contest tied up tighter than a drum, the little slugger ripped off a screeching three-bagger to right center as the opening gun of the tenth. Grantham failed to put Paul over the plate, but Captain Traynor did this big thing in a manner most proficient.

Pie pasted a liner to deep right which looked like a sacrifice. The setting sun was the background for Lance Richbourg, who almost was hit in the head with the liner, the rocket passing over his head for a triple. Brother Paul, of course, went over, but Pie was nailed at the plate a moment later on Brickell's grounder to Hornsby. The important run, however, was all that was needed, as the Duke of Burleigh took three Braves in a row to make safe the double victory.

BIG MATINEE CARDED

The officials of the Schenley Matinee Club have arranged the best card in years for their eighth regular matinee at the Oval tomorrow. There are more high-class horses than have been entered in former programs, and, in addition, there will be a band concert before and during the progress of the races. Everything is free to the public.

300 SEEK TRIUMPH IN LOCAL CLASSIC

By VERNON A. SWARTSFAGER.

J. H. EUWER, turning in a card of 39-43—82, led the early finishers in the 18-hole qualifying round of the annual Stanton Heights invitation golf tournament, which got under way this morning with the largest field in its history competing. Other scores follow:

A. J. McGrew, Jr., 49-44-93; H. B. Wentzel, 55-49-104; C. C. Moore, 46-41-87; F. J. McNamara, 42-43-85; A. L. Halli, 50-49-99; Thomas Martin, 45-44-89; J. H. Creedon, 55-53-108; W. L. Collins, withdrew; H. E. Hafferty, 48-48-96; George Euwer, 40-46-86; Walter H. Mennigke, 43-48-91; Robert Barclay, 44-42-86; William Gillespie, 41-52-93.

Following today's round at medal play, out of which six sixteens will qualify, play will continue tomorrow at match competition, the first round being played in the morning and the second in the afternoon. The semi-final round will be reached on Thursday morning and the final round is carded for the same afternoon. All match play will be at 18 holes.

Beautiful prizes have been put up for the tournament, and the field invited to the event includes almost every good golfer in Western Pennsylvania. Due to the fact that the Allegheny Country Club and Oakmont Country Club rather unwisely cut out their own traditional invitation tournaments, replacing them with small, quiet events of little news importance, the Stanton Heights tournament has been welcomed by every golfer in the district, and the club has come in for no end of favorable commendation.

E. H. Eggleston, L. Brandt and Fred B. Weppner, the tournament committee, is in charge of the event

TITLE PLAY OPENS

MONONGAHELA, Pa., July 31.—The first annual Washington-Greene County golf championship, being staged over the Monongahela Valley Country Club links, near here, got under way this morning, with a field of almost 200 participating. Five clubs from the two counties were represented—Washington County Golf and Country Club, Greene County Country Club, Monongahela Valley Country Club, Nemacolin Country Club and McDonald Country Club.

The qualifying round is being played today. The match play rounds will begin tomorrow and the eliminations will continue until the final is reached on Thursday afternoon.

The Monongahela Valley links are in splendid condition.

CADDIE TEAMS PLAYING

Schenley Park municipal links' caddie golf team, champion of Western Pennsylvania, is playing a match with the caddie team of the St. Clair Country Club, at the St. Clair Countdy Club, near Bridgeville, this morning. Play started at 9 o'clock.

FOUR CADDIES TIE IN ANNUAL TOURNEY

GREENSBURG, Pa., July 31.—Joe Delvicchio, Joe Stevenson, Carl Mears and Mike Elias tied for first place in the annual caddie tournament at the Greensburg Country Club yesterday. Each turned in a low gross score of 85.

Howard Jackson, with 89, and Glenn Stough, by scoring 90, were able to keep in the charmed circle.

by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

to be due to the fact that the pitchers all are performing about as the Pirate crew did during most of the first half of the race. The 24-6 shellacking at Cleveland Sunday was the most crushing blow to date, yet one from which the Yankee fans may obtain some consolation. They know now how to gauge the ups and downs of their favorites, who can't be much, if any, worse than they were in this battle in which their pitchers were being lambasted for 27 hits.

If the Yankees really are demoralized as much as their showing of the last two weeks would indicate, then it is going to be a rousing free-for-all with the Athletics down the stretch. However, if the Yankees are merely kidding for the sake of the box office, it will be just too bad for Connie Mack's dreams when Miller Huggins' crew gets the word to step out and clinch that flag.

THIS is being written while that part of the world that cares is waiting for Gene Tunney's important announcement regarding his plans for the future.

The decision is due this afternoon. It either will be that he intends to retire or definitely that he does not intend to retire. A report that will not down is to the effect that he will announce he is renouncing the ring to enter a Catholic order and study for the priesthood. If this is so, then he will be lost forever to boxing and his sincerity of purpose cannot be questioned, but, if he merely announces that he is retiring to tour Europe and later enter business, it will be the old balderdash, as we say in this part of the Rand-McNally.

TUNNEY could serve both himself and Tex Rickard well by retiring until his next fight.

In the first place, he then could get rid of the crowds that follow him wherever he goes, for nothing is dropped so speedily as a beaten or retired champion, and he could prowl about Europe with his friend, Thornton Wilder, to his heart's content and with considerable privacy insofar as the madding throng is concerned. That probably would please him immensely after his taste of real public life as champion.

Meanwhile Promoter Rickard could announce plans for another of his notorious heavyweight elimination tournaments, this one—something new, as Milt Crandall would put it—to develop a champion instead of merely a challenger.

Then—ah, the plot thickens—when the eliminations were completed, what would be finer than to have Rickard come right out and say that this was a heck of a way to pick a new champion, that titles should be won and lost in the ring, and that Tunney owed it to the public to come back and let this young tournament survivor win the championship as it should be won? Of course, Tunney would be drafted "by popular demand" and the gate would be a wow.

Tunney could not fight until next fall, anyway, and by that time all of this eliminating I have mentioned would have been completed.

SPEAKING of Rickard's eliminations, there is one angle that has been generally overlooked by the boxing writers and fans and that is that the tournaments have made oodles of money for Tex and his 599 millionaire colleagues, so much so, indeed, that he was on velvet with his Heeney heavyweight championship bout and the Tunney-Dempsey battle of Chicago before he even sold a ticket for these melees. Although he dropped a pretty penny on the Heeney thing last week, he can afford to be a good sport about it, for it was only a drop in the bucket compared with the profits from the eliminations that led up to the bout.

And that brings up another thought. Remember when Rickard first announced the Tunney-Heeney fight and said he might stage it in London? Everybody guffawed about that London crack, and after a few days Tex said he guessed they were right about it, because he couldn't get the gelt over there. Now, the question is: Would he have done better or worse to have let the British fans get a peek as their Tawm 'Eeney against this fellow, Tooney?

LOCAL tennis fans were sorry to hear of the accident that injured Albert A. Bialis and four members of his family Sunday while they were en route by automobile to Atlantic City. Bialis played for the P. A. A., in a team match on Saturday. He is one of the local tennis veterans and a strong booster for the game.

Another local sports luminary who has been caused sorrow is Kenneth (Ted) Fry, former University of Pittsburgh fullback and punting star, whose 7-year-old son, Kenneth, Jr., was fatally burned yesterday while playing with matches in the top of a tree near his home at Rochester, Pa. Ted, Sr., was the regular fullback at Pitt during the first days of Pop Warne as coach of the Panthers.

THE failure of Frank Wykoff in the 100-meter dash of the Olympic Games yesterday came as a distinct shock, after his amazing triumphs over Charley Paddock in the sectional trials and over the entire American field in the finals. The California schoolboy has been so consistent that it is difficult to account for his finishing in fourth place in the big test. The bowing of America's best hurdlers, including Morgan Taylor, the 1924 champion, in the 400-meter event also was not calculated to call for any loud cheering from this side of the pond.

Gene Sizes Up Contenders For Title

NEW YORK, July 31.—Gene Tunney's estimate of the leading contenders for his heavyweight crown follows:

Jack Sharkey—"He certainly will have a chance to prove he's as good as he was that night against Delaney."

Tommy Loughran—"He's a nice boy and has a fine personality, but that won't carry him far among the big tough heavyweights."

Phil Scott.—"He's likely to be dangerous, because he's improving all the time."

Knute Hansen—"He may go some place if he can keep up the work he showed against Phil Scott."

Harold Mays — (Tunney's sparring partner for three years)—"Watch him. He's going to be heard from within a year."

DELVECCHIO-DEVLIN TIE IN TOURNEY

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 31.—Perry Delvecchio of the Greensburg Country Club and James Devlin of the Nemacolin Country Club tied for the lead in an 18-hole medal play contest for professionals at the Uniontown Country Club yesterday. Horace Brand, home pro, scored 74. Other scores: Harry Vandewater, 79; Charles Manning, 74; Jack Kennedy, 80; Floyd Voorhees, 75; Nelson Zimmerman, 75; James Morrison, 80; William McKay, 80; Peter Manning, 77; Andrew Velican, 78; Dave Clark, 81; Jack Stewart, 80; Ken Stewart, 89; Fiore Bruno, 79; Dave McKay, 73; Tom Bennett, 81; Pete O'Hara, Greensburg, 76; Fred Baroni, Pittsburgh, 74.

In the pro-amateur competition in which members of the local club were paired with professionals, Nelson Zimmerman of the Wildwood Country Club and O'Neil Kennedy of Uniontown won with a low score of 67.

Charles E. Mitchell Sees Danger in 'Bootleg' Loans

By B. C. FORBES

NEW YORK bankers and the Federal Reserve authorities have lost control of the money market.

That is a bald statement of a new condition which is recognized as a menace urgently calling for remedy.

BRIEFLY, the facts are that corporations, private individuals and foreign interests have taken to pouring millions upon millions into New York's call money market. The total of such loans, over which neither the Federal Reserve nor the bankers exercise control, has reached $1,808,645,000.

That is more than twice as much money as all the New York banks combined are lending for their own accoount to brokers.

The amount put out by New York banks for their banking correspondents throughout the country is, incidentally, $1,551,758,000.

WHEREIN does danger lie? Some bankers take the short-sighted view that the less said about this whole matter the better. New York, happily, has one banker who isn't afraid to meet issues squarely and who isn't afraid, when occasion arises, to speak his mind. This banker, appropriately enough, is the president of the largest financial institution in the United States, Charles E. Mitchell. When I approached him on the subject he indicated that he did not care to talk for publication because, he said, the clearing house was investigating the matter with a view to reaching a decision as to what action, if any, should be taken. After it was urged upon Mr. Mitchell that the hands of the responsible banking authorities would be strengthened if the public understood the potential perils attaching to such a staggering total of "bootleg" call loans, Mr. Mitchell consented to say this:

"The loans placed by New York banks, for others than correspondent banks, represents:

1. The form of credit against which no reserve is charged.

2. Lending by a class who have no responsibility for the maintenance of stability in interest rates and sound banking conditions.

3. An enormous loan account which would be the first to withdraw as such at the first sign of any trouble, leaving to the banks the duty of taking up the slack, a condition that may be fraught with difficulties and with trouble to the community at large.

4. The entry in the field of credit of a class, no small part of which has any adequate knowledge of what they are doing and what they are risking to be there at all.

5. A wholly dangerous trend in credit expansion which in the interests of the borrowers as well as the people should be substantially curbed."

"WHAT can be done about it?" I asked. "Someone pointed out to me that where you have a willing lender and a willing borrower, it would be impossible to keep them apart and that if the banks stopped acting as go-betweens, others would."

"I am not so sure that the situation is hopeless," said Mr. Mitchell. "The lending of money on call is essentially a banking function. Not so many individuals or corporations, I rather imagine, would care to entrust large amounts of money to individuals or houses not equipped or trained to put out money on call and to safeguard it every moment of the day by taking whatever action may become prudent to insure the adequate covering of the loan by thoroughly safe collateral.

"I don't say for a moment that the whole business can be stampeded out overnight. But I do think every responsible banker and other interested party should be giving the matter serious consideration with a view to applying the brakes. The clearing house has taken the matter up, and I think it can be depended upon to act wisely.

"For one thing, the charge now made by the banks, acting as agents for handling these call loans for outsiders, should be increased commensurate with the work and the moral responsibility entailed. Again, the minimum amount accepted for lending out should be raised far above the ridiculously small sums which, I understand, certain banks have put out for others. And it may be found advisable to offer inducements which would bring much of this money into banks on time deposit.

"I do not say that this new method of lending means inflation but I cannot shut my eyes to the fact that such lending might be deflated at some very awkward moment, causing disturbance in the stock market, losses perhaps to security owners and embarrassment to the bankers who would feel obligated to jump in and straighten things out."

"MONEY SCARE" PULLS DOWN STOCKS

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—The stock market had another "money scare" today when the call rate was marked up 7½ per cent and prices broke sharply as a result. The reaction came after an opening display of strength in which many issues were marked up 1 to 5 points. These gains were quickly reduced or canceled and a long line of issues sagged 1 to nearly 9 points below yesterday's final quotations.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent and advanced successively to 6½, 7 and 7½ as banks called between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 in loans in preparation for month end settlements. This sudden contraction in the volume of credit available on brokers' borrowings encouraged a resumption of "bear" attacks, and a hasty liquidation of stocks by pools and frightened investors, many of whom had been led to believe that money would go no higher than 6 per cent.

The credit stringency completely overshadowed the day's business and trade news, most of which was favorable. Among the many corporations which reported earnings in the first half of 1928 well above those of the corresponding period last year were the Texas and Pacific and Missouri Pacific railroads, Wright Aeronautical Corporation, Ludlum and Inland steels, Allis Chalmers and the Wire Wheel Corporation of America.

Montgomery Ward sold down 2 points to 179¾ in the early trading and then climbed to a new high record at 182¾, moving against the general trend.

Case Threshing Machine broke 8½ points, Eastman Kodak 7 and Wright Aeronautical, Commercial Solvents, Radio, International Harvester, Kolster Radio and Dupoint 3 to 4 points. American Car and Foundry and Cuba Cane Sugar common and preferred sold at their lowest prices in years.

While 7½ per cent call money is generally regarded as temporary, there is widespread belief in banking circles that with the normal expansion in fall business and the usual heavy demand for funds in connection with the movement of crops that there is little hope of easy money for some time to come. The average renewal rate of call money in July in the last 38 years has been 3½ per cent.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, July 31.—(AP.)—No sales were reported in the raw sugar market early today. The undertone was easy and sugars were available at 4.08c for Cuban. It is generally believed in the trade here that about 50,000 or 75,000 bags of Cuban sugar were sold from store yesterday to local refiners at prices ranging from 4.11c to 4.08c.

Raw sugar futures opened at declines of 1 to 3 points under September liquidation and selling of later deliveries by houses with European connection, all present crop deliveries touching new low ground for the season. Selling seemed to be promoted by the continued favorable weather advices from abroad, and the easier tone to the spot market. Shorts covered on the decline, however, and partial rallies followed, prices at midday being 1 to 2 points net lower. A prominent European crop authority cabled there was no change in the European beet sugar situation, rains were wanted in most sections, and the crop generally backward except in Belgium, Holland and Hungary, with no immediate danger to the crop.

Withdrawals of refined sugar from consignment points were more liberal. While new business was in fair volume, demand was confined to nearby requirements. Prices were unchanged at 5.55 to 5.60c for fine granulated.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Market Skids on High Money.

Withdrawal of funds from the call money market to meet month-end interest and dividend payments pushed the call money rate up to the highest figure since the June money disturbance and caused some hurried unloading of stocks by the speculative interests. Steel was hammered and yielded easily after making a show of strength on the first two half-point advances in call loans. But when the rate was raised again, the bulls withdrew and permitted the stock to take its own course. The result was a break of about 2 points from the morning high. General Motors also fell back and there was some selling of the Dodge and Chrysler issues on the announcement that the merger had gone through. Buying of Dodge shares to meet the 90 per cent deposit requirement of the Chrysler interests had been a feature of the markets Saturday and yesterday. The money flurry was regarded as a temporary affair, although there was some apprehension as to rates over the next few weeks in view of the crop moving demand just ahead and the increasing mercantile and manufacturing requirements preparatory to the holiday activities.

Westinghouse Air Brake.

Westinghouse Air Brake Company reports for six months to June 30 consolidated net income of $2,930,350 after depreciation and federal taxes, equal to 92 cents on 3,172,111 shares, against net of $5,247,283 or $1.65 on the same capital for the 1927 period. Second quarter net was $1,492,382 or 47 cents a share, against $2,444,455 or 77 cents a share in the 1927 quarter. In the first quarter this year earnings were equal to 45 cents a share on the stock. The issue is on a regular $2 annual dividend basis at present.

Prairie Pipe Slumps.

Prairie Pipe Line suffered a wide break on the New York Curb as a result of selling thought to have been induced by the strong competitive position into which the Sinclair Pipe Line has been built. According to observations of oil men, Prairie will lose a considerable portion of Standard Oil of Indiana's business, due to diversion of the latter to Sinclair. The Sinclair line is jointly owned by Standard Oil of Indiana and Sinclair Consolidated Oil.

Cuba Cane Under Pressure.

Cuba Cane Sugar preferred broke to new low ground with the Street hearing rumors of probable reorganization. There are approximately $50 back dividends accumulated on the issue. The company has $25,000,000 of bonds due January 1, 1930. Doubt of the company's ability to meet this obligation is the basis of the reorganization talk.

Atlantic Continues Advance.

Atlantic Refining forged ahead to a further new high today. Strength in Atlantic is due partly to improved earnings coincident with better conditions in the refined oil markets. The issue has also been helped along by recent reports in banking circles that a large block of the stock, estimated at upwards of 75,000 shares, presumably all or part of the Rockefeller holdings, had been acquired by a banking group. This was considered in some quarters as preliminary to a splitup of Atlantic's 500,000 common shares, probably on a four-for-one basis. The company reported net profits equal to $2.01 a common share in the first quarter of 1928, which compared with a loss of $2,679,758 in the first quarter of 1927.

Erie Preferred Dividends in 1929.

It is reported that the Erie Railroad plans resumption of dividends on the preferred stock early in 1929. No payments have been made since 1907. Erie is planning to exchange a new 6 per cent preferred stock for the two existing preferred issues. There will be $43,000,000 of the new stock issued or only sufficient to replace the present amount of preferred stock outstanding. However, next year there may be an offering of the stock to the general public. Erie directors are expected to submit the plan to their stockholders after a meeting on August 24. They hope to have the approval in time for the new stock to be issued late in 1928. It is planned to begin dividends on the new stock in the first quarter of 1929.

Copper Market Steady.

Domestic consumers have begun to buy September copper in moderate volume, and as a result a fair amount of domestic business is being done quietly. Foreign buying is in moderate tonnage, with fair volume of business for the month indicated, but nowhere nearly as much as for recent months. Indication is that buying will continue quietly and in moderate volume for the next few weeks, with buying on foreign and domestic account sufficient to keep the tone healthy. Electrolytic copper for domestic shipment is 14⅝ cents a pound, delivered to end of October. European destinations are at levels corresponding with 15 cents c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre and London.

Likes Ward for Long Pull.

Hemphill, Noyes & Co. say: "Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck are acting extremely well. If the present rate of growth of Montgomery Ward continues and we believe it will as expansion plans are sound, this stock can conservatively be worth $1,000 a share within the next 10 years. Both Sears Roebuck and Montgomery Ward dominate their fields and are now invading the retail chain store and department store fields. Montgomery Ward should sow close to $15 a share this year and Sars Roebuck between $8 and $9 a share." Predictions of this kind explain the unbending attitude of investors, large and small, in their refusal to liquidate holdings despite the many assertions that "stocks are too high."

To Curb Lending by "Others."

Bankers are quite exercized over the fact that the call money market is dominated by loans for the account of "others," and therefore are not entirely within their control. The placing of loans by the banks for others has naturally drained their deposits and the claim is made that the banks are not properly compensated for this service. The matter has been taken up with the Clearing House and it seems probable that $100,000 will be made the minimum for such a loan and that the banks will endeavor to raise the rate for their services.

Federal Reserve Objectives.

The Federal Reserve objective in raising rediscount rates has been to check the flow of bank credit into brokers' loans. It has been far more successful in doing this than the total volume of brokers' loans indicates. New York banks, which are always most sensitive to basic banking needs, have drastically cut down on brokers' loans, and out-of-town banks, though not reducing their loans commensurately, have checked the expansion. This banking correction has been offset pretty much by the expansion of the so-called outlaw loans from non-banking sources—from wealthy individuals, corporations and foreign governments. If the idea of the Federal Reserve was to step beyond the technical responsibilities and discourage inflation of stock prices, it must be granted that loans from non-banking sources contribute equally to speculation.

Stock Dividends Issued Largely as Convenience, Do Not Increase Wealth—Methods Explained.

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

WHAT is a stock dividend? Why is it declared? What effect does it have on the company? These are questions asked frequently enough to make an explanation worth while.

There is one fundamental fact which should be remembered. Stock dividends do not create new wealth. If you have a pie you can cut it into two or a hundred pieces and still have no more pie. The same is true of stocks.

COMMON stocks are certificates of ownership of that part of the assets of a corporation which would be left after the settlement of all its debts. The holders of common stock are paid dividends from the portion of earnings left after paying all of the expenses and the interest and dividends due to the senior classes of bonds and stocks.

IT IS customary for corporations to pay only part of the earnings in dividends to the common stockholders. The remainder goes into surplus funds for a rainy day or for improvements.

During the course of years this policy sometimes builds up a large surplus which is earning an increased return for the stock.

IF THE directors desire they can leave the capitalization unchanged and merely increase the dividend return. But often greater earnings have increased the market price of the stock to such a point that the value of the units is inconveniently large.

A more active market and wider distribution can be secured for a stock selling at $50 a share than for one selling over $100 a share. The directors may also wish to give the stockholders some evidence of this increased wealth which has been accumulated.

A STOCK dividend is a simple method of doing this. It consists of distributing additional stock to the original holders. The value of the old stock plus the new stock is exactly the same after the distribution has taken place as the value oof the original stock before the dividend was paid.

THE quotations for the stock recognize this fact when the stock sells ex-dividend. A stock on which a 50 per cent stock dividend has been declared which was selling at 150 would sell ex-dividend at about 100. The owner of two shares of the original stock would have an investment worth $300 consisting of two shares worth $150 each before the distribution or three shares worth $100 each after the payment.

IF THE same rate of cash dividend is continued after the stock dividend his return in the future will be increased. It is this fact together with the improved marketability of the stock which usually causes an advance in quotations when a stock dividend is expected.

A SPLIT up of stock by which several shares of new stock are given for each share of old stock may be regarded as a form of stock dividend. Splits of shares, however, do not always carry the same dividend rate on the new stock so that the only change in the status of the holder may be in the ownership of more marketable units.

Splits often are accompanied by a change in the par value of the stock which is merely a matter of bookkeeping.

The par value of a preferred stock or bond represents its limited share in the ownership of the company. The par value of a common stock is meaningless except as a convenience in accounting.

A FEW companies are in the habit of paying a small annual or even a quarterly stock dividend to represent the increase in the equity of the common stock.

THE amount of stock which a company can issue is limited by its charter. At the formation of the company a definite amount of stock is authorized. Either all or a part of this stock may be issued.

If unissued but authorized stock is held in the company treasury it may be paid out in stock dividends subject to the laws of the state in which the company is incorporated.

The authorized stock can be increased by the approval of the stockholders at the annual meeting or at a special meeting called by the directors for the purpose.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, July 31.—Contrary to expectations, receipts of corn in Chicago today proved small, but prices nevertheless underwent an early setback. Leading holders of July delivery of corn were quoted as saying that there was no desire to rush the market up. Opening at 1¼c decline to ⅝c advance, corn values soon underwent a general sag. Wheat and oats were also easy, with wheat starting unchanged to 1¼c off, and later receding all around. Provisions held steady.

At noon corn was ⅝c to 1⅝c net higher and wheat ¼c to ⅞c off.

With this the last day in which to fill July contracts, predictions of an end-of-the-month squeeze in prices received no confirmation in the earlier dealings. Forecast, too, that arrivals of corn in Chicago today would again be on a large scale turned out also opposite to what was looked for, total receipts being estimated at only 325 cars, whereas 1,000 cars had been talked of. Deliveries on July corn contracts, however, were large, an early total being 1,311,000 bushels.

Instead of evidence of a last-ditch struggle between bulls and bears, lessened tension was apparent almost as soon as the corn market opened. This was attributed largely to statement that although the bulls expected to pay for all corn which had been bought for July delivery, no intention existed of going to extremes today in efforts to lift the market. It was added that holders of July corn contracts were satisfied that there would be a good demand for the corn later.

FEAR FUGITIVES HAVE RIFLE

BELLEFONTE, Pa., July 31.—(AP.)—Four convicts, who escaped from Rockview Penitentiary last Thursday, were still at large today. Prison guards have concentrated their search in the vicinity of Milroy, about 25 miles south of here, in a mountainous section, where it reported the prisoners were seen Sunday night.

The men, Harry Allen, William C. De Young, John Cetinski and Robert Ruane are believed to be armed with at least one rifle.

P. R. R. STOCK AUTHORIZED

WASHINGTON, July 31.—The Pennsylvania Railroad was authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission today to issue $17,500,000 of capital stock, consisting of 350,000 shares of $50 par value each.

The stock will be offered for subscription at par for cash to officers and employes of the railroad and its subsidiaries, and the proceeds from the sale will be used for corporate purposes.

MINISTER LEAVES ESTATE TO WIDOW

The estate of the Rev. Dr. Appleton Bash, 1301 Peermont avenue, Dormont, who died three weeks ago in Knoxville, Tenn., while conducting a campaign for the Tennessee Wesleyan College, was left to his widow, Lizzie May Bash, in his will, probated today. No estimate of the value of the estate was given.

Jennie S. Creese, 735 Orchard avenue, Avalon, left her $10,000 estate to her sister, Alice E. McCaig.

MOTHER SERIOUSLY ILL; MISSING SON IS SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Pa., July 31.—Because of the serious illness of Mrs. H. L. Vankirk, who lives near Washington, her husband offers $100 reward for information concerning the location of their son, D. Wade Vankirk, 17, and William Ward, 19, a neighbor boy, who left last Tuesday.

THE PRODUCE MARKET

The movement of fruit and vegetables at the local wholesale produce district was good today. All fruit and vegetables were sold at about unchanged quotations.

The poultry market was about steady, with the demand fair, supplies liberal and quotations unchanged.

Butter, eggs and cheese continued firm at unchanged quotations.

Car lot supplies were heavy, a total of 726 cars being on track. Arrivals included 10 cars of apples, 5 cabbage, 24 cantaloupes, 1 celery, 5 cucumbers, 13 grapes, 5 lemons, 2 lettuce, 5 onions, 7 oranges, 59 peaches, 5 pears, 5 peppers, 13 potatoes, 11 tomatoes and 55 watermelons.

MORE ACTIVE TRADING NOTED IN FUEL STOCKS

Trading was on a slightly large scale in the early session of the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today with prices showing some irregularity but holding relatively close to the levels prevailing on the close last night.

Harbison-Walker came into the market early at a decline of 2 points, selling at 201 as against the last previous sale at 203. There was nothing to account for the recession other than that bids were scarce. The company last week reported earnings for the first half of 1928 at slightly above those for the corresponding period last year.

Lone Star Gas was handled in odd lots on a small fractional decline, but not much of the stock came out. Earnings for the second quarter and the first half of 1928 are understood to make a favorable comparison and there have been no withdrawals of the buying orders which have been in the market for stock around current levels for some time. Arkansas common and preferred both held at or near their previous closings, the former at slightly under $3 a share and the latter a little above $7.

Around mid-day there was a little flurry in the fuel stocks, but prices failed to advance on the increased buying. One house took about 1,000 Arkansas common at 2⅞, but there appeared to be plenty of stock to meet the order. Lone Star slipped back slightly, but the support was maintained.

In the miscellaneous specialties the trading was light, with prices showing a tendency to fall back. Suburban Electric Development changed hands at 18, down a point from last week's top figure and a fractional decline from yesterday's close.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, July 31.—The cotton market opened steady today at a decline of 16 to 19 points, active months selling 19 to 22 points net lower under liquidation, combined with local and southern selling on the relatively easy showing of Liverpool and favorable weather reports.

The decline brought in extensive covering or buying on scale-down orders, which steadied the market around 20.28c for December and caused rallies of 6 or 7 points from the lowest by the end of the first hour.

Private cables reported continental liquidation in Liverpool absorbed by some covering and trade calling at the decline, and that business in cotton cloths and yarns was slow in developing because of distrust in current prices.

A private report placing the condition of the crop at 70.3 and the indicated yield at 15,110,000 bales was followed by active and more general selling in the forenoon. The figures were above expectations, and prices broke into new low ground for the movement, active months selling 36 to 40 points net lower. December contracts declined to 20.10c, a loss of about 260 points compared with the high price touched the end of last month. Selling tapered off at these figures, but prices at midday were within 4 or 5 points of the lowest.

THIEF GETS $1,000 LOOT FROM CHEST IN HOME

Theft of a cedar chest, containing wearing apparel, jewelry and silverware valued at $1,000, and a $200 talking machine from the home of Elizabeth Steindel, of 410 Jackson street, North Side, was reported to police last night. A neighbor reported that she had seen a woman enter the house shortly after noon yesterday.

-to Residents of the South Hills-

WHILE the geographical locations of the South Hills and the Mellon National Bank remain unchanged, a remarkable engineering achievement has brought them many minutes nearer to each other. Eliminating hair-pin curves, a long climb over Mt. Washington, and patience-trying blockades on Smithfield Street Bridge, the Liberty Tubes and Bridge have cut almost in half the driving time from South Hills.

The Mellon National Bank is only three short blocks from the north bridge plaza, making the bank especially convenient to South Hill residents who drive in.

You are invited to take advantage of the facilities of the bank and your account, large or small, will be welcome here.

2. All bids must be made upon the prepared form of proposal to be obtained at the office of the Contract Clerk, Room 429, City-County Building, on and after July 28th, 1928, upon presentation of receipt for deposit required for contract plans and specifications. Proposal containing any additions, erasures, omissions, alterations, additions not called for, or additional bid of any kind, may be rejected as informal, and no bidder will be allowed to withdraw his bid.

3 Bids must be accompanied by a bond in the amount of fifty (50%) per centum of the estimated cost of the proposed improvement, duly and legally executed with a surety or trust company, which has complied with the City Ordinances relating thereto; said ond shall be in the form of bond furnished by the City of Pittsburgh.

4. Blueprint copies of the contract plans, and specifications may be obtained at the Bureau of Engineering, Room 440, City-County Building. Intending bidders are hereby notified that contracts for all of the foregoing improvements, in so far as applicable, will be executed under the provisions of the New Edition of June, 1928, of the Contract for Construction, of the Bureau of Engineering, Department of Public Works. Deposits in the amount of $5.00 will be required for each set of specifications for the improvement for the Bureau of Water, and $2.00 for each blueprint copy of contract plans for each of the other improvements. Deposits in the amount of $2.00 will also be required for each copy of the New Edition of Contract for Construction. Receipts for said deposits will be given and the money refunded upon return of the plans and specifications in good condition and without marking within 10 days of the date bids are opened.

5. The Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Works reserve the right to increase or decrease the amount or class of any portion of the work which they deem necessary, and to reject any or all proposals, or to accept any proposal which they deem it to the interest of the City so to do.

CHARLES H. KLINE,
Mayor.

FLINT, BELIEVING HIS DAUGHTER GUILTY, THREW A BOMBSHELL INTO THE WORKS BY CLAIMING THAT HE WAS THE THIEF
WHEN I TOOK YOUR RINGS, I INTENDED SENDING THEM AWAY WHEN I GOT OFF DUTY, BUT WHEN THE THEFT WAS DISCOVERED I WAS AFRAID OF BEING SEARCHED SO I PUT THEM IN THE LOCKER SO IF THEY WERE DISCOVERED THERE, THE BLAME WOULD NOT REST ON ME.
SO YOU PUT THEM IN MY LOCKER TO CAST SUSPICION ON ME? — YOU TRIED YOUR BEST TO PIN AN AFFAIR ON ME WITH MR NESOR — NOW YOU TRY TO MAKE A CRIMINAL OUT OF ME! — YOU SHOULD BE ASHAMED TO MAKE TROUBLE FOR A POOR DEFENSELESS GIRL, YOU CONTEMPTIBLE PERSON!
JUST WHO'S WHO AROUND THIS HOTEL? NOW YOU COME ALONG AND BRAG ABOUT BEING THE THIEF — GET THE THING SETTLED AMONGST YOURSELVES — SOMEBODY IS GOING TO PAY THE PENALTY!
JUST KEEP HIM HERE TILL I SOAK MY HAND-CUFFS IN KEROSENE — THEY RUSTED AND ARE STUCK SHUT.
IT IS CERTAINLY A GREAT SACRIFICE FOR FLINT TO MAKE FOR HIS DAUGHTER WHEN IT IS SO MISCONSTRUED — WILL SHE EVER FIND OUT THAT HE'S HER DADDY AND LEARN TO RESPECT HIM? IT DONT LOOK THAT WAY NOW.

City Awards Work Jobs; County Is Preparing To

In awarding contracts for improvements totaling nearly $300,000, of which $271,341 is for street work, Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, begins activities on a number of projects of betterment which will be welcomed in the districts where the work is to be done. It is announced all will be expedited so that they may be completed before fall.

The county is expected to get to work very soon, too, on some of the projects authorized in the recent people's bond issue. The Commissioners will decide Wednesday whether bonds will be sold at this time, and in what amount, $4,300,000 of the authorized total of $43,680,000 having been tentatively assigned for the road and bridge work now contemplated.

The people wish to see public improvements, both in the city and county, go forward as rapidly as possible, and it is hoped that delay occasioned by necessary preliminaries may be cut to the minimum.

Some One Must Pay

Don't Nag the Little Fellow.

Senator Capper, of Kansas, thinks the Republican party should spend less than $3,000,000, nobody be allowed to give more than $1,000.

The campaign funds must be big enough on both sides to pay legitimate campaign expenses, and $3,000,000 won't do it.

To tell a man that he can't contribute more than $1,000 to what he believes to be good government, whether Democratic or Republican, seems unnecessary. A few big men contributing $20,000 apiece or more would not feel it. Why badger tens of thousands of little men, including government employes, to get a few dollars out of them?

Great Passages from the Bible

"The Glory of God"

(Psalm 19)

THE heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament sheweth his handywork.

Day unto day uttereth speech, and night unto night sheweth knowledge.

There is no speech nor language, where their voice is not heard.

Their line is gone out through all the earth, and their words to the end of the world. In them hath he set a tabernacle for the sun.

Which is as a bridegroom coming out of his chamber, and rejoiceth as a strong man to run a race.

His going forth is from the end of the heaven, and his circuit unto the ends of it: and there is nothing hid from the heat thereof.

The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul: the testimony of the Lord is sure, making wise the simple.

The statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart: the commandment of the Lord is pure, enlightening the eyes.

The fear of the Lord is clean, enduring for ever: the judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.

More to be desired are they than gold, yea, than much fine gold: sweeter also than honey and the honeycomb.

Moreover by them is thy servant warned: and in keeping of them there is great reward.

Who can understand his errors? cleanse thou me from secret faults.

Keep back thy servant also from presumptuous sins; let them not have dominion over me: then shall I be upright, and I shall be innocent from the great transgression.

Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

PEOPLE get awful funny about their food sometimes. They get all kinds of fads, like eating raw wheat and weeds and such. Some people that eat in restaurants won't touch a bite till they've had a pint of hot water, and others do all sorts of queer things for their health.

One guy, during a convention in a town, was sore because he ordered liver and bacon and nobody brought it. As he was looking around he saw a customer at a table behind him going through funny motions. He was one of these food and health nuts, and he was doing exercise partly under the table and partly out in the aisle.

The one that was waiting for his liver and bacon says, "What's the joke, kid?"

"No joke at all. I do this for my liver."

So the first guy started jumping up on the table and kicking the dishes off.

"Here, what's the matter?" yelled the manager, coming running.

"Nothing at all," he says, "only I'm doing this for my liver and bacon!"

Effective

A SOMERSET farmer on holiday in London was charged two shillings for a shave and haircut.

Stroking his chin in reflection, he remarked to the barber upon the horde of flies covering the ceiling and walls.

The proprietor replied that all the usual remedies had failed to get rid of the pests, whereupon the farmer replied that for two shillings he would tell him a cure.

The bargain being struck, the farmer remarked: "Tha's only got to get a pair of steps, catch 'em one at a time, gie 'em a shave and haircut, charge 'em two bob apiece, and they'll come here no more!"

New York Day by Day

by O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, July 31.—The last flutter of flapperism seems near in New York. What was once a big noise is now a thin whisper. The old-fashioned girl is having a revival, and to be a prude is considered smarter than being flippant.

Smart cafes report a decided slump among those young girls who gathered at luncheon tables and drank themselves into blurry hilarity. No party was considered in full cry until a generous round of cocktails had been served, and anyone who didn't indulge was a Kansas-sized wet blanket.

Nor was a party "well thrown" unless at least one flapper was found not later than midnight enjoying her 40 winks among the leftover dishes in the kitchen sink. Afternoon tea was just an excuse for a start on the evening debauch. The dry party was paradoxically a washout.

Flapperism lasted long enough for a number of matrimonically eligible maids to come to the sudden realization they had oddles of playful boy friends, but none of them was insisting upon a romp to the altar. Fun is fun, but there is no particular fun in being an old maid.

It was noticeable quite a number of high stepping lads were absenting themselves from synthetic merry-making. The next heard of them they were domiciled in a cottage out where the pavement ends—married to those plain girls who do their own housework.

Girls who continued the pace wound up in a Connecticut village at midnight to marry some fortune-hunting nobleman with a cluster of adenoids and a faked family crest. And a few weeks later papa had to cough up a big chunk of the family fortune to get rid of a worthless son-in-law.

During all this heep-dee-doo there were many girls who maintained a maidenly calm and poise. The frivolities of a hectic generation apparently did not interest them. They were homebodies. And the pendulum swung back and they came into their own and are living happily ever afterward.

Artists and writers are reputed hopelessly dumb about finance. And yet it is whispered Clarence Buddington Kelland was recently on the right side of the market for a sum totaling nearly a million. And Arthur William Brown, the illustrator, "obeyed an impulse" that made him richer by more than $150,000.

In the top tower of the Heckshér Building is a luxurious studio occupied by Russell Patterson, who came out of Chicago a few years ago to rap timidly at the doors of art editors to inquire if there was any "arting" he could do at home or on the premises. Among other things he has collected in his New York sojourn are a yacht, an imported motor car with a four-tone siren, and the impression New York is rather kind to strangers.

* * *

But success in New York is not always so sweet to the stranger. There is, for instance, Laurence Stallings, who came here permanently disabled fighting for his country and in poverty and within a year became a foremost book critic, reaped a fortune in royalty from a play and movie and authored a best-selling novel. It might be supposed his address would be New York from then on. But he recently pulled up stakes and with the proceeds of his clean-up purchased a farm in North Carolina, where he expects to reside for some time to come.

* * *

And there are innumerable persons who came here from other cities, made quick fortunes and will now be found occupying their villas in Southern France, wondering how people endure New York.

* * *

But all this makes New York different. Nobody cares whether you come here, how long you stay, how much money you make or when and where you go.

About all New York asks of the new-comer is for him to mind his own business. And cheer for Jimmy Walker when he arrives late. And the latter is becoming one of the favorite things many are beginning to hate to do.

When Mary Cuts Her Curls

By DR. FRANK CRANE.

The momentum of the human race is enormous.

Young people have an idea that the world wants to be reformed, that it is waiting for somebody to show us how to get rid of the difficulties that beset us.

But alas! The one thing that the world does not want to do is to change. The Chinese resents any innovation that conflicts with the customs of his ancestors. The Arab does not want to live in a house because his forbears always dwelt in tents. The deeds of our ancestors not only give us stability in remembering them, but they sometimes tangle the feet of progress.

The fundamentalist resents the proposals of the modernist. After all, about the best reason for doing a thing is that we always have done it. The reason for our any action is like the reason given for having cold ham and hot beans at a church supper in Worcester, Mass. They always have had them.

Humanity thinks, perhaps not without reason, that it is better to bear the evils that we have than fly to others that we know not of.

It was a bold stroke when Henry Ford abandoned his model T and made a new one.

But all these questions fade into insignificance to the minds of millions of people, when they hear that Mary Pickford has cut her curls!

What does that mean?

Heretofore she has always worn ringlets and is known from Ponkapog to Petsh as a little girl. As such she has become the world's sweetheart.

Now she has grown up and will have to make her reputation all over again.

It is no little thing to scrap a fame that has been builded up with much care and to start out for a new one. It is a question in the minds of many whether she will hold her own in the new incarnation.

With those curls went a reputation that means millions of dollars. Will her new reputation be as valuable? We hope it will, for every one we ever heard of is fond of Mary.

But the followers of John Alexander Dowie, who insist that the world is not round but flat, and all those who object to the new standpoint of evolution will doubtless raise the cry that we are lowering our standards.

Something or other is certain, we don't know what, but we feel that we are living in parlous times.

It isn't such a knock as it used to be, this being called a lounge lizard. Lizard skin shoes are selling for $35 a pair, some for $50. Looks like some of 'em are worth more dead than alive.

Dorothy Jardon says that actors and actresses are barred at Bailey's Beach. That society is up stage.

Actresses are usually successful because they are the "pick of the pack." She can't expect the ladies to go around kissing competition like that.

An actress is suing in Los Angeles because her hair turned green, when she asked the beauty parlor to make it blonde.

If God made it brown, and the parlor failed to improve upon his handiwork, should somebody pay the girl or call in a psychiatrist? Touching-up hair to keep it the way it was, originally, is one thing, and trying to make blondes brunettes, and brunettes blondes is another.

What women need is something to make dumb ones smart.

A colored woman discovered something to make kinky hair straight, but no white woman has been able to discover anything to make straight hair curly, except the so-called permanent wave machine. If someone discovers a curling liquid it will then be the fashion to use the hair straightened. Women are like that.

A Los Angeles preacher is on trial by his congregation which proposes to oust him. They cite a poem he wrote to the organist. After reading the alleged poem the lady organist should have saved them the trouble.

A Philadelphia paper has this headline: "DEAD HUSBAND RETURNS HOME." On the book page of the paper it tells about the new book: "Dead Lovers are Faithful Lovers."

That's probably when he came home!

Dobbin Comes Back

IN the face of the fact that automobiles are now more numerous and cheaper than ever before, the price of horses and mules has recently taken a sharp upward turn. In fact, it looks as if the horse was actually started on his way back.

From 1900 to 1928, horses and mules in New England fell from 380,000 to 231,000; in New York and Michigan from 1,260,000 in 1914 to 830,000 this year; in Illinois from 1,659,000 in 1913 to 1,045,000 this year; in Iowa, from 1,674,000 in 1913, to 1,170,000 this year.

The South, slower to adopt tractor power, did better; but about 1920 its horse power began to fall off. Recently, however, in nearly all parts of the country the demand has been looking up, prices are better, and the disposition to breed is strong.

In fact the Department of Agriculture believes that in the next few years there will be an acu perhaps a serious, shortage horses. Apparently there is no mo chance of the horse becoming e tinct than there is of the autom bile market being saturated.
